TWO WILL BE ABSENT FROM THE CAUCUS

Excepting Them, Penrose Counts on Solid Party Vote for Re-Election.

BOTH SENATORS IN QUAKER CITY

Quay Sees Pennypacker, but Will Spend Thanksgiving in Washington.

SURPRISES ON CABINET

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.

Senator Penrose, accompanied by W. A. Andrews, his secretary, arrived here today from San Lucie, Fla. Senator Quay, who came as far as Washington with them last night, reached here this evening.

Col. Quay took a cab at the Broad street station, but did not go to his hotel. It was regarded as a good guess that he spent the evening with Gov.-Elect Pennypacker.

"You sent out letters while in Florida asking members-elect to support you for re-election, did you not?" I asked Senator Penrose tonight.

"Yes."

"Have you changed your mind in regard to being a candidate since those letters were written?"

"No. I have not changed my mind. I am a candidate, and expect to be elected."

"Have you received replies to the letters sent from San Lucie?"

"I have a large number on my desk, probably one from nearly, if not all, of those to whom I wrote, but I have not yet had time to read them. The Republican majority in the next senate and house is very large and I have heard of only two members who are likely to stay out of the senatorial caucus. They are Senator Stewart of Franklin and Representative Hitchcock of Tioga. What Representative Edwards of Bucks will do, I cannot predict. Stewart, I understand, does not think he can consistently enter the caucus, and Hitchcock declares he is against any candidate favored by the Republican state organization."

The senator's attention was called to an alleged interview with Senator Weiss of Lebanon, in which he was quoted as saying he would not go into the caucus. Mr. Penrose said he had been told that Senator Weiss' statement was published in a garbled form.

"There are some matters which Chairman Quay must wind up at state headquarters," continued Mr. Penrose, "and I expect him over in a day or two."

Both senators are as fit as a fiddle, physically. Senator Penrose took on quite a bunch of flesh, so much, in fact, that he regrets the absence of opposition in his senatorial candidacy. He said tonight a good race might reduce his weight.

Senator Penrose met tonight a number of senators and representatives at his home. He said that, so far as he had been informed, Col. Quay had no intention of spending Thanksgiving in Pittsburgh or Beaver; that as his family is in Washington, he presumed he would be there Thursday.

There are likely to be some surprises when the cabinet is announced. Durham, who will succeed himself as insurance commissioner, is the only sure thing in sight tonight. It is semi-officially stated that neither Col. John W. Frazer nor J. Allen Leeds will be appointed secretary to the governor.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

DEAD TRAIN ROBBER IS QUOTED AT $1,000

Western Railroad Companies Set Up Mark for Their Employes to Shoot At.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Train robbery as an industry is to be throttled through concerted action of railroad and express companies operating from headquarters scattered throughout the middle west.

The Davenport robbery of the fast Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train was the straw that broke the camel's back. The railroad company, in conjunction with the United States Express Company, issued a joint reward today of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the men who robbed their train early Saturday morning.

"We have given all our trainmen to understand," said E. A. Delano, general manager of the Burlington road, "and also the express messengers, that a dead train robber is worth $1,000 to any of them. All of our conductors and trainmen carry revolvers and we are encouraging them to learn to shoot straight."

ALLEGED BRIBERY CASE POSTPONED

Both Sides Were Ready for Legal Battle at Clarion.

OBJECTIONS RAISED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clarion, Pa., Nov. 24.—The celebrated case against Assemblyman J. A. F. Hoy, R. G. Yingling and James Pinks, trustees in the Clarion State Normal school, citing criminal charges in connection with the last appropriation to the institution, will not be tried until the February term of court. When the case was called today the counsel for the defense objected to the grand jurors, who had been drawn for the present term, and the proceedings were quashed.

It was apparent that both sides were prepared for a sharp legal battle. Objection was made by the defense to Judge H. R. Wilson sitting on the bench in the trial on the grounds that he was a stockholder in the school. This was overruled and the counsel for the prosecution took a hand, objecting to the district attorney acting in his official capacity. An affidavit was filed by the prosecution in which L. T. Hutchinson declared that District Attorney A. R. Reinsel had gone to Kittanning and solicited influence to get Mr. Hutchinson to withdraw the charges. The court granted a rule on Mr. Reinsel to show cause why the objection should not be sustained.

The case is still in a muddled state. The opinion is expressed here that the defendants desired the trial postponed in order to effect a settlement. District Attorney Reinsel declared tonight that the statements of the prosecution regarding his alleged trip to Kittanning were untrue.

SCHWAB IN PARIS.

His Parents Expected There on Kron Prinz Wilhelm.

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(Copyright Cable.)—Charles M. Schwab arrived at the Hotel Ritz yesterday from Cannes to await the arrival of his parents and the mother of Mrs. Schwab from America. Mrs. Schwab went to Cherbourg to meet the elder Mr. and Mrs. Schwab and Mrs. Ward, who are passengers on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Mr. Schwab, I am told by those who have seen him, is looking very well. He is not seeing many callers and will be in Paris only a few days. The steam yacht Margarita will remain at Cannes until his return.

PASSENGER TRAINS RUN THROUGH FLAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The American this morning says: Passenger trains on the Central Railroad of New Jersey dashing through sheets of flame and blinding smoke was the spectacle witnessed by an immense crowd yesterday at Elizabeth, N. J., when the old wooden bridge which spans Cherry street caught fire. Engineers, seeing the fire, whistled and made a wild run through the blaze. Passengers were panic stricken.

COAL LAND SOLD FOR $1,200,000

Deal Involves Six Thousand Acres of Pittsburgh Vein.

A $2,000,000 COMPANY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Indiana, Pa., Nov. 24.—By a deal consummated here today, one of the largest blocks of untouched Pittsburgh coal in Western Pennsylvania changed hands for a consideration approximating $1,200,000. The transfer of the coal is but a preliminary to the formation of a mining company with a capital of $2,000,000, which will begin in the spring to develop the field, and the construction of a new railroad by the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh.

The coal land lies in Young and Conemaugh townships this county and purchased last year by M. C. Watson for William Hogsett of Uniontown and James White of Irwin. The 6,000 acres were bought at about $100 per acre.

The entire block passes into the control of the new company at a price approximating $200 per acre. The new owners comprise men prominent in the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal and Iron Company, the industrial ally of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad.

The railroad company has started a corps of surveyors to seek a route to tap the field. They are working now on a line along Crooked creek, which leaves their main branch through this county about five miles north of this place.

Another route is to be surveyed from Indiana, running due west, and after the surveys are completed, which will be some time in the early spring, the railroad officials will make their choice and construction will be started at once. The road in either case will be about 16 miles long. The new company, which will develop the coal, expects to have the mines in operation within the next eight months.

This block is the last large tract of coal in the Pittsburgh vein, that remains in this county under independent control, and is one of the last big blocks in Western Pennsylvania. The price, $200 per acre, establishes a new record for coal lands in this county.

Representatives of the new control announce that the coal will all be shipped over the B., R. & P. to the northern markets for domestic consumption.

THOMAS MULLEN IS NEAR TO DEATH

Popular City Assessor Is Critically Ill at the Mercy Hospital.

City Asessor Thomas Mullen is dangerously ill at Mercy hospital. There was a slight improvement in his condition last night, but his attendants say there are grave doubts about his recovery.

Some time ago it was necessary to amputate one of his legs above the knee. He stood the operation well, and it was thought that he would recover. Yesterday morning his condition became alarming. For a time it was thought that death would come at any minute. Toward evening he rallied and now has a chance of living.

Mr. Mullen, when quite young, injured a bone in his leg. Last summer he had a portion of the bone removed. Later it became necessary to amputate the leg. Yesterday dozens of people went to the hospital to inquire about the condition of their friend. He is one of the best known and most popular men in the city.

GOULD BREAKS WITH HAWLEY AND HARRIMAN

Big Financiers Begin Open Battle for Control of Colorado Fuel.

CHARGES MADE OF BAD FAITH

Entire Party Originally Together in Fight for Proxies of Stockholders.

ALL DAY BOMBARDMENT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 24.

In the fight for control of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company sensational developments followed fast today. A rupture between the members of the Hawley-Harriman-Gould proxy committee was announced, and with it a situation has been precipitated which may become portentious in its influence on the harmonious relations of the Gould railroad syndicate on the one hand and the Harriman and Hawley syndicate on the other.

At the close of business tonight the hopes entertained in Wall street that the breach between these two important interests would speedily be closed were rudely dissipated, and it was announced that a bitter fight would be waged between them for the control of the Colorado company. There are now in the field three contesting interests, each seeking the support of the stockholders at the election, which takes place December 10 in Denver.

Wall street banking houses and brokerage firms today received a circular signed by George J. Gould, in which he publicly repudiated the action of Edwin Hawley and E. H. Harriman in making him a party to a call for proxies for the annual meeting. Mr. Gould said that the call was made without his knowledge or consent and that it was done without his authority. He, therefore, makes the request that all proxies bearing his name and those of Hawley and Harriman be revoked.

To this charge of bad faith on the part of Messrs. Hawley and Harriman a most caustic reply is made. These gentlemen, in an open letter, tell of conferences between Mr. Gould and themselves, which, in view of the latter's circular of repudiation, places him in a peculiar light. At these conferences, according to the open letter, Mr. Gould agreed to join with Messrs. Hawley and Harriman in a request for proxies in an effort to wrest control of the Colorado Fuel property away from its present management.

In private conversation Mr. Hawley states that there are several witnesses who can be called upon to swear to the truth of the statement that Mr. Gould agreed to act with the Hawley committee. The open letter also calls attention to the fact that a printed form of proxy was presented for consideration, which, it is announced, was approved by all, including Mr. Gould.

At this particular meeting Mr. Harriman made some suggestions providing for some slight alterations in the form of the proxy, to which Mr. Gould lent his approval. Both Mr. Hawley and Mr. Harriman, under these considerations, say they understand the action of Mr. Gould in formally announcing that the circular call for proxies was sent out without his knowledge and consent.

NO SETTLED POLICY YET FOR CONGRESS

Many Big Leaders See the President, Including Henderson and Cannon.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 14.

Two big men in the Republican party in congress, the speaker of this house and the leading candidate for speaker of the next house, are in town.

Both Mr. Henderson and Mr. Cannon express the opinion, in conversation with callers, that the work of this session probably would be limited to action on the general appropriations bills. Both, however, left a wide reservation, dependent upon the president's wishes.

Senators and representatives now in the city infer from their talks at the White House that the policy of the coming session is not yet outlined fully, either in the minds of the congressional leaders or in the mind of the executive, whose wishes are usually taken into account by the leaders in laying out the plans for the session. This week will bring many conferences on the subject, and by the first Monday in December it will be pretty generally known what congress is likely to do.

President Roosevelt saw a large number of congressional callers today at different times and talked with them individually and informally. Today's callers included Senators Allison, Quay, Cullom, Fairbanks, Stewart and Gibson, Speaker Henderson, Representatives Cannon, Hepburn, Landis, Boutelle, McClellan and Brownlow.

CHARLES W. METZGAR.

JOHN DILLON HAS RELAPSE

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—John Dillon, the Irish leader, who became ill yesterday at the Grand Pacifice hotel, suffered a relapse tonight. While his physicians say there is little likelihood that his condition will become alarming, they are in almost constant attendance upon him, as they fear another turn for the worse. The engagements of Both Mr. Dillon and Mr. Davis to speak in Canada have been cancelled.

Dr. Hunter Has Many Troubles

Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, United States minister to Guatemala, whose son shot and killed William A. Fitzgerald, a Michigan man, at Guatemala City, has been in more or less hot water officially ever since he accepted the mission to the Central American republic. Dr. Hunter for many years has been a power in Republican politics in Kentucky. He has several times been a candidate for public office, his last effort being an unsuccessful race for United States senator. Several serious complaints have been made against his official conduct in Guatemala, and Leslie Combes of Kentucky has been appointed to succeed him.

LIFE PLEDGED TO MORMONISM

Ministers Say Apostle Smoot Must Act Only for Church.

NO WILL OF HIS OWN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Salt Lake City, Nov. 24.—The Ministerial alliance of Salt Lake today adopted resolutions strongly opposing the proposed election to the United States senate of Reed Smoot, one of the 12 apostles of the Mormon church. A copy of the resolutions will be sent to every ministerial alliance of prominence in the country at once, and also probably to President Roosevelt, every congressman and United States senator and others prominent in political life.

The resolutions, in part, follow:

We protest against this endeavor to elect Apostle Smoot to the United States senate as an endevor to force upon the citizens of Utah a union of the church and the state.

The election of a man who holds the highest office save one in the gift of the Mormon church to the highest office save one in the gift of the people of Utah or of the United States would be a menace to our civilized and religious beliefs. No other church has dared to attempt such an ecclesiastic invasion of congress.

The election of Apostle Smoot for the United States senate would virtually be the election of the will of the Mormon first presidency and 12 apostles to that body.

As a consistent member of the Mormon apostolate Apostle Smoot cannot make an important move without getting permission or taking counsel of the quorum of Mormon high priests, to which he belongs. By virtue of his apostolic vows he must act first as a Mormon apostle and second or third as a citizen of Utah and patriotic American.

We protest against the proposed election of Apostle Smoot to the United States senate because the majority of the Mormon apostolate, to which he belongs and with which he works in harmony, are living in polygamous relations in violation of covenants made to the people of the United States, as well as in violation of the criminal statutes of Utah. The two or three apostles who may be living monogamous lives are obliged to defend the righteousness of the polygamous system of marriage, and to wink at the law-breaking polygamous relation of their fellow apostles.

The Mormon apostolate stands as one man before the community as directly or indirectly encouraging or conniving at the continuance of polygamous relations throughout the Mormon church. The vigorous and rigorous execution of a law like the Edmunds-Tucker law in this state would drive the Mormon church and the majority of its apostles into exile or throw them in prison within 12 months, and Apostle Smoot dare not oppose such polygamous conditions.

Pennsylvanian Dies in Bath Tub.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Nov. 24.—Burt Olson of Smithport, Pa., died tonight as the result of an overdose of morphine. He was found dying in a bath tub in a leading hotel. Papers found indicate that he was a prominent man.

FAHNESTOCK IS CRITICALLY ILL

Little Hope Is Felt for Recovery of County's Sheriff-Elect.

FAMILY SUMMONED

By long distance telephone at 2 o'clock this morning this bulletin on the condition of James M. Fahnestock was obtained by The Gazette from Dr. James McCance at Mt. Clemens:

"There is no change in the condition of Mr. Fahnestock. He is very ill and it is impossible to say whether he will recover."

James M. Fahnestock is critically ill at the Agnew hotel in Mt. Clemens, Mich. Shortly before midnight his physician telephoned to friends in this city that his patient had slight hope of recovery.

Mr. Fahnestock has pneumonia. During the recent campaign, in which he was a successful candidate for sheriff, he contracted a severe cold and was seriously ill for a time. About 10 days ago he went to Mt. Clemens in the hope of restoring his health. Soon after he arrived there he contracted pneumonia, and in his weakened condition he is unable to fight the illness. On Sunday night his sister, Mrs. S. F. McBride, and his physician, Dr. James McCance, were summoned to Mt. Clemens.

James M. Fahnestock.

As Mr. Fahnestock is to be commissioned as sheriff on the first Monday in January, there was much discussion yesterday as to how the office would be filled, in the event of Mr. Fahnestock's death. There was a great difference of opinion. By some it was contended that the coroner would take the office, and others held that the governor would appoint.

Under a decision of Chief Justice Agnew in a similar case from McKean county, Sheriff W. C. McKinley, in the event of the death of Mr. Fahnestock, would serve until January, 1904.

There is no specific provision in the constitution for the appointment to fill a vacancy in the office of sheriff, nor is there any law making special provision therefor. It is said by Chief Justice Agnew in the case of commonwealth vs. King, 85, P. S., 103, in discussing the office of sheriff: "As the term is fixed by the constitution to begin on the first Monday of January following the election, it is the clear constitutional right of the people to elect the successor of the incumbent of an existing term at the general election next preceding the expiration of his term. If the successor does not qualify no vacancy takes place, but the existing term is extended until the successor is duly qualified. * * * The constitution provides for the election of the sheriff in regular succession and leaves no vacancy to be provided for as to term."

TWO KILLED AND 82 HURT DURING RIOT

General Strike Caused Bloodshed in Streets of Havana.

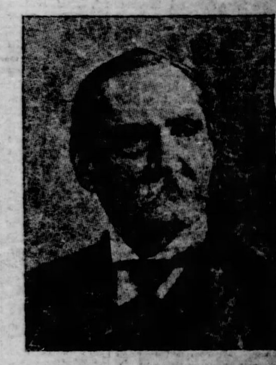
MAYOR BLAMED FOR DISORDER

Police Failed to Act Until Palma Threatened to Intervene.

STREET CARS STONED

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Havana, Nov. 24.—As the result of conflicts of a serious nature today between the police and the men on strike here, two strikers are dead and 82 other persons are wounded. Five of the wounded, one a lieutenant of police, whose throat was cut by a striker, have very severe injuries. Eight other policemen are wounded. The police have the rioters well under control this evening, but every precaution is being taken to prevent a further outbreak of disorder, and all the police and rural guards in the suburbs have been summoned to concentrate in Havana.



T. ESTRADA PALMA, President of Cuba.

The strike, which at first only concerned the cigar workers, became general this morning by the calling out of all trades in sympathy with the cigarmakers. All the trades people closed their doors this morning, clerks, cooks and every class of workmen having obeyed the command of the union, except the motormen and conductors of the electric cars, who refused to join in the general strike.

The trouble began early by the holding up of the electric cars by the strikers, whose wrath was directed against the street railroad employes. Several cars were held up and stoned in the outskirts of the city and the passengers were compelled to walk into Havana, among these being the British and German ministers.

Traffic Was Suspended.

Several cars were wrecked and some motormen and conductors were injured during these occurrences. The carmen, however, continued running their cars until 10 o'clock, when Superintendent Greenwood ordered a suspension of traffic. The employes were willing to remain at work, but the officers of the company, in order to protect the property, deemed it wise to suspend the service. Mr. Greenwood had asked for protection from the civil governor, but the authorities were unable to protect the public vehicles. A mob of strikers drove the men from the western railroad trains during the morning.

The mayor of Havana and the secretary of government, Diego Tamayo, had during the past week openly sympathized with the strikers and had given orders to the police not to use force in dispersing the crowds, and, under these conditions, the police were unable to cope with the strikers.

The situation was approaching a critical point at noon, serious disorders having taken place in front of the palace itself, in which a police officer named Maso and a number of policemen and strikers received injuries, when President Palma sent word to the mayor that unless the city authorities could preserve order and protect the railroad company the state would intervene. The mayor then took drastic measures and issued an edict prohibiting crowds from gathering in the streets and authorizing the chief of police to kill, if such action should be necessary to preserve order.

Police Charged Mob.

A similar show of force early in the morning undoubtedly would have prevented the trouble, but now the strikers had become emboldened and frequent clashes between them and the police oc-

Wild Ducks Caught In Carnegie Mills.

Ten employes of the converting mill of the Carnegie steel works at Braddock will have roast wild duck for dinner today. The birds came to them very much after the fashion of the quail that flew into the camps of the children of Israel, and the steel workers gathered the game off the ground.

The ducks, however, did not go there of their own volition, nor is it likely that any divine inspiration directed them thither. They had left the fly ponds of the north and were bound southward late in the afternoon, when they were attracted by the bright glow from the flames of the converting mill. Dazed by the bright light, they plunged directly into the mill and fell dead on the ground.

Women Who Played Races Are Arrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.) Fifteen women, ranging in age from 62 years to 20, were arrested late this afternoon in a poolroom raid. One woman jumped through an open window upon a shed in the rear of the house and tried to scale a high board fence, but she was captured.

The alleged proprietress was very pretty and extremely well dressed and had a large roll of bank notes. The police took the racing charts, a telephone and other paraphernalia.

Editress is Sued for Libel By Pretty School Teacher.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Eliza Heath, a society reformer, editor of the Mamaroneck Democrat and president of the Mamaroneck vigilance committee, was placed on trial in the West Chester county court today under an indictment charging her with having criminally libeled Miss Anna Lynch, a pretty school teacher of Mamaroneck, by sending her a letter in which she told her, "By God's grace to resign, repent and reform." The case has created great interest in Mamaroneck-on-the-Sound, where the people are divided into factions as the result of the editorials of Mrs. Heath and the action of her vigilance committee in trying to reform the town. The summing up of the trial will begin before Judge Platt tomorrow.

RAILROAD BILLS MAKE PROGRESS

Pennsylvania and Wabash Ordinances Pass Second Reading in Common.

HALF NIGHT IN SESSION

Amendment Requiring Company to Pay All Street Damages on East End Cut-Off—Lively Debate on Smoke Section.

Common council was in session last night until long after midnight, considering the ordinances for the entrance of the Wabash into Pittsburgh and for the branch line of the Pennsylvania railroad from East Liberty to connect with the Allegheny Valley at Brilliant.

After three hours and a half the Pennsylvania ordinance passed second reading after a number of amendments had been attached. Work was begun on the Wabash ordinance at 11:35, after a hard fight to postpone consideration. It also passed second reading.

The most important change made in the Pennsylvania ordinance was an amendment presented by J. C. Wasson, providing that the railroad company shall pay for all damages to private property caused by the change of grade or vacation of streets. A lively debate occurred also over the smoke clause.

Higher Wages for Firemen.

The session was opened by the introduction of new bills. Harry A. Lamb presented an ordinance fixing the wages of firemen. His bill provides that captains shall receive $1,500 annually, lieutenants and engineers $1,320, stokers $1,200, drivers, $1,260, hosemen, employed three years $1,200, two years $1,050, one year $900; laddermen, three years $1,200, two years $1,050; substitutes $840, chief clerk in bureau $1,800.

W. H. Stevenson presented an ordinance which provides that all automobiles or other self-propelling machines shall be equipped with safety signals and lights, shall be licensed with the number of the owner affixed to the vehicle, and fixing the speed in built-up portions of the city at six miles an hour and in other portions at 10 miles an hour.

Lyric Street Is Not Saved.

The Pennsylvania ordinance was considered section by section. The fight was started by an amendment presented by Mr. Wasson, providing that the railroad company should build an overhead bridge at Lyric street, in the Twenty-first ward, and striking out the section which vacated that portion of Lyric street.

Mr. Wasson stated that the vacation of one end of Lyric street would shut off an outlet for the residents of that section to the Beechwood boulevard, and if the city ever desired to extend the street over the railroad tracks it would have to bear one-half of the expense, as provided in another section of the ordinance.

W. S. Woods said that there was no such street as Lyric in the city plan; that it had not been laid out. Mr. Wymard said that the best evidence that there was such a street was the fact that it was mentioned in the ordinance as one of the streets to be vacated. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 28 to 20.

S. A. Ammon, a resident of the East End, asked to be heard in opposition to the ordinance. William Brand objected, stating that it was obstructing the business of council, and Mr. Ammon was not accorded the privilege of the floor.

The Use of Soft Coal.

Mr. Wasson then presented his amendment to the smoke section. He moved to strike out the provision directing the railroad company not to use soft coal in the city limits, and to insert that the company shall use such appliances as shall obviate smoke, without mentioning the kind of fuel or the character of the appliance. Mr. Wasson said that he regarded the provision in the ordinance as impracticable and would put an embargo on a local commodity.

Mr. Woods opposed this amendment, stating that the smoke clause in the ordinance was identical with the one in the Pittsburgh Junction ordinance.

Mr. Stevenson said he was amazed at the position of Mr. Woods, particularly in view of the fact that Mr. Woods was just on the eve of leaving the body to enter the state senate. He said the smoke nuisance was one of the causes that had brought the reform movement into councils. The people of the Fourteenth and the Twenty-second ward, which Mr. Woods represented, were suffering greatly from smoke from railroad engines and it was the duty of councils to stop the nuisance.

The Soft Coal Clause Stands.

President Crawford, speaking from the chair, said that councils should protect the people of the East End from the smoke nuisance.

The amendment to the smoke clause was defeated by a vote of 28 to 20 and the original section was passed by a vote of 25 to 23.

Mr. Wasson's amendment, providing that the railroad company should bear all damages to private property, prompted a long legal argument from Mr. Woods. He quoted voluminously from law reports and court decisions to show that property owners in connecting streets could not claim damages. He argued that the only opproperty that would be damaged was owned by the railroad company.

Thomas M. Brown disputed some of the legal points made by Mr. Woods, asserting that some of the decisions of courts which the latter had quoted had been nullified by later decisions. Mr. Crawford also cited cases to show that property owners could claim damages, although not living immediately on the streets vacated. Mr. Wasson's amendment was finally adopted unanimously.

The Pennsylvania ordinance, as amended, was then passed on second reading. It went over to be reprinted.

Wabash Loses a Big Section.

When the Wabash ordinance was taken up Mr. Reitz moved to refer to a committee of seven to hear property owners. After sharp debate, in which it was hinted that this was a plan to kill the measure, the motion was defeated 20 to 27. A motion to adjourn was defeated 26 to 10 and the ordinance was considered by sections. The doors were closed and the sergeant-at-arms directed to let no member go out.

Council adopted an amendment that the ordinance shall conform to the plan accompanying it.

On motion of Wasson, the whole section providing for the franchise along Carson street eastward from the tunnel was stricken out. Wasson explained that the company has not acquired any property on that route, and another ordinance will be presented later.

An amendment was adopted providing that the supports for the elevated structure must be erected entirely on the property of the company. Another amendment provides that all work must be approved by the directors of public works, as that a dispute between him and the company must be settled by councils.

Mr. Reitz offered an amendment requiring the company to pay a tax on its franchise, the amount to be fixed by councils. This caused a long debate. Mr. Brown expressed the opinion that such a tax would hold in law.

Franchise Tax Adopted.

Soffel, Stevenson and Brown opposed the tax, as they thought it unfair to the Wabash and as some future council might be very hostile and make the tax exceedingly onerous. Mr. Brand thought the chance a good one to carry out the promise to the people nearly a year ago that corporation franchises would be taxed.

President Crawford took the floor and made a speech against the amendment. He said it was true that a promise to tax franchises had been made, and the situation was embarrassing. It would not be fair, however, he held, to tax the Wabash when other companies were not taxed, especially as no tax was imposed on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in its ordinance for the East End cut-off.

Mr. Woods moved to add to the amendment the words, "applying to all railroad companies." In this shape the amendment was passed by a viva voce vote. The ordinance was then passed on second reading without an opposing vote.

Council adopted a resolution by Mr. Stevenson, requesting the director of public works to submit in writing his reasons for not informing council regarding the filling of Highland reservoir as a test. Council adjourned at 1:30 a. m.

Diamond Widening Repeal Failed.

The Diamond street improvement was the principal matter before select council yesterday afternoon. The repealing ordinance came up but lacked two votes of the legal majority. The vote stood 18 for the repeal and 10 against it. It went over to the next meeting.

City Solicitor Carnahan sent to councils a statement that 75 per cent of the property owners on the street had signed a paper agreeing not to appeal from the benefits assessed against them by the board of viewers. In view of this the solicitor advised that councils allow the improvement to go ahead.

Mr. Carnahan appeared before select council and stated that the repealing ordinance had been presented several weeks ago at his request because property owners who had asked for the improvement were preparing to take appeals to have their benefit assessments reduced and the difference put upon the city.

Way Open to Push Work.

Mr. Carnahan said the repealing ordinance was intended only to bring the property owners to terms. As yesterday was the last day to take appeals the solicitor said the city could start on the work without fearing further opposition.

Councilmen Douglas and Peter Donahoe brought out the fact by interrogating the solicitor that the persons who had signed the paper, waiving claims for reductions in benefits, all own on the south side of the street and that the signatures do not embrace any owners on the north side, who are claiming higher damages from the city.

Mr. Carnahan said that he had made no effort to obtain the signatures of damaged property owners, as he took it for granted that they were opposed to the improvement.

Douglas and Donahoe called the attention of councils by interrogating Mr. Carnahan, to the fact that the city would have to bear the burden of all possible increase in damages that may be given the proprietors of the Grand opera house and owners of other property that is to be taken to widen the street. Solicitor Carnahan's letter to councils was as follows:

Most Owners Sign Waiver.

I have in my possession a paper signed by the owners of property abutting upon Diamond street, between Smithfield street and the Diamond market, in which they agree not to file exceptions in court to the viewers' report on the widening of Diamond street, and not to appeal therefrom.

The total amount of damages allowed is $747,300. This entire amount, with the exception of $12,804 86, which sum is assessed against the city, is assessed as special benefits against the owners of property on the street. The parties who have signed the paper referred to are all persons against whom special benefits have been assessed. The amounts of special benefits assessed against them is $530,229 97, which is 74 92-100 per cent of the total special benefits assessed against private property owners. These parties accept the viewers' report.

Appealers May Suffer.

As to the other assessments of special benefits contained in the report, appeals have thus far been taken in court, amounting to $167,633 12.

If the parties who are allowed damages succeed in increasing their damages by appeals, I do not see why the parties who have taken appeals from their benefit assessments should not pay these increased damages, provided it appears as the result of their appeals that their special benefits exceed the amounts assessed.

So far as damages are concerned, the city is prepared to pay any appeal that may be taken. So far as benefits are concerned, the entire amount of benefits appealed from cannot exceed 26 per cent of the total amount assessed.

In view of the above statement of facts, I think the improvement should proceed. The paper signed by the property holders in which they agree not to file exceptions or take appeals is conditioned upon the city proceeding promptly with the widening of the street.

I see no reason why the city should not do so. It will probably never hereafter be able to make this improvement at so little expense to the city as now. The great majority of property owners on the line of the proposed improvement have acted fairly in the matter and of course they expect the city to act fairly towards them. I hope, therefore, that the repealing ordinance will not be passed. I believe it will be to the interests of the city not to pass it.

Vote on the Repeal.

The vote to repeal the Diamond street ordinance was as follows:

Ayes—Barry, Booth, Costello, Donahoe, Douglas, Fichtel, Gallagher, Kearns, Lang, Morgan, Murphy, O'Brien, Rothweiler, Schempp, Schienitzauer, Stewart, West, Wightman—18.

Nays—Atkinson, Diehl, Perry, Piatt, Ruhlandt, Schneider, Upperman, Voskamp, Wainwright, Zahniser—10.

Select council unanimously passed over the recorder's veto the two resolutions relative to the reconstruction of the new municipal hospital in the Thirteenth ward.

One of the resolutions instructs the city solicitor to withdraw the objections of the city to the application of the Thirteenth ward citizens for the use of the name of the commonwealth in a bill of equity to be filed to test the law under which a new hospital is being erected on the old site. The other instructs the director of public safety to order the contractors to suspend work on the hospital until the case is settled by court.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Passenger train No. 4, due from Pittsburgh here at 12 o'clock at midnight, ran into a landslide at Worthington, 10 miles north of here, on the M. R. division of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, at 11 o'clock last night. The engineer was slightly injured and the fireman had his hand and foot crushed. The engine was totally demolished. The slide is 100 feet long and 30 feet deep. It will require 24 hours to clear the track.

TEXAN KNOWN THE WORLD OVER REPORTED DYING IN VIRGINIA.

Information is expected any hour of the death of Col. Thomas P. Ochiltree of Texas, one of the last of the southern generation famed for its chivalry, gallantry and good stories.

Col. Thomas P. Ochiltree.

He is at Hot Springs, Va., where he was sent from New York by Dr. Morris. He is suffering from repeated attacks of heart failure, and for some time he has been kept solely on stimulants.

Probably no man in America is known and liked by more persons than this red-haired genial Texan who won his way to fame by his ready wit and genial ways.

Although he served in the Confederate army during the civil war and later was a member of congress from Texas, his chief distinction came through his good-fellowship, which opened wide the doors not only of all the lovers of life in this country, but those of the royal good fellows in Europe. As a story-teller he has no equal. Col. Ochiltree's intimate friends and the newspapers have described him as a liar of colossal magnitude. One day when the colonel was returning from the Sheepshead Bay race track two men came into the car. One of them recognized the Texan and said to his friend:

"Come here, Bob, I want to introduce you to the biggest liar in the United States."

"Sir," replied Col. Ochiltree, rising with great dignity from his seat, "I allow none but my most intimate friends to refer to me in that manner, and I do not regard you as one of them."

The two men sought the next car, squelched.

When he was taken with his present sickness it was after he had indulged in a cut of venison. When the doctor learned of this he blamed the indulgence and held up his finger warningly at the Texan. "Well, doctor," said the latter, with a smile, "it's quite characteristic my dying for a piece of venison."

Even illness and the shadow of death could not rob him of his humor.

SOCIETY IS ITSELF AT OPERA PREMIERE

Come Late, But Is Radiant in Costly White—Pittsburghers in the Boxes.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 24.

Again the opera. Again the assembling of New York society at the Metropolitan to greet another season's opening. Again the show of beauty and fashion in boxes and parquet, the profusion of rich gowns, the sparkling of jewels. Again famous singers on the great stage; lights, melody and a richly dressed, curious throng; the movement, the life and the spells of quiet, which go to make up an opera season premiere.

The public went early to the opera house this evening to be in good time for the raising of the curtain, both on "Otelo's" entrance—for it was Verdi's opera that was selected to open the season—and for the entrance of society to the boxes and parquet.

Society itself came late. The horse show custom of a late dinner, a lingering over coffee and liqueurs and a 9 o'clock appearance at the garden could not be lightly shaken off. Only two parterre boxes were occupied when the curtain rose at 8 o'clock. It was 8:30 before even the grand tier boxes were well filled.

At that hour it was possible to give a correct impression of the evening for the first time, from the social viewpoint. Then it was seen that the house was a most brilliant one. The rich white gowns, which a great proportion of the women wore, against the red background of the boxes, gave a fine effect, and the jewels worn sparkled like stars on a snowfield. Here and there a black, turquoise or Nile-green costume struck color notes; but white was the prevailing tint.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gayley of Pittsburgh were in box No. 38. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smith's guests in box 41 were Miss Clara Williams and J. G. Schmidlap of Cincinnati.

QUARREL WITH LOVER STARTS LONG TRANCE

A Young Missouri Woman Asleep for Fifty Days Can Not Be Aroused.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CENTRALIA, MO., Nov. 24.—Dora Meek, who after a quarrel with her sweetheart, 56 days ago, immediately fell into a somnolent trance, has not in that time evinced distinct consciousness or spoken a word.

Restoratives in the hands of physicians have failed to arouse her. Once when forced to breath ammonia fumes she coughed, half arose from bed, mumbled incoherently a moment, and then relapsed. The further use of ammonia was desisted for fear of suffocation.

She eats a little each day, yet apparently does it instinctively. Every effort is being made to restore her to consciousness, but apparently to no effect.

EASTERN WHITECAPS PLACED ON TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—A special from Plymouth, Mass., to the World says: The opening of the famous Marion whitecap case, the first of its kind in the Massachusetts courts, was marked today by exciting incidents. Seven of the alleged whitecaps were present. They are charged with being among those who visited the home of Charles Potter on the night of August 6, took from the fireside white-haired James McDonald, on whom Potter placed the responsibility for his domestic unhappiness, applied to him a coat of tar and feathers and rode him out of town on a rail.

WIRELESS MESSAGES TO KING EDWARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—A special from London to the Sun says: John Heaton, M. Arrangements for the transmission of these messages have been practically completed.

ALLEGHENY MACHINE PRACTICING REVENGE

Public Safety Director Refused Licenses to Club of Citizens Party Workers.

Another evidence of the high-handed methods employed by North Side politicians to punish those who opposed them in the recent county election was given last night by ex-Councilman Robert J. Bell of the First ward, Allegheny.

Mr. Bell is the president of the Puritan club, a social organization that has been well-known in Allegheny for years. It has been the custom of the club to give to its friends a reception and dance during Thanksgiving week. Following this custom, arrangements were made to hold the annual reception last night. Mr. Bell personally applied to Director Albrecht for license to hold the affair. After standing Bell off for nearly two weeks with promises that the license would be granted, Director Albrecht on Saturday last flatly refused to give a permit to the club. The only reason given by the director is that the members of the club are men who have been fighting the old organization on the North Side since the formation of the Citizens party.

Mr. Bell, in speaking of the affair last night, said: "I have been a resident of Allegheny all my life, and for some years have been in close touch with public affairs. This is the first time in my recollection that anyone with the money was ever refused such a permit.

"I called on Supt. Muth about two weeks ago and told him of the intention of the club to give the annual reception. Muth turned me over to Director Albrecht, and at the same time demanded that a request for the license, signed by all the members of the club, be sent to Director Albrecht's office. This was done and the 17 names submitted represented just as many men who had worked and voted against Murphy and his machine.

"After keeping the paper for several days, Albrecht told me that he would be a fool to grant a license to a gang of 'pikers' who had used their influence against the ring. But I was told to call again, which I did several times. Finally on Saturday last Albrecht point blank refused to give me the license. The club has lost considerable money as a result. We had engaged Turner hall and an orchestra, besides paying for the printing of invitations and programs.

"The refusal is all the more unreasonable in consideration of the fact that prize fight promoters can get licenses to have fights in the same hall, and that half a dozen prominent clubs or speakeasies, for that is what they are, can go on selling liquor without any hindrance from the police. I spoke to Muth about this on Saturday, and he laughed at me."

curred in all parts of the city. The police were obliged to charge a mob of rioters at the slaughter house and several among the latter were injured. The vigorous attitude of the police now made itself felt and traffic on the car lines, which had only been suspended for a brief perid, was resumed and was continued from this time forth. Most of the injuries sustained by the strikers were caused by the policemen's clubs.

The Central Veterans' union, headed by Gen. Gomez, held a meeting this afternoon and sent word to the labor unions that if the disorders continued the veterans would offer their services to President Palma to preserve order.

No bread or meat was on sale today, and a continuance of the strike will cause much suffering to the poor. The police fear that trouble may occur in the city tonight, and a detachment of rural guards is expected to reach Havana at 2:30 tomorrow morning.

Senator Tamayo has resigned his office of secretary of government, but President Palma will not accept his resignation until the strike has been settled. The public blames Tamayo for his active participation in the strike and says that he and the mayor are responsible for today's riots, as he had openly expressed sympathy with the strikers. At a political meeting on Wednesday, at which Senor Tamayo was chairman, he indorsed the action of the strikers.

Considerable comment is caused here by statements of certain American promoters that the United States will intervene under the Platt amendment and sieze Cuba.

The central committee of the striking labor organizations are conferring with Gen. Gomez tonight to determine a basis of resuming work. The situation is improving.

VERNER WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE

He Has Declined to Allow the Use of His Name for Recorder.

TALK OF T. S. BIGELOW

William B. Hays Also Spoken of for the Office—Attorney General Has a Chat With Mr. Bigelow.

Murry A. Verner will not be a candidate for recorder. While he may not make a public announcement of this fact for several days, it is known that he has declined to allow the use of his name.

Thomas S. Bigelow was silent yesterday concerning his conference with Verner. He said that the gentleman would probably make a statement within a few days. Verner contributed about the same amount of information.

Bigelow says that he has no idea whom the Citizens party will agree upon. There was a revival yesterday of the report that Bigelow himself would be a candidate. He has repeatedly denied that he is an aspirant for any office. His personal choice is William B. Rodgers. William B. Hays was also talked of for recorder yesterday, but the use of his name was without his consent.

Attorney General Elkin was in the city on business yesterday. During the afternoon he called on Mr. Bigelow. Both gentlemen say that the visit had no political significance. Auditor General E. B. Hardenbergh and Corporation Deputy J. A. Glenn were also in town on departmental business.

Citizens party meetings will be held in each of the 232 election districts of the city tonight. The purpose is to elect three representatives from each division to a ward committee. This latter body will later in the week select a man to represent the ward on the city committee. There is considerable rivalry in some parts of the city for the position on the general committee and there will be interesting contests. The city committee will nominate the candidate for recorder and have charge of the campaign.

JUDGE MAY RETIRE

Medical Board Finds That John I. Mitchell Is Incapacitated for the Bench.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The medical board appointed recently by Gov. Stone to inquire into the physical condition of Superior Court Judge John I. Mitchell of Wellsboro, today reported that they found the judge incapacitated and that his condition will never be improved.

The report will be submitted to Judge Mitchell, with whom it is optional under the judge's pension act, whether he will retire. The probability is that his resignation will follow the acceptance of the report, in which event he will be retired on $3,750 annually for the balance of his term, which expires 1910.

The board which examined the judge consists of his family physicians, Drs. M. L. Bacon of Wellsboro, John V. Shoemaker of Philadelphia and A. J. Connell of Scranton.

The medical commission appointed by Stone to investigate the condition of Superior Court Judge Peter P. Smith of Scranton will begin the investigation, notwithstanding the assertion of Judge Smith that he is physically and mentally able to attend to his judicial duties and will not retire.

For Highway Robbery.

Henzel Halko and Frank Androsky, both residing in East Ohio street, are locked up in Allegheny Central station on a charge of highway robbery, entered against them upon information made by Vugo Licuni of No. 1106 Sawmill alley. Licuni alleges that the men attacked him on Ohio street late Sunday night, and besides relieving him of all the money he had, administered a severe beating. The hearing was set for today.

A Club for Duquesne.

Duquesne's first club was organized yesterday. It will be known as the Duquesne Bathing and Club Company. Its capital stock of $125,000 was subscribed within an hour after the books were opened. A charter has been granted and the club will commence the erection of a house at once. Among those interested are Charles Downey, M. J. Beaman, Senator John D. Crawford and James Crawford.

Allegheny's Kindergartens.

The committee on kindergartens of the Allegheny board of school controllers last night recommended an estimate of 16 kindergartens for Allegheny for the fiscal year beginning June 1, 1903, at the rate fixed by the rules, that is, $90 per month for each school.

Jailed for Horse Theft.

Robert Kelly was committed to jail by Alderman McKelvey of Allegheny last night on a charge of horse stealing, made by W. J. Faucet. It is alleged he hired a horse and buggy of Faucet, who has a livery on Sandusky street, drove to McKeesport and sold the rig.

The Scaffold Broke.

Warren Sibley, of No. Hoff street, Allegheny, and two other men, whose names could not be learned, were painfully, but not seriously, injured at 5:30 p. m. yesterday by the breakage of a scaffold on which they were painting on Herr's island. They fell about 25 feet. All were removed to their homes.

In Case of Fire Save the Piano

This rather startling headline is justified here because of the fact that Eugene Zimmerman, better known as "Zim," the famous cartoonist of Judge, issued such an order to the servants of his household as soon as he became the owner of an A. B. Chase piano. Mr. Zimmerman's letter to the A. B. Chase Company is appended.

New York, November 10, 1902.

A. B. Chase & Co.,
Norwalk, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—

While I was looking over the Musical Courier extra today, I ran across the enclosed advertisement which prompts me to write this letter.

Fifteen years ago the Judge Publishing Company presented to me, as a wedding gift, an A. B. Chase upright piano. Its tone is as sweet and clear today as on the day it was manufactured. Fifteen years' association with my A. B. Chase is sufficient to assure me that no better instrument is made, and I have given orders that "In case of fire save the piano."

Yours sincerely,
EUGENE ZIMMERMAN,
"Zim" of the Judge.

It is such unsolicited testimonials as the foregoing that show conclusively the leadership of the A. B. Chase. It is the piano of today—the embodiment of all that is up-to-date in the manufacture of pianos. Unlike some instruments, the A. B. Chase is not obliged to rest upon a reputation made a half century ago. On the contrary, its fame rests on present achievements and is sustained by superior merit.

If you visit Hamilton's old reliable music house you will see the most notable array of pianos ever displayed in this city. The most famous makes are here and their names are familiar to music lovers throughout the world. In a word they are the piano aristocracy of the world. Conspicuous among them are the A. B. Chase grands and uprights. They are the acknowledged leaders. But other great favorites are the J. & C. Fischer, Schumann, Smith & Barnes and Hamilton pianos. The range of choice in such that whether you wish an inexpensive piano or the most elegant instrument made, you are able here to get the best possible value for your money.

You will also be interested in our splendid display of Angelus Piano Players. The superiority of the Angelus to all other piano players requires no comment here. But we wish to call your attention to this particular display because of the especially fine cases shown, which make them particularly appropriate as gifts.

Stella Music Boxes, Victor Talking Machines, Mandolins, Guitars, Cornets, etc., eminently appropriate as gifts. Largest and choicest variety ever shown.

CAMPAIGN TO START TO RAISE FREIGHT RATES 10 PER CENT

Chicago, Nov. 24.—"Railroad freight rates are lower than they ought to be under the new scale of wages and the present cost of supplies and materials which railroads have been obliged to pay, owing to the great prosperity of the country."

Paul Morton, second vice president of the Santa Fe, made this statement today and followed it up by declaring that a campaign was about to be started with a view to raising all freight rates in territory west of Chicago to the Pacific coast.

Mr. Morton advocates an advance in freight rates of at least 10 per cent.

COUGHED AND DIED AT SUPPER TABLE

Sudden Blow to the Family of Martin Mehaffey—Child Fatally Burned.

After a violent fit of coughing Martin Mehaffey, 72 years of age, fell dead from his chair at his home in the rear of No. 831 Main street, Allegheny, shortly before 7 o'clock last night.

For six weeks, according to the story of his wife, Mr. Mehaffey had a heavy cold. She stated that she had given her husband all kinds of medicine and the presence of a physician had been necessary on several occasions. Last night her husband was feeling as well as usual and went to the supper table with the other members of the family. Just after they were seated Mr. Mehaffey began to cough. He fell from his chair and before the other members of the family could reach him he was dead. The physician who was called said death was the result of apoplexy.

While playing by a bonfire at his home in Duquesne yesterday afternoon the clothes of Edward Tolz, 3 years old, took fire. The little fellow tried to extinguish the flames, but was unsuccessful and by the time other members of the family reached him he was burned so badly that he died last night.

An unknown white man was killed by a shifter on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Cross street, McKeesport, last night. He was about 35 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches in height and weighed 160 pounds. The only thing found on him was a laundry check marked "Dinn No. 2, James Bronin, McKeesport Star Laundry, October 1, 1902." The body was taken to the morgue.

NEW TRIAL OF DOUBLE MURDER

It Is Asked in Behalf of Jesse Jenkins and His Sweetheart.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—That the jury was prejudiced, and that an error was made in the admittance of testimony to show the defendant had lived a hard life with his wife in Pittsburgh, were the reasons assigned by attorneys for Jesse C. Jenkins today in seeking a new trial.

Jenkins had been found guilty of murdering his wife in order to marry Mary Fleming of Philadelphia, and she also was found guilty of poisoning to death her husband. Hence the same attorneys filed similar motions on similar grounds, today, thus arresting sentence.

WAR AMONG EDUCATORS.

People of Steubenville to Demand That Contentions Cease.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—A sensational committee meeting of the board of education was held tonight at the instance of Principal Maurer, who asked a vindication that he did not maintain discipline for Miss Stevens, teacher in the high school. He also preferred charges against Superintendent Powell and the latter, with Miss Stevens and their attorneys, it is said, were excluded from the meeting and given no chance for defense.

Citizens are discussing the matter tonight and a public meeting will be called to demand that contention among the educational force be stopped, as it is injuring the schools.

BRIDGEWATER, N. S., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—F. B. The property has been bonded for $1,250,000 for two months. Experts are examining the property, and the deal, doubtless, will be consummated at the expiration of the option.

GETTING A HUSBAND MEANS RESIGNATION

Hereafter Women Postal Clerks, When They Marry, Must Quit the Service.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Room 10, Postal Building, WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.

Postmaster General Payne today issued an order that places the ban upon matrimony in the postoffice department. He has ruled that any woman employe of his department who changes her name is not eligible to reappointment.

The order promulgated today applies to cases where the woman clerk marries a man who is not in the government employ. There are numerous instances of this kind where the wife continues on the rolls, sometimes under her maiden name, but that is all past now. Hereafter the marriage of a woman employe of the postoffice department is equivalent to her resignation.

ORE SEASON ENDING.

Pittsburgh Fleet Will Go Into Winter Quarters Next Week.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The end of the present week will see the entire fleet of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company out of commission and in winter quarters. This will end the ore season for 1902, which has been a remarkable one, since steady freight rates have existed from the beginning to the end in spite of the large amount of business done.

The work of other big shippers is about completed. Many of the smaller shippers are already through, and the last boat will leave Lake Superior not later than the middle of next week.

Disagreed on Stall Price.

Stalls in the Allegheny market will be let on January 1. These will be governed by the new ordinance providing 10-year franchises, the prices to be fixed by a councilmanic committee appointed for the purpose. The committee on public works met last night and discussed the provisions of the ordinance, without coming to an agreement, and adjourned. The opinion prevails, however, that stall rates will be increased 25 per cent.

Paine's Celery Compound CURES RHEUMATISM

The Only Medicine that Prevents a Return of the Terrible Disease.

Rheumatism, which does its terrible work in the muscles, joints and tissues, is caused by uric acid which gathers in the blood. To get rid of this poisonous acid which produces the irritation, pains, agonies, inflammations, and swellings peculiar to rheumatism, Paine's Celery Compound should be used without delay. No other medicine gives such prompt, cheering, and happy results. It is the only medicine that prevents a return of the dreaded disease. Paine's Celery Compound braces the nerves, the blood is quickly cleared of all irritating poisons, tissue and muscle are built up, and the digestive organs perfectly toned. Do not treat with indifference the slightest rheumatic symptoms; the early use of Paine's Celery Compound will save you weeks and months of suffering. Mr. S. D. Conway, St. Louis, Mo., was permanently cured by Paine's Celery Compound after repeated failures with other medicines and physicians; he says:

"I am 64 years of age, and have lived in St. Louis 27 years, and all this time with the exception of three years, I have served in the Engineer's Department as Inspector. Last winter I contracted rheumatism and was laid up. I tried all remedies and doctors, but all failed until I struck Paine's Celery Compound, which has made a permanent cure in my case. I have recommended it to many, and they have used it with the same result."

BRIDGE RAISING AGAIN ATTACKED

Chamber of Commerce Directors File Protest Against Scheme of Rivermen.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

Damage to Property Far Beyond Any Benefit That Could Ensue. Pennsylvania Railroad Ordinance Indorsed.

The directors of the chamber of commerce of Pittsburgh yesterday at a special meeting took action denouncing the proposed elevation of the Allegheny river bridges, in particular the Sixth street structure, and a committee of five was appointed by Acting President A. J. Logan to attend the bridge hearings on Saturday and file the protest of the chamber against the movement.

The resolution presented by W. M. Kennedy denouncing the bridge raising project was passed unanimously, with little or no discussion, and in order to give the river interests some representation on the committee, it was constituted as follows: W. M. Kennedy, Capt. W. P. Herbert, Capt. J. A. Henderson, J. N. Pew and Oliver McClintock. The committee will meet on Friday afternoon and prepare for presenting the arguments before Capt. Sibert, the government engineer. A copy of the resolution will be forwarded to the secretary of war. It is as follows:

Damage Would be Great.

Whereas, It has come to the knowledge of the chamber of commerce of the city of Pittsburgh that a suggestion has been made that the secretary of war of the United States will cause the Sixth street bridge to be raised 17 feet at the middle of the bridge, and 20 feet at the Pittsburgh end of the same, which would leave the bridge at the end of Sixth street 20 feet above the grade of said street; and,

Whereas, Approaches from the Pittsburgh side of said bridge would have to be made either by heavy grade along Sixth street, or by what are now suggested as side approaches, by iron and steel causeways along and upon the wharf of the Allegheny river, and a flight of steps 40 in number, reaching 20 feet in height; either of which ways is exceedingly objectionable and will be most damaging to the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny and seriously threaten intercourse between the same, besides causing millions of dollars' worth of damage to owners of private property; and,

Whereas, So far as the present traffic on the Allegheny river, as well as that which is now fairly prospective is concerned, the Sixth street bridge is not an interference with navigation, unless it may be for chance hours, during sudden freshets in the river, when the latter is, say over 16 feet in height, and would not exceed in any one year more than two or three days altogether, even if that; and

Would Have to Raise All.

Whereas, The elevation of the Sixth street bridge would be useless unless it were followed by a like elevation of the Seventh, Ninth, Sixteenth, Twenty-third and Forty-third street bridges, besides the bridge of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Railway Company, and also the bridge of the Pittsburgh Junction Railroad Company; and,

Whereas, Such elevations would not only impose large expenses upon the respective bridge owners, but would also cause the building of new approaches, which would most seriously damage the property in the neighborhood, besides rendering more difficult and dangerous the access to and fro between Pittsburgh and Allegheny, which damage alone to the owners of private property would mount up into many millions of dollars; and,

Whereas, The traffic to and fro on the said respective public bridges, let alone the railroad bridges, exceeds in one day the entire traffic on the Allegheny river passing under said bridges, and exceeds many hundred fold in one day the entire passenger traffic by the Allegheny river; now

Therefore, be it and it is hereby resolved by the chamber of commerce of the city of Pittsburgh, as follows:

That we regard the proposed elevation of the said bridges, and especially of the Sixth street bridge, as most hurtful and damaging to both the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny.

That the same is not called for or necessary for the present traffic, or the traffic within reasonable contemplation on the Allegheny river.

Will File Protest.

That all the harbor transportation can be, and is, safely, conveniently and speedily carried on with the bridges at the present height.

That the slight interruption to navigation which possibly happens during some of the freshets in the Allegheny river, when the water is over 16 feet in height, by the present height of the bridge, is incomparably less than the damage which would be inflicted upon the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny by the elevation of the said bridges, rendering traffic to and fro between the cities not only dangerous to life, but exceedingly difficult, and when added to this it is apparent that such elevation in the bridges will damage the owners of private property to many millions of dollars, and can benefit the river traffic, if at all, only slightly, and for comparatively few hours in the year, it seems to us plain that the said proposed elevations of the bridges should not be carried out.

We, therefore, most earnestly and respectfully protest against the elevation of the Sixth street bridge, and direct that the president appoint a committee of five to attend the next hearing before Capt. Sibert and file this protest, and that a copy of same be sent to the secretary of war of the United States.

Said committee is also empowered to take such further steps as it may think reasonably necessary to prevent the elevation of said bridges.

Endorsed Railroad Plan.

Maj. A. F. Burchfield, chairman of the committee on transportation, presented a report on the freight congestion, and regarding the effort being made to clear the yards, declared that with the present terminal conditions the relief would only be spasmodic. The report embodied the statement that councils should co-operate with the railroads in the endeavor to give Pittsburgh greater transportation facilities, and should in no way hinder the railroads seeking admission to the city.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Maj. Burchfield presented a resolution that the chamber of commerce indorse the proposed ordinances giving the Pennsylvania railroad the right to construct a branch from Fifth avenue to Brilliant station. The resolution carried. William M. Kennedy stated that he had consulted Attorney W. B. Rodgers, who draughted the Greater Pittsburgh bill, in regard to that section of the bill relating to incoming councilmen, and that the latter had advised him to let the bill stand without alteration. It was decided after a short discussion to allow the bill to go before the legislature as it was originally read before the chamber of commerce.

TROUBLE WITH WIFE.

Attorney D. R. Jones and Mrs. Jones Have Cross Prosecutions.

Attorney D. R. Jones of Homestead yesterday gave bail before Justice Giles on a charge of assault and battery, made by his wife. She claims that he used force in putting her out of his office in Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh.

He sued her for surety of the peace on behalf of his daughter, May Fenwick, alleging that she demolished his home and threatened the daughter, who is a clerk. Both waived hearings and will go bail for court.

TROUBLE PAST ON RAILROADS

Pennsylvania Men Say the Freight Congestion Is About Ended.

STILL PLENTY OF WORK

Daily Average of Cars in Yards Greatly Reduced—West Penn in the Worst Condition—Sunday's Figures.

The freight congestion at its worst is a matter of history on the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. It is easier to handle on the lines east of Pittsburgh. It has practically disappeared from the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

These are the reports made yesterday by the officials of the railroads mentioned. On the Pennsylvania lines west where meetings twice a day were held by the superintendents and the general transportation and operating officials, these meetings have been discontinued. The all-night and half-night work which the officials have been compelled to endure for two weeks or more has almost disappeared. In fact, conditions have returned nearly to normal.

For one more week, however, the work of rushing freight out of Pittsburgh yards will continue. It will mean the same old story of overworked trainmen.

How Yards are Clearing.

A. B. Starr, general superintendent of freight transportation of the Pennsylvania lines west, said last evening: "The full reports for the Sunday business showed 6,200 cars taken out of Pittsburgh. Some had been stored in the yards for a long time. It has been impossible to move them promptly. We find this morning in our Pittsburgh yards 700 or 800 fewer cars than the daily average heretofore. The receipts have continued heavy, of course, but it has been made possible to get trains out on the road and once that is accomplished the rest is comparatively simple.

"The yards at Conway are in better shape today than for a long time. The Sunday movement is responsible for this. We had borrowed a number of engines, 12 or 15 perhaps, from the connecting lines. In addition, our own motive power is now doing better work than formerly. The rains have raised the rivers and purified the water enough to make the engines work better.

"We feel very much encouraged. If there is another week of as good movement of freight, conditions will be restored to normal and we will be ready for anything that is offered."

West Penn Still in Trouble.

The condition of the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania railroad continues to be troublesome. An instance of the condition there is found in the Heinz Company's records. A car of canned figs was placed in the West Penn yards on October 20, but yesterday had not been delivered. This despite the assistance of everybody having anything to do with the car movement. A car of empty crates shipped from the pickle company's glass plant at Sumner, on October 29, had not yet been delivered. Empty crates are being hauled by wagons in the fashion of Indian times. Other concerns make similar complaints.

The figures for the extra movement on account of the Sunday release of business, as given in The Gazette yesterday morning, were substantiated by the full reports received yesterday by the officials. The were some wild guesses at this greatest of car movements in Pittsburgh, but The Gazette's figures were carefully compiled from the best sources.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

To Prove What the Great Kidney Remedy, Swamp-Root, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of "The Gazette" May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Absolutely Free By Mail.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for many kinds of diseases, and if permitted to continue much suffering with fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable. Makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints and muscles; makes your head ache and back ache, causes indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, makes you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste away.

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world-famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by doctors themselves who have kidney ailments, because they recognize in it the greatest and most successful remedy for kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Negotiations are evidently going on looking toward a settlement of the coal strike without waiting upon the arbitration now in prospect. Such a settlement could have been reached long ago had the coal companies been willing to negotiate directly with the miners' union, and if it is reached now the fact will imply that President Baer has abandoned his high conceptions of seignioral prerogative.

The tobacco workers' strike in Havana has developed the revolutionary aspect which labor troubles are apt to assume in Spanish-American countries. It would be difficult in this country to establish any connection between the running of street cars and a strike in the tobacco trade, but such a connection seems to exist in Havana, for the riots began with an attack on the street cars. The whole city seemed to have temporarily succumbed to mob rule and considerable loss of life is reported. President Palma appears to have met the emergency with vigor and resolution, and, fortunately, there is a reserve of power at hand in the presence of a force of United States artillery. The sooner this country resumes the control it should never have abandoned the better it will be for the welfare of Cuba and the interests of civilization.

The assumption that the speakership contest is practically settled in favor of Cannon of Illinois is not warranted, but the present drift is certainly that way. As we foresaw at the time, Mr. Dalzell's chances have been prejudiced in the west by an apparent identification of his candidacy with opposition to tariff revision. Senator Quay's declaration that "we in Pennsylvania want none of it," has not been helpful to Pennsylvania's candidate for speaker. The Sioux City (Iowa) Journal in a thoughtful article makes that the only ground of objection. It admits his fine ability, large experience and high character and declares that "no one questions his integrity or the propriety of his personal life," but it contends that his selection would be impolitic, as it would be construed as party defiance of the demand for tariff revision. We believe that this ground of opposition is unfounded, but it is being used effectively throughout the west and New England against Mr. Dalzell's candidacy.

European countries are unwearying in efforts to find sources of cotton supply which will diminish their dependence upon the American cotton crop. Russia is striving with considerable success to develop the cotton growing industry of Turkestan. The governor of Sierra Leone has recently been having conferences in England with representatives of the cotton manufacturing interests in regard to cotton production there. As inducements to capital to engage in the enterprise he offered remission of duties on machinery, prizes and bonuses for the production of the best and greatest quantity of cotton and free transport by railway to the coast until the industry was established upon a commercial basis. This outdoes anything in the way of favor and encouragement to an infant industry that the most rabid free-trader could charge against the protective tariff system. The London Times remarks that "the question of cotton growing in the West African colonies is arousing keen interest in Lancashire, where there is a strong anxiety that this country (England) should be less dependent upon American supplies."

The manner in which President Roosevelt's repeated praise of Attorney General Knox is accepted nowadays is gratifying evidence of a changed attitude toward the president's legal adviser. When Mr. Knox was chosen by President McKinley for a place in his cabinet there was an outcry from the Democratic press, while many Republican papers that knew of Mr. Knox only through his great repute as an attorney for large interests, received the appointment doubtfully. Now were a hint dropped that he might retire from the cabinet the protest would be louder than was the outcry against his original selection. The people of the United States have learned what President McKinley and the people of Pittsburgh have known all along, that Philander C. Knox is pure gold. President Roosevelt has proved him, and when the president speaks of him as "that profound jurist and upright public servant," as he did in his speech in Philadelphia on Saturday, he voices the sentiment of the people. Mr. Knox has been inspected in the fierce light of hostile criticism as has been no other member of the president's official family, and stands revealed to all as just what his chief says he is.

The Washington Post makes a strong demand for the reinstatement of Gen. Jacob H. Smith upon the active list. This is but justice. Gen. Smith has been a victim to clamor. Instead of punishment, he merited reward. He is a soldier and he used a soldier's methods in carrying on war. He employed such means as would be most efficient, and he achieved complete success under the frightful conditions he had to meet. He endured incredible hardships in doing his duty, and the news that greeted him on his return home was that he had been put upon the retired list. The true responsibility for the merciless character which war was forced to take in his jurisdiction rests upon the aunties, who spread sedition and encouraged insurrection in the Philippines. With the conditions which had been created and with which Gen. Smith had to deal, the most humane policy was that which should most speedily stamp out rebellion, and for the actual measures employed there was ample precedent during our civil war. It is a most evil precedent that a soldier should be punished for dealing with a military problem from a purely military point of view. The punishment inflicted upon him was a terrible blow to his feelings, but he has borne himself under the trial with patient dignity worthy of all praise. It is to be hoped that President Roosevelt will correct a mistaken action and restore Gen. Smith to his place on the active list.

A formal appeal to the ministerial associations of the country is being formulated by the ministerial association of Salt Lake City against the election of Apostle Smoot to the United States senate. Nothing is charged against Mr. Smoot, except that his apostolic vows bind him first to the Mormon church, and that, despite his oath as a senator, he would be bound to polygamy as an institution. Mr. Smoot, himself, is not a polygamist. This appeal comes with far less force than the previous protest against Brigham Roberts, elected to congress two years ago. Roberts was a polygamist. It may be that Smoot will consider his church vows above his official oath, but really—if he shall be elected—the United States senate may be trusted to pass upon his qualifications without a tremendous hullabaloo about it. Utah has a very good law governing polygamy which the ministerial association says would put the Mormon brethren in exile if enforced. We suggest enforcement of the law in Utah as being more effective than filing protests against the election of Mormon elders to either branch of congress.

EQUALITY OF BANKING FAVORS.

A correspondent, writing from Beverly, O., asks us now the Canadian banking system protects that country from panics. It does not; no banking system can do that. A banking system may be perfectly sound and yet overtrading, speculative manias or extensive waste of capital in unremunerative undertakings may cause loss of business confidence, general calling in of loans and a liquidation of assets that may attain the proportions of a panic. But a sound banking system tends to check such pernicious tendencies by insuring expert scrutiny of the worth of undertakings calling for financial aid. Its operations, being an accommodation of business transactions, are based upon continual examination of their merits, but even then the large chances of national destiny have an effect which no business prudence can avert. If some future Trafalgar should go against England and the nation should find itself cut off from its colonial possessions there would certainly be a panic, but its consequences would be mitigated and recovery promoted by the soundness of the banking system.

What the Canadian banking system does is to prevent the occurrence of such periodical financial cramps as those which attend "the moving of the crops"—a phenomenon peculiar to this country. It prevents the occurrence of such a stringency as that through which this country has been passing recently, owing to the very abundance of prosperity, causing a congestion of business beyond the power of the banking system to handle, just as the railroads with their present facilities are unable to handle the volume of freight traffic. The Canadian system also gives interior districts the opportunity to borrow money at as low rates as the cities, whereas our system makes accommodations scarce and high in the country and causes conditions in financial centers to alternate violently between surfeit and starvation.

The Canadian system does not embody any new discoveries. It is the development of a system that once existed in this country. In Canada no bank can be established with less than a paid-in capital of $250,000 and it is allowed to issue notes equal to its capital, although in practice the circulation is always below the authorized amount. Noteholders are protected by a prior lien on all assets, by a redemption fund equal to 5 per cent of the average circulation of each bank, and by a provision that the notes of failed banks shall draw 5 per cent interest until redeemed. There has never been any discount on the notes of failed banks, and holders of notes have never lost anything on them. Banks may establish branches wherever they see their advantage in so doing, and the thirty-four banks of Canada have now 690 branches situated in 392 localities. There is no difficulty in "moving the crops," nor is any shipment of funds necessary for the purpose, as in this country, as a bank receiving deposits in Halifax or Montreal may lend them out the next day at Winnipeg or Vancouver by issuing its notes through its branches. Mr. Horace White has given this apt illustration of the system: "The parent bank is like a reservoir, having pipes of different sizes moving to different consumers, each of whom can draw as much from the general supply as he can advantageously use and give security for."

Branch banking exists in every civilized country except our own. The system has had an enormous effect in promoting the intense industrial development of Scotland, which country has 10 banks with 1,065 branches. The Bank of France is required by law to have at least one branch in each of the 87 departments into which the country is divided. It has now 392 branches and the rate of discount is uniform at the main bank and all branches, ranging from 2½ to 4 per cent. The Imperial Bank of Germany has 320 branches.

Our banking system may be compared to local storehouses, each independent of any other, and dependent upon its own supplies and on what it may borrow from other storehouses for its means of accommodating the business needs of its district. For the accommodation of country districts banks have been authorized with a capital of $25,000. Statistics show that with them the ratio of expense to loans is as high as 7 per cent, although in New York it is as low as 1.68 per cent. Hence the country banks must tax borrowers heavily in order to do business at a profit, and their influence in congress is furiously exerted against branch banking, for that would bring down interest rates. Branch banking means equality of banking favors, so that country and city borrowers are put upon the same footing in making loans, and existing country banking interests do not want that.

The defects of our system which are compelling legislative action are not those relating to its inequality of favor, but to its inadequacy of means. The provisions of law by which interior banks can have credited as part of their reserves deposits made with New York banks tends in ordinary times to congest funds in New York to breed speculation. When business becomes so brisk in the interior as to endure the high interest charges made for accommodations, there is a concentrated demand upon financial centers for funds, compelling a general calling in of loans and cessation of accommodations to borrowers, producing such a stringency as that from which we are now suffering. The indications are that so many powerful interests are hurt that there will be a great pressure brought upon congress to grant measures of relief, but branch banking is not likely to come until the country districts become aroused to the injustice which they now endure.

MR. DALZELL NOT BEATEN.

While Speaker Henderson is impartial in his references to candidates for the speakership, the warmth of his praise of Congressman Dalzell is noteworthy. "Mr. Dalzell," he is quoted, "has had wide experience in congressional legislation, and his services in the house fully equip him for the speakership." This indorsement was not needed to establish the fitness of the Pennsylvania candidate, but it nevertheless serves the useful purpose of reassuring the new members from the farther west that the affairs of the house of representatives and of the nation will be in safe hands with Dalzell in the chair. Claims are put forth at Washington that Mr. Cannon has now a sufficient number of votes pledged to secure him the caucus nomination for speaker. Nomination by the Republican caucus means election. But the speaker is not chosen until the caucus is held and the votes are recorded, and claims do not constitute an election. Mr. Dalzell is still in the field, and while he remains a candidate it goes without saying that the fight has not been won by anyone else or lost by him.

Recognition of Mr. Dalzell's fitness for the speakership is general among those who have served with him in congress. His worth is attested by his standing among his fellow members. The regard in which he is held is not due in any measure to self-assertiveness, but is a solid, substantial growth. That it is merited is attested by the esteem of the people of Pittsburgh, where he is best known, who term after term returned him to congress with practical unanimity. His re-election by the voters of his new district on November 4 was without opposition. He was nominated on two rival tickets, and the Democrats placed no one in the field against him. Local recognition of his qualifications is therefore all that could be desired, and ought to count powerfully in his favor. There has been no intimation from any quarter that Mr. Dalzell is not believed to be fully endowed by nature and by acquirements for the place now filled by Mr. Henderson. His probity and ability and his general acceptability are conceded by even the warmest supporters of Mr. Cannon. Therefore, the one thing that remains to be done to further his prospects is to press the claims of his state. Pennsylvania's strength in congress and its unfailing Republican majorities, insuring the solid electoral vote of the commonwealth for the party's nominee for president, ought to weigh mightily with members of the Fifty-eighth congress.

PENSION FUND AS A SHELF.

If it be true, as published, that the "chief of the detective bureau must go," and for the reason that "he has demonstrated that he cannot carry on the affairs of that office to the satisfaction of Recorder Brown," it might be assumed that the program is to dismiss him. If the superintendent of detectives has been found incompetent or inefficient, as is the flavor of the publication, this would be the natural proceeding. But as Mr. Demmel has served the city for twenty years, and under the ordinance providing for the retirement of police officers and firemen would be entitled to retire at the end of five more years with a life pension, to dismiss him and therefore deprive him of this right would appear unnecessarily harsh, if, as we have a right to assume, his services in a subordinate capacity were satisfactory. If they were not satisfactory he would hardly have been kept in the service for so long a time. It would be therefore proper if he is unfitted for his present place to preserve to him the benefits of his long term of service by retaining him in the police service in some position suited to his abilities. It is said, however, that the program to dispose of him is much more generous than this, and that for his benefit an ordinance will be introduced in councils "reducing the term of service on the police force, in order to take advantage of the pension fund, from 25 to 20 years," and that "if passed Supt. Demmel will resign and be enrolled on the retired list."

It is not necessary in this connection to sit in judgment on the superintendent of detectives, or to decide whether the demoralization of the detective bureau is due to his inefficiency or to some cause beyond his control. It is only necessary to take account of the fact that the alleged program for his retirement assumes his unfitness for the position he has filled for only a short term. If he is unfit, a proposition to retire him on half the pay of his present office would be simply a proposition to place a premium on incompetency. We do not credit the report that there is a serious intention to attempt to direct a fund that was established for an entirely different purpose to any such use.

The affairs of the city of Pittsburgh ought to be managed as carefully and as conscientiously as the affairs of a business corporation, and no business institution could afford to pension employes for no other reason than that they had been found incompetent for "the duties to which they had been assigned." The incompetent employe would either be dismissed or given an opportunity to prove his efficiency in the discharge of other duties. The pension rules of the police and fire bureaus are now sufficiently liberal in their requirements of time of service and cannot be further liberalized in this direction.

The stimulus which the anti-canteen law has given to the establishment of liquor saloons is indicated by the fact that between 250 and 300 new ones have been started at military posts in the United States since the enactment of the law. The reports of commanding officers to the war department state that drunkenness has been greatly increased and the effects of the closing of the canteen upon the morality, discipline and health of the troops has been bad. The law ought never to have been passed and congress should promptly repeal it.

Although the Post recently argued that business prosperity had no connection with politics, it has recently modified its views so far as the monetary standard is concerned. It comments upon the financial loss and disturbance caused by silver coinage in the east and further remarks that "Mexico still suffers from the attempt to maintain a silver basis." We are glad to find that the Post has come around to the Republican position on the silver question. Carry the news to Bryan.

OPERA BRIGHTENS PART OF BROADWAY

Being a Society Function, Everybody Except Rail Birds Use Carriages.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.

Broadway, from Herald square to Forty-second street, never was brighter or more bustling than this evening between 8 and 9 o'clock. The opera was the reason. This was the great night in Broadway, the opening of the season of grand opera at the Metropolitan opera house. Carriages blocked the roadway for half a mile in the main thoroughfares, while the cross streets and a large part of Seventh avenue were full of vehicles of all descriptions. The opera is one of the functions that means carriages by the hundred. Other theatrical openings, no matter how aristocratic their manager may consider them, draw out a certain number of private equippages, but they do not predominate. Cabs, horseless and otherwise, and even the humble yellow street car bring a large percentage of such audience, while those that come on foot are by no means few; but the opera, par excellence, with a capital O, is a different thing. Carriages it must be, even for those who are not in the daily habit of using them; and if the livery bill is rather beyond the means of the gentleman engaging a handsome private-looking turn-out for the evening, why, that is his business and does not concern anyone else, so long as he pays the money. There were many walkers, however, this evening. They stepped into the lobby of the Metropolitan with a brisk, business-like air, usually, and it was noticed that many of them bought "standing-room." Maurice Grau had made up his mind that his "rail birds" should not be disturbed, and they bought their tickets on faith. When the house was full, as it was before the curtain went up, Mr. Grau must have been disposed to congratulate himself on the appearance of the auditorium, whatever may have been his anxieties behind the curtain. The men and boys selling librettos on the sidewalk did a splendid business, and the scores of other hangers-on, carriage-openers, newsies, ticket speculators, and so on, all confessed, when the house was seated and there was a lull outside, that the opening was as good a one as they had seen in years.

Sues to Have Her Picture Printed.

Marie Franklin, said to have been soprano soloist of St. Paul's cathedral, Pittsburgh, once on a time, has come into prominence in this city by threatening to sue a prominent song publisher. Her claim is that she has sung songs in public to advertise them, in return for which complaisance her portrait was to adorn the title pages of the published works. Her portrait has not appeared, she says, and she means to "have the law on them."

Suicides Take to Central Park.

Another of those "richly-dressed women" so often described by the papers was found dying in Central park today. She seemed to have taken carbolic acid, for an empty bottle which had contained the stuff lay near her. She died as soon as the ambulance got her to the hospital. It is a pity that so beautiful a spot as Central park should be often selected by suicides, but so it is. It has become almost a standing joke, if so grim a matter as self-destruction can by any stretch of reasoning be so classed.

A Pittsburgher's Horse on Speedway.

E. E. Smathers' wonderful little trotter, Alice Barnes, which, it is said, was once bought for $65 when she was hauling a delivery wagon in a western city, was the star performer of the Speedway yesterday. Her owner, the well-known Pittsburgher, drove her, and she showed some wonderful bursts of speed under his manipulation. Alice Barnes reduced her record to 1:09½ in a winning wagon race this year, it will be remembered.

Miss Astor Forsakes Gotham.

Pauline Astor, daughter of William Waldorf Astor, was not at the opera this evening. She left New York for Philadelphia early this morning and will be the guest of her uncle, James Paul, who lives in a suburb of the latter city, for some weeks. The fact that Miss Astor's maid followed on the next train, with all the trunks and other baggage of her young mistress in charge, makes it fairly certain that she will not be in New York for some little time at least.

Aftermath of the Horse Show.

Many Pittsburghers attended the "Old Glory" sale of horses at Madison Square garden today. This is the annual auction of fine horses and always attracts a large number of people from other cities, as well as New York. The 3-year-old champion, Klatawah, is one of the horses on the list, as well as sons and daughters of the famous thoroughbred Direct. The prices brought today were considered entirely satisfactory, on the whole.

The Rounders' View of Domestic Joy.

One of the department stores in Herald square has filled its show windows with Christmas toys, and the crowds that gathered in front of them this evening were so large that the police had to force a passage for passers-by. A peculiar feature of the gathering was that it is made up largely of Broadway "rounders." There were some domestic-looking people there, of course, with a sprinkling of children, but most of them were men and women with the blase air of pleasure-seekers who did not often find it. Upper Broadway is full of such men and women every night. But this display of toy kitchens, stores, stables and parlors, hobby-horses, drums, jumping-jacks, mechanical figures of all varieties, doll wardrobes, soldiers and firemen, suits, helmets and all, and the thousand-and-one other fascinations for youth set forth in any well-equipped store window, were examined by the Tenderloin habitues with a critical closeness that seemed to tell of childish memories awakened which, perhaps, brought a pang with them in most instances. This is the first time a big exhibition of toys has been set forth in an Upper Broadway window, and it will take the Tenderloin a few days to get used to it.

A Pittsburgh Literary Success.

A well dressed man was deeply immersed in a book on an elevated train this morning, although the car was so crowded that he had to hang by a strap. I could not help seeing the title of the work, and soon afterward found that I knew the reader. The book was "The History of Mr. John De Castro," published in Pittsburgh by the Irwin Press, which has caused something of a literary sensation here. My fellow passenger was a traveling salesman, and he said he bought the two volumes in Pittsburgh on Saturday and had been buried in them almost continuously ever since. He found their quaint humor and no less impressive gravity a great relief from the modern novel, he told me. I have heard considerable gossip about this edition of "De Castro" uptown, and it seems to have caught on in New York, whatever it may have done in Pittsburgh. James T. Tyndall of the Irwin Press, although now a Pittsburgher, was for several years a popular member of the literary coterie that oscillates between Longacre square and the Astor library.

Hall Caine's Tilt With Father Ducey.

Hall Caine is having the time of his life. He is enjoying himself so much in New York that twice he has deferred his departure for Europe and the Isle of Man. He says now that he will sail on the White Star liner Majestic on Wednesday, but perhaps he won't. He has got into a squabble with Father Ducey over the question whether "The Eternal City" is a proper play for good Catholics to see, and today he got himself interviewed on general principles, but with "The Eternal City" as the center of discussion. Father Ducey has advised all Catholics not to see the play, and Hall Caine, in his interview today, says the production here is entirely satisfactory to him. He also utters that old, old chestnut, which no one believes: "I pay no attention to newspaper criticisms." The play is doing well in New York, from a box office point of view, whether Catholics are patronizing it or not.

Police Stand a Good Test.

Dramatic proceedings in connection with the police force of Greater New York are generally in the nature of raids on gambling houses, pool rooms or other places where law breaking is suspected. There was a different kind of excitement this afternoon. Deputy Commissioner Piper, who evidently takes a keen pleasure in hustling policemen, mentally and physically, was responsible for the affair. He caused a general alarm to be sent out, commanding nearly 2,000 policemen to assemble at Grand Central palace, Lexington avenue and Forty-third street. The men came tumbling in heading in very short time, and the saturnine deputy commissioner was observed to smile slightly when he saw how promptly the order was obeyed. The experiment indicated that the force is pretty well drilled, after all, for not a whisper of the test had been allowed to get out beforehand.

Criticisms of Police Bear Fruit.

While Deputy Commissioner Piper was testing the efficiency of the police by a sudden hurry call, Commissioner Partridge dropped in on Magistrate Duel in the Tombs police court and sat on the bench with him for an hour. Mr. Duel is chief president of the board of police magistrates. The commissioner said his visit had no particular significance, but taking it in connection with Deputy Commissioner Piper's hurry call, it looks as if the criticisms of the police department in R. Fulton Cutting's letter on Saturday is bearing fruit already in the shape of greater vigilance in Mulberry street.

College Society Men Gather.

The Phi Delta Theta society convention, which was held at the Hotel Schenley in Pittsburgh a few years ago, is in session here at the Hotel Majestic. Justice Julius Mayer opened the proceedings today with an address of welcome. The convention will continue five days and there will be receptions, theater parties, a banquet and a free and untrammeled use of many and divers reminiscent college yells from now unaccustomed throats.

Strenuous Season for Car Patrons.

As the holidays approach, the jam in the "L" and surface cars gets fiercer. What it will be in the week or two before Christmas even an old New Yorker dare not conjecture. Simultaneously with the annual rush and scarcity of seats in all public conveyances comes the usual talk about "compulsory legislation," "corporate action" and other mighty engines for relieving the situation; but there will be nothing done, bless you. People will push and tug and perspire and grumble and perhaps swear and the conductor will cheerfully collect fares as he forces his way steadily up and down the crowded cars, and he will issue his commands to "letemorfffirst," and "step lively," with the aplomb we all love so much, and when the Christmas rush is over and things get back to their regular dead-level of discomfort, we shall take them as they come, and there will be no "compulsory legislation" or "corporate action," any more than there ever has been.

Paint Makes a New Ferry Fleet.

Next to getting new ferryboats, it is well that the old tubs should be repainted. That is the policy of the Erie railroad, if has for some months been changing the appearance and names of the ancient craft that carry its passengers between its Jersey City terminus and Manhattan, so that a stranger might think it has a new fleet; but the shaking and jarring are there still, in spite of the fresh coat of paint and the new appellations. But, then, what is the use of buying new ferryboats when Erie passengers may be whisked through a river bed tunnel in the course of three or four years? That is understood to be the railroad company's argument.

Commissioner Sturgis' Job Shaky.

Talking about the row between Fire Commissioner Sturgis and Fire Chief Edward Croker, which is likely to culminate in Croker being dismissed, it is said that such an act by Sturgis will mean that he must send his own resignation to Mayor Low, with the certainty of its being promptly accepted. Commenting on which a Tammany paper declares. "Commissioner Sturgis need not write out any resignation. It is already written. It was placed in Mayor Low's hands undated when Mr. Sturgis took office. All that is necessary is for the mayor to fill in a date and accept it. This would be more polite than to remove the commissioner, which, under the present law, the mayor is empowered to do, without giving any reasons." This observation by the aforesaid paper indicates in some degree the admiration with which Tammany regards every detail of Mayor Low's administration. GEORGE C. JENKS.

Verner for Recorder.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Sir—It is safe to say that the Citizens generally are much agog as to who will finally be selected to lead the Citizens party to another glorious victory at the next municipal election in February. The names of many representative citizens have been suggested for the office of recorder, among which we find the name of Mr. Murry A. Verner. Now, Mr. Editor, here is the ideal man; the man of the hour, so to speak. A man whom the staid, conservative business man can conscientiously support; the man whom the young business man can and will rally to; the man whom the artisans generally and without exception will deem it a pleasure and honor to support. A life-long resident of this city, conversant with its needs, strong, clean and courageous, and of unquestioned integrity. Should Mr. Verner acquiesce in what is generally regarded as "a call," I might add a command, from the people, we can all look forward to a splendid epoch in municipal management and at the same time feel that at the helm we have a man in whom full and complete confidence is reposed.

THOS. P. CAMPBELL.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24.

A Great Achievement.

From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The granting of a 10 per cent advance in wages by the Pennsylvania railroad to its 100,000 employes is something which deserves the plaudits of the American people. The advance was purely voluntary. It seems to have surprised the recipients almost as much as it has gratified them. It is a great achievement in practical benevolence and—[illegible]

PERSONALS.

"The two crack shots of our town gave quite an exhibition of shooting on Saturday," said Attorney A. H. Anderson of Venetia last night. "There has been much rivalry between these Dr. Carvers, and on Saturday they decided to shoot it out to decide which was the better marksman, and incidentally for a considerable side bet. Four hundred Venetians gathered at the shooting grounds. Clay pigeons were the targets to be shot at. First one shot, hitting his clay pigeon. His adversary had similar good fortune. Thus they shot several times, each man bringing down his bird, and the score stood equal. Finally one missed and the betting waxed strong. His rival missed, too, and there was wonder. Then both missed, and the wonder grew. After 15 rounds were missed the shooters got rattled and their backers got angry, and there was much learned talk about their eyes going back on them. One individual, whom I will not name, was smiling quietly to himself. Somebody saw him smile and an investigation was started, and it was learned that the amused person had quietly removed the shot from the shells and the crack shots had been firing blank shells. Many of the crowd of 400 were teetotalers, so that the discovery did not cost the rivals as much money as it should have."

"I had been telling a friend who came with me today of the picturesqueness of the environs of Pittsburgh," said Lee Martin of Columbus, last night at Union station. "But he told me tonight that he thought the 20 miles on the Panhandle railroad outside of Pittsburgh were very monotonous. No wonder! It seemed to me that for 20 miles our train traveled between walls of freight cars. There were freight cars on each side of us, and we could hardly catch a glimpse of the picturesque hills and ravines as we approached the city. Pittsburgh itself is smoky and not beautiful, but in the future I am going to wait till a freight blockade is over before bragging to a friend of the beauties of nature outside the city."

Maj. Thomas S. Crago of Waynesburg and Maj. John M. Coffin of New Brighton, both of the Tenth regiment, N. G. P., went east last night. They said they were going to Shamokin, where their regiment was stationed during the late anthracite unpleasantness, just for a social visit.

The South and the West.

From the Nashville American.

In 1896 the popular cry in some quarters was for a political alliance of the south and the west. The east was damned, while the west was praised and coddled. The result of the attempted alliance is history. It was repeated in 1900. When Populist Peffer defeated Ingalls in Kansas and Irby and Tillman succeeded Butler and Hampton in South Carolina the political ghost dancers announced that the political millennium was dawning, and that the south and west, with their combination of Populism, silver Republicanism and adulterated Democracy, would constitute a combination that would subdue the east, overcome Wall and Lombard streets, and lead the plain people out of the wilderness. The combination didn't work; the alliance was a failure. Today the west is as solidly Republican as the south is Democratic. There can be no natural or profitable alliance of the south with the west—in business or in politics.

More Time for Explanation.

From the Atlanta Journal.

We hope the gentlemen who are trying to start up the 1904 campaign already will at least wait until our Democratic leaders have finished explaining the last one.

POLITICAL DRIFT.

President Roosevelt's appointment of William R. Byrne to be United States district attorney for Delaware is explained by the Philadelphia Press and is found to have no bearing upon the president's attitude toward Addicks. Byrne was originally appointed by President McKinley. Last summer he accepted a nomination for congress at the hands of the Addicks faction. President Roosevelt requested him to resign, as he did not think it proper for a man to hold that office while conducting a campaign for election to another. Byrne was defeated. The president then reappointed him, as who would have done had he been an Addicks' candidate for congress. President Roosevelt is not interfering in the Delaware senatorial contest, the Press says, and there is every reason to believe the Press knows what it is talking about. Addicks might like an indorsement, but he will not get it.

Suggestions for an extra session of congress are meeting with the same opposition in the first instance that have loomed up before all extra sessions—the aversion of senators and members to sparing three or four months' time for legislation, when they prefer to be making money at home practicing law, engaging in business, or traveling for pleasure in strange lands, says the Washington Post. Those considerations, of course, must be cast to the winds when a president decides that there must be an extra session, but in discussing the matter with congressmen the force of that objection is felt. Then the objection to an extra session is now made that the Republicans as a party want to stand on their record, whereas it is the Democrats who want to make tariff revision an issue. Republicans who oppose revision think no chances should be taken to help the Democrats along with the efforts to make an issue.

Cleveland Republicans who are not strong on factionism are rejoicing over the reconciliation of Senator Hanna and M. F. Bramley, the latter a foremost McKissonite. The reunion was brought about at a recent dinner given in Senator Hanna's honor. Bramley, after the speech-making, stepped up, clasped Mr. Hanna's hand and promised to forget the past. Though Bramley does not wield a very great influence, his present attitude is taken as an augury of a united Republican party in the coming Cleveland city election, when the principal duty will be to unhorse Mayor Tom L. Johnson.

The Indianapolis Journal (Rep.) says of the situation in the south: "Republicans who give consideration to the declared purpose of the president not to ignore colored Republic

TINIEST WOMAN TO BE IN COURT

Judge Buffington Will Decide Case of Chiquita, the Mexican Midget.

BOSTOCK CLAIMS HER

Story of Sprite's Romantic Love Escapades Will Be Told—Long Journeys and Interesting Experiences—Hid in Pillow Case.

Chiquita, now Mrs. Anthony C. Woeckener, the tiniest woman living, will appear before Judge Buffington in the United States court today to answer the injunction suit of Frank C. Bostock, the animal showman, who is attempting to prevent the midget from exhibiting herself for two years, except under his management. He claims to have a contract with her for that time. The defendant is 21 inches high and weighs only 18½ pounds.

CHIQUITA,
The Mexican Midget.

When Judge Buffington hears all of the evidence in the case, a remarkable tale will have been told. Chiquita's midnight escape from the fourth-story window of a hotel, lifted down in the folds of a pillow slip into the arms of her boy husband, who carried her in the pillow slip to a train and conveyed her to his home in Erie; her romantic elopement and marriage, separation and reunion; all these points will go to make up an interesting narrative.

Chiquita's Lively Career.

Chiquita was born at Gaudalaxara, Mexico, 24 years ago. Her husband, Anthony Woeckener, will be 19 years old today and is not large for his age. They have lived happily at his father's house since they ran away from the Bostock show in August.

A friend of her father brought Chiquita into publicity in Mexico, and Liveratio Brambila took her to New York city in 1893, where she engaged with the Bostock show. She made her first American appearance at the old public library building in Boston and toured in America for two years. Chiquita says that she does not recall having appeared in Pittsburgh with Bostock. She made two trips to England and Europe with Bostock and pleasantly recalls her presentation to Queen Victoria, who gave her a diamond studded miniature gold watch, claimed by Mr. Bostock. In America she has made the acquaintance of almost every governor and was presented with a tiny solid silver sword in Indiana. Chiquita led the grand march with President McKinley at his first inaugural ball in Washington.

How Love Found a Way.

The romantic courtship, marriage and escape of the little woman and her boy husband form the most interesting chapter in her life. Anthony Woeckener first saw her when he was a musician in the band connected with the Bostock show at Savannah. He was then only 14 years of age. At the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo he was playing a cornet in the Chiquita show and their acquaintance ripened into love. Bostock tried to prevent Woeckener seeing the doll lady, but, according to Woeckener's story, he took his sweetheart through the ticket window of her booth about midnight of the last day of the Pan-American. They escaped and were married at 2 o'clock on the morning of November 2 by Judge Rockford of Buffalo. Two hours later Woeckener says that Clyde Powers, one of Bostock's assistant managers, forced Chiquita to leave her husband at the point of a revolver, and Woeckener was discharged from the show.

Young Woeckener tried to secure his wife by legal action at Boston, but was defeated by an alleged statement of Chiquita that she preferred to remain with the show. Chiquita mourned the loss of her husband so much that Bostock re-engaged Woeckner and they were in each other's company during the day show.

At Elgin, Ill., Woeckener, fearing he was again to be discharged, made arrangements and slid down a rope from the hotel window with his bride on the night of August 26. They reached home in Erie. Bostock, claiming that she had signed a contract until after the world's fair in St. Louis, immediately enjoined her from public exhibitions. This case will be argued today.

WILL ARBITRATE DIFFERENCES.

Mesta Machine Company and Union Have Agreed on Terms.

The differences existing between the Mesta Machine Company and those of their employes who are members of the International Association of Machinists will be submitted to an arbitration committee for satisfactory adjustment. This scheme of settling the grave differences engendered some time ago by the inauguration by the machine people of the premium system was agreed upon last Friday by a joint committee of machinists and employers, and each side has already selected an arbitrator to represent them in the coming sessions.

This committee will be made up of three members. The two already selected by the parties at variance and a third who will be chosen jointly at a meeting which will take place tonight. Another meeting is scheduled for next Saturday, at which all matters now in dispute will be discussed and a plan of settlement proposed.

Erie and Cleveland Washington and Wheeling.

And other stations on the Pennsylvania lines, within a radius of 150 miles of Pittsburgh, may be visited on November 26 and 27. New Castle, Youngstown, Ashtabula, Canton, Wooster, Dennison and Coshocton, are included in the many points to which low rate tickets from Pittsburgh may be obtained account Thanksgiving. Return limit on excursion tickets November 28.

TUNNELS THROUGH DUQUESNE HEIGHTS

Local Companies Plan Rapid Transit Between Chartiers Valley and Pittsburgh.

If the plans of the projectors are accomplished, within three years the boroughs of Carnegie, Ingram, Crafton, Thornburg and the entire Chartiers valley will be brought into closer communication with Pittsburgh by means of a tunnel extending from the Point bridge to Wabash and Shaler streets, through Duquesne heights.

Charters were granted at Harrisburg yesterday to the Rapid Transit Tunnel Company and the Southern Tunnel Company, only one of which will be built. The projectors took out two charters to keep out competition, and to select at their leisure the most available of two routes through the hill. The tunnel is expected to cut down the run between Pittsburgh and Carnegie two miles and the time limit to 20 minutes. Regular toll rates will be charged all vehicles and the projectors hope to lease the traction rights to the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

E. G. Husler is president of both companies. The other officers are J. W. Nesbit, treasurer; directors, James T. Fox, M. C. Dunlevy, Frank Thornburg, T. B. Lee, E. G. Husler and J. W. Nesbit. Miller, Prestley & Nesbit are attorneys.

If the projectors decide to build the rapid transit tunnel they will follow the line of the old tunnel, built many years ago by the owners of Painters mill, through Mt. Washington for the purpose of supplying the mill with coal. This tunnel will start about 840 feet east of the east curb of the Point bridge and run southwesterly to a point on Wabash street, 30 feet east of the intersection of Wabash and Shaler streets. The tunnel will be about 1,800 feet long, and wide enough to allow the free passage of both street cars and other vehicles.

If the Southern tunnel is built it will commence at a point about 1,500 feet west of the west curb line of Point bridge and run in a southwesterly direction, following the course of the old Gray and Bell coal tunnel to a point in Wabash street, 748 feet west of the intersection of Wabash and Shaler streets. The tunnel lines are practically parallel.

Attorney H. J. Nesbit says that the tunnels will be commenced at an early date and rushed to completion, as there is too great a demand for the tunnels to permit of any delay.

NEW HOME THROWN OPEN.

Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music Is Inspected by Musicians of the City.

The fact that Pittsburgh is becoming a distinct musical center was emphasized last night by the opening of the new home of the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music in Dithridge street, near Fifth avenue. A reception was given to the representatives of the press and some of the musical friends of Beveridge Webster, the director, a rather informal affair which more than fulfilled the promise of warm welcome which the invitations contained.

The new conservatory is in two stories. The first, which may be entered from small doors on either side the large formal entrance, is given up entirely to offices, cloak rooms and studios. Here a light lunch was served. The upper floor is in the form of a concert hall and has been built with the greatest attention to the acoustic properties. It has a seating capacity of 700. It was last night decorated very artistically with quantities of foliage, palms and chrysanthemums. It is lighted both from the sides and above and is finished in hardwood, while the windows are of stained glass. The stage is built into a circular alcove at the east end of the hall and may be reached by stairs from the floor below.

Beveridge Webster and his sister, Miss Webster, received the guests in the concert hall, and though there were no programs, it was understood that the "little music" would be of extremely interesting character. About 9:30 o'clock, therefore, Victor Herbert, Luigi von Kunits and Mr. Merck appeared and gave several numbers, which were encored.

This evening another reception will be held, more especially for the pupils of the conservatory, several of whom take part in a short musical program.

BRICKLAYERS JOLLIFIED.

Fifteen Hundred of Them Attended a Smoker and Luncheon in Old City Hall.

At the invitation of Pittsburgh local No. 2, National Union of Bricklayers, 1,500 fellow-craftsmen gathered in the auditorium of Old City hall last night to participate in the first annual smoker given by union bricklayers in this city.

The arrangements were entrusted to committeemen, under the direction of John Nolan, and they were more than successful in providing entertainment that appealed to more than the inner man. There were boxing bouts by clever men and music by an orchestra of bricklayers. The dinner was provided by Louis Maier.

The next national convention will be held in Memphis and the election of delegates to represent the Pittsburgh lodges will be elected at a meeting next week. Only three of the many candidates who have announced themselves will be selected.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS.

Braddock Slavs Will Erect Parochial Residence and School.

The congregation of St. Michael's Slavonic Catholic church, Braddock, at a congregational meeting yesterday, decided to expend $50,000 in improvements on their church property at Frazer street and Braddock avenue. The improvements are to include a parochial residence for the Rev. Father Albert Kazinski, a convent for the nuns who are to teach the parish schools and a new school house. The buildings are to be in the rear of the church and the present parochial residence is to be razed.

The school building will cost $25,000, and the convent and residence $12,000 each. The three buildings are to be of buff brick, with stone trimmings. The congregation has been organized for 12 years. Its property is valued at $75,000.

Her Pittsburgh Residence Brief.

Detectives Barry and Milholland arrested Mrs. Jessie Kirby of No. 136 Ninth street yesterday, on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Mary Cohen of Harrisburg, on a charge of larceny by bailee. Mrs. Cohen says Mrs. Kirby got furniture from her with which she furnished a house in Harrisburg, but before paying for it shipped it here. J. T. Walters, county detective of Dauphin county, took Mrs. Kirby to Harrisburg last evening, where, he says, she is also charged with illegal liquor selling. She lived here six months.

Rev. Mr. Althouse Denounces Dancing, Cards and Theatricals.

ALL ARE FULL OF EVIL

McKeesport Minister Takes Extreme View on Popular Diversions—Other Reformed Clergymen Criticise His Utterances.

Card playing, dancing and theater going were scored by the Rev. C. F. Althouse of McKeesport in a paper he read before the Reformed ministers yesterday morning in Grace church. The paper which Mr. Althouse read, entitled "The Church and Popular Amusement," met with the opposition of many of the ministers present, who declared that these diversions were perfectly proper if enjoyed in the right manner. Mr. Althouse said in part:

"The danger as conducted by modern society is an open violation of the sixth commandment and brings hundreds annually to premature graves. A style of dress is adopted, specially by the ladies, that expose them to great physical dangers. The dance destroys social purity because of its evil associations and improper relations of the sexes. Liberties are taken and conversations engaged in that elsewhere would cause the refined to blush.

"The Rev. Perry Sniks, in his book on 'Popular Amusements,' speaks of the modern dance or waltz in these words: 'Would a lady with a spark of self-respect at any other place than at a dance, lay her head upon the shoulder of a man not her husband, place her breast against his and allow him to encircle her waist with his arm, place his foot between hers and clasp her hands in his?' No wonder that the modern dance has caused the ruin of more innocent girls than any other snare prepared by Satan. It is said that 15 out of 20 fallen women ascribe their fall from virtue to the influence of the dance. Its spirit is not the spirit of religion.

Cards and the Theaters.

"The time has come in the history of the Christian church when the minister who cries out against the increasing evil of card playing lessens his influence and cuts off his own head. The card table has become the essential qualification to admission into polite society. In England alone, a half million packs are made each year and the United States government derives a large revenue from the tax on the sale thereof. The columns of the press daily, under the head of society news, bear testimony to the fact that progressive euchre parties are being given by those who profess to be leading members of the church; by Sunday school teachers who, on the following Lord's day, instruct the young about truths spiritual and divine. In my estimation the gambling den is not nearly so dangerous, nor does it do the same amount of harm as the social card playing in the home. In the gambling house none but gamblers enter, while in the home the children are permitted to watch the game and to play.

"The theater is linked with the dance and card table as the associated pleasures of the amusement loving age. While the immoral influence of the theater is appalling, yet our church people help to encourage it by turning the churches into theaters for the purpose of raising money. There may be nothing objectionable in the plays, but the education thus given must be considered. The church should condemn the theater, when it constantly unsexes women by presenting them in masculine attire. The common law forbids this elsewhere and a woman who is detected in the street in man's garb is arrested.

Attendance Would Thin Out.

"If all churches would close their doors to the theater-goer, or prevent him from assembling at the Lord's table, I feel it would have a tremendous effect upon church attendance and leave the Lord's cup almost untasted."

A heated discussion followed Mr. Althouse's remarks. Many of the ministers declared that he put the matter too strongly. It was said that the Reformed church condemned card playing, dancing and theatergoing only when carried on improperly. The speakers declared that they were against card playing for prizes, but thought that the intellectual game of whist, when no stakes were prepared, might be indulged in with considerable profit. The ministers declared that they were in favor of proper plays at theaters and that all three matters discussed should be reduced to a basis of God-conscientiousness.

The Methodist Protestant ministers heard a paper by the Rev. Harlan G. Feeman, on "Augustine," which gave a graphic sketch of the founder of the Calvinistic system of theology.

The Rev. Thomas S. Parks of Allegheny addressed the United Presbyterians on "The Proper Observance of Thanksgiving." He held that all the people should go to church and deprecate the growing tendency to football, hunting and other dissipation.

Committee on Money Raising.

At the meeting of the Presbyterian ministers the following committee was announced to secure $100,000 for the Westminster Theological seminary: The Rev. Maitland Alexander, the Rev. W. O. Campbell and Robert Pitcairn.

The Westmoreland United Presbyterian presbytery heard a report on church extension from the Rev. J. S. Hill, the Rev. C. S. Marshall and T. L. Jamison, recommending that work begin at once at Monessen, Derry, Youngwood and Connellsville.

The Baptist association heard a paper by the Rev. George M. Street of Braddock on "Doctrine vs. Atmosphere." The Lutheran ministers listened to a paper on "The Bible and Practical Life," by the Rev. G. H. Heindel. The Methodist Episcopal ministers heard a paper by the Rev. D. M. Muller of Allegheny on "Is the World Growing Better?" He held that there is improvement all along the line.

MOZART CONCERT TONIGHT.

With Three Fine Soloists the Club Presents Haydn's "Creation."

The Mozard club tonight gives its presentation of Haydn's "Creation" at Carnegie Music hall. The event is one of unusual interest, as the club in past years has accomplished much and is enjoying a merited patronage.

The soloists tonight are to be Mrs. Mamie Hissen de Moss of New York, soprano; Edwin H. Douglas of Cleveland, tenor, and Herbert Witherspoon of New York, bass. This will be Mr. Douglass' first appearance before a Pittsburgh audience, although for some years past he has appeared as a soloist in nearly every large city in the United States. Mrs. de Moss has been a favorite in the east this season, and Mr. Witherspoon is well known here. The chorus is in splendid form and the concert tonight promises to eclipse all former efforts of the club.

New York Texans to Organize.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Natives and former residents of Texas now in this city have set on foot a plan to organize a "Texas Society of New York." A call for a meeting to be held on Friday, November 28, at the Fifth Avenue hotel, has been issued.

SOCIETY

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM ELINN gave a handsome dinner last evening at their mansion in North Highland avenue, the guest of honor being Miss Sarah Hamilton Albertson, daughter of George H. Albertson. The party included the members of the bridal party which will attend Miss Albertson and John R. Lyons at their wedding tomorrow evening, together with several relatives and family friends.

The event, for which 20 covers were laid, was a progressive dinner served in the hall in the stately mansion on the edge of Highland park, one of the largest and finest banquet rooms in the state. The guests were seated at five round tables scattered about the large apartment and the decorations, though simple, were most effective. They were in pink, the wedding color, upon each table appearing a large mound-like centerpiece of roses and chrysanthemums, from which radiated ribbons and delicate ferns. Candles, with dainty rose pink shades, lighted each table, while the apartment was flooded with light from the central chandeliers of crystal and opalescent globes. The appointments of the room are superb, the richly-inlaid floor—with its matchless rug, the heavy panelled ceiling and the massive carvings which surround the room, forming a picturesque setting. The dinner cards were quaintly heart-shaped and contained the name of the guest with monograms of the guest of honor and the hosts. White ribbons peeped from the centerpiece. Drawing them forth the guests learned who were to stay and who were to move on to the next table, those having the small silver hearts remaining, while the winners of the tiny silver bells moved on to the next.

After the conclusion of the dinner, which was served at 7 o'clock, an informal musicale was given in the main reception hall. The soloist was William Griffith, cellist.

The guests last evening included Miss Sarah H. Albertson, Mrs. Lloyd G. Macrum of Uniontown, who will be the matron of honor at the wedding tomorrow; Miss Laura Higgins of Chicago, the maid of honor; Miss Louise Brackin of Memphis, Tenn., bridesmaid; John R. Lyons, the bridegroom-elect; his brother, Louis Lyons, the best man; Wilbert Albertson, Charles E. Flinn, Floyd Rose, William McKee, Albert Seeley and Dr. A. P. Matheny, the six ushers; the Rev. Robert M. Russell and Mrs. Russell; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Albertson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Flinn, who, with Senator and Mrs. Flinn, completed the party.

This evening the wedding rehearsal will take place and will be followed by a dinner given by the bride-elect.

To Save Ft. Meigs.

The Dolly Madison chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, yesterday afternoon adopted a resolution indorsing the action of the society of the Wives and Daughters of the Boys in Blue, and promising its co-operation to preserve from desecration the burial ground at Fort Meigs. The chapter will use its influence in behalf of the movement to secure the site of Fort Meigs with its burial ground, as a national park.

This action was taken yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Dolly Madison chapter at the Twentieth Century club. The regent, Mrs. Frank H. Murdock, was absent, and Mrs. Sullivan Johnson, vice president of the state society, presided. After the routine business following the roll call was dispatched, a paper by Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon and compiled from clippings found in the scrap book belonging to her father, the late William Darlington, was read. The paper described the organization of the company of the Boys in Blue for the war of 1812, in Pittsburgh. The company, containing 100 men before starting for the front, camped in vacant lots lying between Belmont and Beaver avenues, Allegheny, then a pretty place, its green pastures surrounded by the comfortable homes of the earlier settlers upon the banks of the Ohio. Embarking in boats on the Ohio, the company was carried to Wheeling, where the boats were left and the boys started to join General Harrison. Fort Meigs was the center of the struggle west of the Allegheny, and though other forts and fortifications abounded, the only burying ground was there and General Harrison carried all of the dead in the several engagements to Fort Meigs. Eight hundred and twenty-five American soldiers were interred there, and among the number were several men from Pittsburgh.

There is a movement on foot to destroy the site of Fort Meigs in the interest of business and industrial advancement, and the government decided to remove the dead to Indiana. This provoked protest from patriotic men and women, and a society was organized called the "Wives and Daughters of the Boys in Blue," whose object is the preservation of the site as it now stands, and efforts are being made to have it converted into a national park. Mrs. John A. Logan is president of the society and Mrs. Ellen McMahon Castara is the secretary. The resolution adopted at the meeting of the Dolly Madison chapter was the result of a letter received from Mrs. Castara asking for the co-operation of patriotic men and women in this city in a combined effort to prevent the obliteration of the site of the fort, one of the most notable landmarks of the second war with England.

In Interest of Juvenile Court.

Mrs. Alice B. Montgomery of Philadelphia spoke yesterday morning at the Twentieth Century club on the work of the juvenile court in her home city. Mrs. Montgomery is a probation officer of the juvenile court in Philadelphia and has been interested in the opening of the court in Pittsburgh. In her talk yesterday Mrs. Montgomery related many of her own experiences in her work in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Montgomery spoke also of what she has seen in the few days she has been in Pittsburgh, telling the story of the little newsboy, who was imprisoned for stealing a paper. It was probably the only wicked thing he had ever done. His mother, in telling the circumstances of their life, said he was in the habit of saving a dollar a week from his earnings and depositing it in the bank. In time the one dollar grew to $100. Then the father was taken sick and there was no money coming in, but bills were accummulating. The little fellow brought out his bank book, showing his $100 in the bank, and asked his mother to use it.

This afternoon Miss McKnight, chairman of the permanent civic committee, will confer with Mrs. Richard R. Quay, chairman of the sub-committee on juvenile court and probation officers, and another committee of three will be appointed to consider applications for probation officers, the juvenile court officers having consented to receive suggestions from the women, through whom must come most if not all of the money to pay the salaries of these officers.

The sub-committee on Juvenile court and probation officers consists of Mrs. Richard R. Quay chairman, Mrs. Edward Crocker vice chairman, Mrs. W. J. Young of Crafton treasurer, Mrs. William Whitman of Ingram secretary, Mrs. E. A. Woods, Miss Elizabeth Cory, Mrs. William P. DeArmitt, Mrs. E. B. Scull, Mrs. Sullivan Johnson, Mrs. William H. Black, Mrs. Samuel Miller, Miss Alice Holdship, Miss Grace Henderson, Mrs. W. S. Foster, Mrs. A. B. Starr, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neill, Mrs. J. H. Williamson, Mrs. Walter Fundenberg, Mrs. William G. Hawkins, Mrs. Z. T. Miller, Mrs. James I. Buchanan, Mrs. F. J. Torrance, Mrs. A. B. Shepherd, Mrs. F. H. Wade, Mrs. E. L. Mattern, Mrs. Alfred E. Clark, Mrs. M. E. Van Wagonen, Mrs. W. D. Hamilton, Mrs. W. C. Anderson, Mrs. L. Koethen, Jr., Mrs. Reistar, Mrs. J. W. Marsh and Mrs. J. Turner.

A Drawing-Room Entertainment.

Mrs. Wenman A. Lewis opened her handsome home in Amberson avenue, Shadyside, yesterday afternoon in the interests of charity. A drawing room entertainment was given by Robert Pigott of New York, assisted by Miss McNamara, one of his pupils. It consisted of songs and stories in dialect, selections from the poems of James Whitcomb Riley and Will L. Stanton. The humorous character sketches of the sons of the Emerald Isle appeared beside the rollicking monologues of the Southern mammy crooning to her pickaninnies. It was a very enjoyable affair, and Mrs. Lewis' drawing room, in which a low platform was improvised, was filled with a smartly dressed audience, while carriages crowded one another in the adjoining streets of Shadyside.

After the informal program was concluded a cup of tea was served and the afternoon closed with pleasant social intercourse. Mrs. Lewis, who had placed her house at the disposal of the board of managers of the Public Wash House and Bath, for whose benefit the entertainment was given, received very informally, the president of the board, Mrs. D. C. Clapp, standing with her. The patronesses were Mrs. D. C. Clapp, Mrs. James H. Park, Mrs. John G. Holmes, Mrs. James W. Brown, Mrs. John Eaton, Mrs. P. D. Perchment, Mrs. Cortlandt Whitehead, Mrs. Lee S. Smith, Mrs. Heinemann, Mrs. J. J. Vandergrift, Mrs. John C. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Edward H. Utley.

Exhibition of Alexander's Paintings.

John W. Alexander consented to an exhibition of 18 of his portrait pictures, in the Durand-Ruel galleries in New York, opening yesterday and continuing until December 6. This is especially pleasing to the many Pittsburgh people who are in New York now and will remain east until the first of December, though only six examples of his work are on exhibition, they represent some of his best efforts. Several of them have already been seen in Pittsburgh, among the number being "Isabella and the Pot of Basil," which created such a furore at the Paris Salon in 1897 and was purchased by the Boston Art Museum; the "Portrait of Rodin," exhibited at the Buffalo exposition; "The Child with Doll," which took a gold medal at the Buffalo exposition, and "Autumn," all of which have been seen in the Carnegie art galleries. "The Green Bow," which was purchased by the French government for the Luxembourg gallery; superb portraits of his wife, which is said to have been a suggestion of Gainsborough, and of Mrs. Thomas Hastings; another of the Rev. Dr. Patton, president of Princeton theological seminary; the portrait of Miss Dorothy Roosevelt, "A Study in Green" and "A Quit Hour" are among the other notable examples of this artist's versatile brush.

Watts—Dickson.

An unusually large and pretty home wedding took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watts in Edgeworth. It was the marriage of their daughter, Miss Hortense Elaine Watts, to Dr. Robert Watson Dickson. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. H. John Moody of Scottdale, formerly pastor of the Sewickley Baptist church. The bridal party included the maid of honor, Miss Jane Norris of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride; the best man, Dr. Matthew A. Graff, a cousin of the groom; the bridesmaids, Miss Clyde Nichols of Sewickley and Miss Elizabeth Snow of Greenfield, Mass., and the ushers, Thomas E. Graff and Percy I. Stowell. The bride was accompanied by her father by whom she was given away.

The bride is exceptionally handsome and was gowned in white crepe meteor with trimmings of duchesse point and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The house was elaborately decorated. Two hundred and fifty guests were present.

Dr. Dickson and his bride left last evening for Mexico on an extended wedding trip.

THE GREAT PURITAN INSTITUTION, THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving? Well, 'Tween You and Me, There Isn't in all the Year Another Day That Can Compare—'Cept Christmas.

This festival, New England's own day of rejoicing, yet so dear to the hearts of all true-born Americans, and always suggestive of the old farm-home, is with us once again. Looking upon it as we do at the present time as a day of festival, we little realize the great solemnity which was mingled with the rejoicing that filled the hearts of those heroic Puritan ancestors of ours who, having passed through so many months of bitter trial and disappointment, starvation staring them in the face by the failure of their harvests, were, through the divine hand of Providence, able to change the day appointed for prayer and fasting into one of great joy and thankfulness. Although each year has brought with it changes to this day of feasting, the spirit of the day still survives and in "Yankee land" at least its place will never be filled. So with the thought of the early Thanksgiving in our hearts, we will gather around the festal board and preserve as much as possible the original spirit and customs of the day, and make it one long to be remembered.

The Thanksgiving dinner of our grandmother was certainly the greatest pride of her dear old heart. The table, lengthened out to its full capacity to accommodate relatives and friends, children and grandchildren and great-grandchildren who had come from far and near to partake of the feast, was literally loaded with all the good things of the season. The lordly turkey of course held the place of honor on the table—then there were the oyster patties and the chicken pie, the cold roasted pork, vegetables innumerable, pickles, sour and sweet, cranberry jelly, celery, preserves and, of course, the pumpkin pie, nuts, raisins and apples, not forgetting the home-made wine and cider—all appearing on the table at the same time. To the housewife of the present day this lavish display of hospitality seems almost appalling, yet, in order to carry out the real spirit of the day and to make it as much as possible like the old-time feast, she must avoid all modern innovations in table decorations and arrangements, using, if possible, "grandmother's china," seasonable flowers for decorations, and, above all things, do honor to the national and traditional turkey and pumpkin pie. However, if the housewife chooses, she may give her Thanksgiving dinner in a much easier way, making it a very simple yet pleasant affair, with only the faint reminder of the old-time feast. The following menus will be appropriate for both occasions:

Thanksgiving Dinner of "Ye Olden Tyme."

Roast Turkey with Cranberry Sauce.
Boiled Potatoes. Baked Squash.
Stewed Onions. Boiled Turnips.
Chicken Pie.
Cold Roast Beef Stuffed with Sage and Onion Dressing.
Pickles. Spiced Peaches. Celery.
Pumpkin Pie.
Apples. Nuts. Raisins.
Coffee. Wine. Cider.

Thanksgiving Dinner of the Present Day.

Oysters on Half-Shell.
Horseradish, Lemon.
Bouillon in Cups. Wafers.
Roast Turkey. Oyster Stuffing.
Cranberry Sauce.
Baked Squash. Mashed Potatoes.
Chestnut Croquettes.
Fruit Salad. Cheese Balls.
Peach Mousse. Hot Sauce.
Marguerites and Angel-food.
Cheese. Celery.
Wafers.
Fruit. Nuts.
Coffee.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

S. J. writes—Can white potatoes be used instead of sweets for making a potato custard pie? If so, please give recipe.

To half a pint of mashed potatoes add a little salt and grating of nutmeg; the grated rind of a lemon and a pint of milk. Beat the yolks of three eggs with a cup of sugar and add the juice of the lemon; stir the two mixtures together. Line a deep pie dish with paste and turn the custard in. Bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. Make a meringue with the whites of eggs and powdered sugar, adding enough lemon juice to make it quite tart. Heap up on the pie, when it is baked, and serve hot or cold.

Steamed Rice.

What is the best method for cooking rice to serve as a vegetable?

Steamed rice retains all the nitrogenous products and mineral salts and is the best. Wash the rice in cold water, then put a cupful in a large double boiler and pour over it three cups of boiling water and cook until the rice is tender, about an hour; remove the cover and let the excess of water evaporate. Heap lightly in a hot dish and put bits of butter over it. The water may be salted before adding it to the rice.

DIAMOND RINGS STOLEN.

Negroes Rob the Wife of a Fifth Avenue Jeweler.

Two negroes early last evening stole five diamond rings, worth $100, from the store of H. Gold, No. 1333 Fifth avenue.

Gold was absent and his wife was in charge. The negroes asked for a ring of medium price. Mrs. Gold passed up a tray of rings. While one man examined them his partner drew Mrs. Gold aside to show him a ring in another case. Then the negro nearest the door took five rings from the tray and hurried to the street. His companion quickly followed.

WESTERN UNION BOYS BARRED.

Result of Telegraph Company's Struggle for the Pennsy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—No Western Union Telegraph Company messenger is now permitted to enter a train of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to obtain a telegram.

In some cities, as in Lancaster, Pa., a protest has been raised over the action of railroad employes who refused to permite Western Union boys to deliver telegrams to passengers en route. This new rule is the outcome of the contest between the Postal Telegraph and the Western Union Telegraph companies for the control of the business of the railroad.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

To have a wedding quite up to date, you must be married in your own new home. For those who have chosen the autumn for their weddings, the correct thing is to select a home, furnish it, have the marriage take place in it, then close it up, go on the wedding trip, return, and settle down.

The New Fad in Weddings.

That is the new fad—providing there can be fads in weddings.

It is said that the fad was started by a grandfather. Like most fads, it originated in a necessity. A popular girl, who with her mother lived in her grandfather's house, was to be married. The wedding was to take place in June. The grandfather idolized his pretty granddaughter, but he was extremely old and rheumatic, and extremely rich.

He thought of the plan of giving his granddaughter a fine wedding without any trouble to himself. A handsome residence was for sale in the next block. He bought it, furnished it to the last detail, and handed the deed to his granddaughter as a wedding present, with the stipulation that the wedding should be celebrated in the new home.

The bride was delighted with the idea, as were all her friends, who declared that to be married in one's new home was the best of all ways.

That was the beginning of the fad. The bride of today is furnishing her house while she is collecting her trousseau, and when the wedding day comes the guests assemble in the new home. The bride and groom are married under their own vine and fig tree. The wedding trip is not abandoned, but before the last guest has departed the couple are on their journey.

A Kid Glove Pillow.

A utilitarian girl has devised a pretty pillow, and a sensible one as well. She uses the wrists and part of the backs of discarded kid gloves for her purpose, as every woman well knows that when a glove is worn out its wrist is still "as good as new."

Every woman, too, acquires sooner or later a lot of wrinkled wrists of everything, from party to walking gloves, and she wonders, if she thinks about it at all, what they are good for.

But the girl who makes everything do duty in some way has made the coolest, smoothest, nerve-soothing pillow in the world.

She cut her glove wrists into triangles and squares and whatever shapes she could to employ all of the clean parts to the best advantage. These she basted down upon a canvas lining, and then worked them with "cat stitch" in yellow floss. The effect was charming, with the warm autumnal shades and the soft grays and ivories. To judge by the looks of it after a good deal of hard and thoughtless wear, it will outlast any silk or damask one that was ever made.

Miss Sarah Johnson, occupying the position of cook in the family of Mrs. Charles Toll, Dover, won the first prize of $300 in a short story contest recently. Miss Johnson exhibited undoubted literary talent and has resigned her culinary position to prosecute a task more congenial, and judged by her late success, more remunerative. She is writing a novel. The young woman became a well-paid cook in preference to becoming a stenographer for purely business reasons. One occupation was well paid and offered plenty of situations; the other was poorly paid and places hard to find. Miss Johnson was ambitious, but not consumed by false pride. She was compelled to labor for bread and accepted the situation in an independent and practical way. She deserves success.

Wood carving and doll furniture making are good indoor occupations for boys. They may be furnished with an expensive set of tools which will enable them to carve brackets, picture frames and other decorative articles, and to make pretty bits of furniture for doll houses, which they may be able to sell when neatly constructed and varnished.

Indoor Occupations for Children.

Two bright boys whom we know have achieved a piece of work that thrills their young hearts with pride. They have made a really beautiful doll house for their sisters, constructing it out of a big dry goods box, laid on one side and partitioned into rooms. They have papered it inside and out, and made windows in it by cutting out oblong holes and fastening in pieces of glass by the help of tacks, slips of paper and some paste. They have also made some furniture for the little doll house—chairs and a bedstead, for which the girls have made a pretty mattress and a number of quilts. It is said that dolls are going out of fashion. I hope not. They are a most useful, graceful and educational feature in a little girl's life. They teach her to sew and to fit and make articles of clothing; they cultivate the maternal instinct (and it needs cultivating these days), and they help to keep the child in the bud—when the tendency is to bloom out into a "big girl" too soon for healthy development.

A new sort of woman's club has recently made its appearance in New York and promises to be highly successful. The Woman's University club it is called, and all women are eligible who have a degree requiring at least four years' study in certain specified universities and colleges. Like the Chicago Business Woman's club, its object is social welfare rather than study; hence it has little in common with the usual type of woman's literary society, but more closely resembles a man's club. It is the latest step taken by the "advanced woman" and promises to play an important part in the lives of girl graduates not only in New York but throughout the United States, for it has members in every state in the Union.

College Woman's Club.

The club is young, not having completed its first year, but it has already a membership of more than 600. It has a comfortable clubhouse and a lot of other attractive features from the standpoint of the college woman.

Some women make a fad of collecting these hairpins. Lilli Lehman and Emma Juch are said to possess the most complete assortment of these useful and decorative articles. Then what can a woman accomplish with an ordinary wire hairpin? As a glove buttoner it is indispensible; to be sure it is not always a success, but on a pinch it works pretty well. The ornaments to be worn in the hair during the coming season are the most stunning things seen for a long time. Jewelry is fairly hung all over the body, and the hair does not escape. Of course the coronation brought all kinds of coronets into evidence. Women with and without a right to put the strawberry on their coronets wore it in full view.

RESERVOIR BILLS EXPECTED TODAY

Controller Will Refuse to Pay Any Except the One for April.

COUNCILMEN SHIED OFF

Select Body Adjourned Hastily in Order to Avoid Consideration of Resolution—Douglas Says Penalties Were Not Remitted.

The $11,140 April estimate for work on the new reservoir, which has been promised by Director McCandless for several days, did not reach Controller Larkin yesterday, notwithstanding the director agreed to send it on Monday after failing to do so on Saturday. The director said that the original estimate had been lost, and that a new one must be prepared.

It developed that the April estimate was withheld in order to give the director time to prepare estimates for all the work up to the first of the present month, amounting to about $272,000, and present them to the controller in a bunch. Accordin to the program, all the estimates are to be presented to the controller today.

The controller will refuse to pay any except the one for April. He has stated several times that he will obey the supreme court and pay the April estimate.

Goes to Court Again.

The controller's refusal to pay the estimates for six months from May 1 to November 1 is expected to take the matter into court again. The court will then decide whether the refusal of the controller to pay the remaining estimates is a contempt of its order. The controller's defense in this particular will be that the court only designated the April estimate specifically, and that he is holding up the other estimates because of fraud in the construction of the reservoir and its imperfect condition.

The resolution directing the controller to collect penalties for the non-completion of the reservoir within the time named in the contract was messaged to select council yesterday afternoon, but the presiding officer laid it over until all the routine business had been transacted.

Members Shied at Bill.

The consideration of the resolution was presented by a peculiar move. Rather than assume an unpopular attitude, the members, as if by previous understanding, left the hall.

John A. Murphy, who was presiding, waited until nearly all the members were out and then called up the resolution. When he found that he did not have a quorum he declared the meeting adjourned.

Controller Larkin holds that he has authority, and that it is his duty to collect the penalties regardless of the action of councils.

Machine officials continue to assert that the former councils released the contractors from paying penalties. Robert H. Douglas, a member of the finance committee in the former councils, declares that the resolution releasing the contractors from the payment of penalties was sent to the finance committee and killed in the committee.

HUNT FOR HOUSES.

Members of Legislature Will Have Difficulty in Finding Quarters During the Session.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—One of the problems the members of the next legislature will have to solve will be the securing of quarters during the session. Some of the new members who have planned to bring their families here to watch the head of the house legislating for the commonwealth may have to abandon the idea.

The boom that has struck Harrisburg since the last legislature met has grown so that empty houses and even suites of rooms are very scarce, and this despite the fact that during the last two years the building operations have been the heaviest in the history of the city.

Senator Cummings of Warren was here today, looking after quarters, and he is having some difficulty. A number of the old members who have had trouble before have authorized agents to look after their needs, and it is likely that those legislators who postpone the matter too long will have some difficulty when the session opens.

McKEESPORT TEACHERS.

Large Attendance and Good Talkers at the Institute.

The McKeesport teachers institute opened yesterday with an attendance of 150 teachers and several hundred visitors. Dr. Sherman Davis of the University of Indiana, made an address on "Life Relations in Education." He was followed by the Hon. O. T. Corson of Columbus on "What Do Teachers Get Out of the Institute?" In the afternoon Dr. Davis, Dr. A. D. Fess and Mr. Corson spoke. In the evening Gen. Z. T. Sweeney, former minister to Turkey, delivered his lecture on "The Golden Age." The high school auditorium was crowded.

The bridge will cross the river from North Charleroi to the upper end of Monessen, above lock No. 4. Plans and specifications have been prepared by Henry Larmb of Pittsburgh. The estimated cost of the new bridge will be $175,000.

Atkinson's Prospects Bright.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Senators Scott and Elkins saw the president this morning, in company with ex-Gov. Atkinson and Col. N. S. Burlew of Charleston. It had been about settled in the president's mind that he will appoint Mr. Atkinson, who is now United States attorney of one of the West Virginia districts, to a future vacancy on the court of claims. The president has a high opinion of Mr. Atkinson.

School Teacher Missing.

ELLWOOD CITY, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Last Saturday evening Miss Ada McGavan, teacher in the public school at Halzeidell, promised to meet a woman friend at an insurance office, but failed to appear. She has not been seen since. Great anxiety is felt over the mysterious disappearance, as the road connecting Halzeidell with Ellwood is a lonely one. She was highly respected.

Two Damage Suits Filed.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Two damage suits for big amounts were filed today. One was by Charles S. Noble, a horseman of Wheeling, against the Pleasant Heights Street Railway Company, for $8,000 for injuries received. In the other the Lake Erie, Alliance & Wheeling railroad was asked to pay $10,600 for the death of Edward Hampton, at Berholz.

May Move Railroad Yards.

TORONTO, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railway Company finds the yards inadequate at Wellsville and is said may remove them to Port Homer, five miles north of here, where there is ample room. The company has been offered sufficient land at Port Homer.

BURGLARS BLOW UP AND ROB THREE SAFES

Numerous Thefts Reported in Nearby Towns—Post-offices Looted.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—The safe in the office of the Francis hotel at Finleyville, this county, was dynamited last night by burglars, who besieged the proprietor in the second story of the hotel while they ransacked the place. A small amount of money was all they secured. The safe and office were wrecked. The job did not indicate that it was the work of experts. Shortly after midnight W. H. King, the proprietor, who was sleeping in the second story, was awakened by an explosion. He started down stairs hastily and was met on the stairway by a masked man with a revolver, who ordered him to go back. Not being armed, he did so.

ELLWOOD, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—At about 2 o'clock this morning robbers got into the office of the Street Car Forge Company, wrecked the safe with nitroglycerin and got away with $300 and valuable papers belonging to the office.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The postoffice at Enon Valley, west of here, was robbed last night. The safe was blown up and desks ransacked. Some $400 in stamps and cash is missing. There is no clue to the robbers.

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—While the community was attending church on Sunday night burglars hauled away quantities of merchandise from Joshua Groff's grocery and various residences at Simpo, near here. The postoffice was robbed of $35.

CLARKSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Thieves entered the postoffice at Dola last night and secured $40 in stamps. The authorities have a clue.

BUTLER, PA., Nov. 4.—(Special.)—The citizens of Saxonburg and vicinity are arming themselves to protect their homes from the depredations of robbers. Last night the homes of William Rudert, Jr., and Mrs. Francis Bauman were entered and money and valuables taken. There is no clue.

YORK, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—J. C. Dellinger, a cattle dealer, whose home is at Stony Brook, was found lying along the Wrightsville pike this morning. He alleges that he was beaten and overpowered by tramps and robbed of $820, the property of John Mitzel.

JUDGES DISAPPROVED COURT HOUSE CONTRACT

Erection of Westmoreland County Building Is Again Delayed.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 24.—For a second time the award by the board of county commissioners of the contract for the erection of the new $1,000,000 court house of Westmoreland county has been disapproved by the judges of the common pleas court. This morning Judge Alexander M. McConnell announced the ruling of the court disapproving of the contract that had been entered into between Commissioners R. Nelson Gay and George M. Earnest and Caldwell & Drake of Columbus, Ind.

No opinion was handed down, but it was briefly stated from the bench that the court had not been consulted in the award. Judge McConnell stated that while the power of the court was not judicial in the award of the contract the judges, by virtue of their offices, are as important members of the awarding board as the commissioners.

Bids for the new temple of justice were opened by the commissioners and Controller John H. Brown on August 14. Caldwell & Drake bid $372,300 for Webb granite and $700,000 for Cleveland sandstone. The next lowest bidders were Norcross Bros. of New York. Their lowest estimate for granite was $1,032,000 and $923,000 for sandstone. Other bidders were William Miller & Sons, the Lindsey Construction Company of Pittsburgh and George W. Wood & Co., Greensburg. Over a month passed before the commissioners awarded the contract, and on September 27 articles of agreement with Caldwell & Drake were signed, granite having been selected.

A sensational affidavit was made by D. W. Leland of the United Construction Company of New York, suggesting jobbery in the award, and counter affidavits were made by Commissioner Earnest and Caldwell & Drake and Nelson & Buchanan of Chambersburg, Pa., who were alleged to have been parties to the corruption charged. The Leland affidavit, it is stated, was given publication to defeat Mr. Earnest at the November election in his candidacy for a second term. The term of office of the present board expires the first Monday of January, 1903, and the board chosen at the recent election will be given the awarding of the contract for the third time.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

GREENSBURG, PA.—Brakeman Byerly of Greensburg was so badly injured by a train in the Youngwood yards that it is not thought that he can recover.

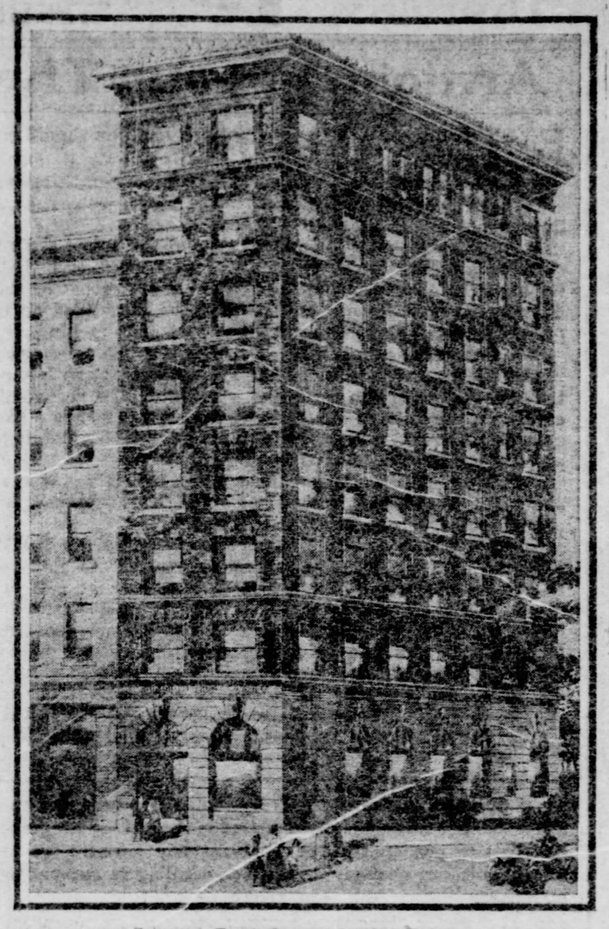
BEAVER FALLS, PA.—A site for a foundry and machine shop has been selected here by the Eureka Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh, and plans are being prepared for the building.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Through the falling of a heavy truss damages were inflicted upon the plant of the Ellwood Pressed steel car works. The construction work under way will be delayed several weeks by the accident.

ERIE, PA.—Peter J. Wild of this city has hiccoughed incessantly for five days. Physicians have found nothing that will afford him relief and he is rapidly growing weaker. The attack followed an operation for appendicitis.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.—Gov. White has granted respites to W. H. Hardwick and Edward Phillips until January 30. Both were under sentence to hang on November 28. Hardwick is from Kanawha and Phillips from McDowell county.



Fairmont Trust Company's New Building.

Va., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Fairmont Trust Company will soon let the contract for the erection of its new home, a seven-story brick and stone structure, to be erected on a space of ground 25x40 feet, facing Main street. To the right is Marion county's temple of justice. To the left of the trust company's building is the Jacobs-Hutchinson five-story brick business block, just completed, at a cost of $75,000 exclusive of the ground. In height the trust company's building excels any building in the city. The first floor will be occupied by the company. The remainder of the building will be used as offices.

ATTEMPTS TO BREAK HIS MOTHER'S WILL

Money of Deceased Pittsburgher Involved in Suit in Ohio.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 24.—A fiercely fought will-breaking case was on trial in court here today in which the money of Thomas Campbell, a wealthy Pittsburgher, who died in 1901, is involved. Harry Breen of Mingo Junction is endeavoring to have the will of his mother, Mrs. Mary Breen, who was a sister of Thomas Campbell, set aside.

Mrs. Breen received $30,000 from her brother's estate and the last will, which, it is alleged, was made because of undue influence, gave her three sons only $500 each and the two daughters, Mrs. Mary Turner of Duquesne, Pa., and Mrs. Elizabeth Kuhn, got the residue.

The latter two, it is alleged, established themselves as nurses the last week of their mother's life after others had cared for her always previously.

LOCOMOTIVE EXPLODES, KILLING TWO MEN

Three Others Are Also Injured by Accident Near Altoona.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Nov. 24.—By the blowing up an engine at Mineral Point, 32 miles west of here, before daybreak, two men were killed and three injured.

The dead:

SCOTT SEESE, aged 34, flagman, of Altoona.
DAVID PRINGLE, aged 38, engineer, of Conemaugh.

The injured:

SAMUEL DAVIS, aged 40, conductor, of Altoona.
A. W. SNYDER, aged 32, brakeman, of Altoona.
GEORGE MILLER, aged 35, fireman, of Conemaugh.

It was Pringle's engine which blew up. He was helping a freight train up the western slope of the Alleghany mountain, when without warning it let go. He and his fireman, Miller, were blown out of the cab, Pringle's skull being fractured and a leg broken. Miller went over a 30-foot embankment, escaping serious injury.

Seese was killed by the collapse of the cabin car on the end of the freight. Davis and Snyder were also in the cabin. Pringle, with the other injured, was brought to Altoona, where he died this afternoon. It is believed the explosion was due to low water in Pringle's engine.

Coal Shippers Enjoined.

FAIRMONT, W. VA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Judge Mason granted the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company an injunction against M. M. Foster, C. D. Robinson and Charles Maneer, local coal shippers, restraining them from entering suit before a justice of the peace in amounts too small to take appeal. Every day for the past week the shippers have entered suit against the company for not being permitted to load coal off a freight siding there.

SORE NECK

Take Scott's Emulsion for scrofula. Children often have sores on the neck that won't heal up. The sores may come and go. Parents may not know what's the matter nor what to do. Scrofula is the trouble and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine.

Scott's Emulsion heals the sores. But that is not all. Scrofula leads to consumption. This is the real danger.

Scott's Emulsion is the "ounce of prevention" that keeps off consumption.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

UNCLE SAM'S CONSENT TO PUNISH VENEZUELA

Great Britain and Germany Get It, Providing They Take No Territory.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 603 Fifteenth St., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.

England and Germany will soon serve an ultimatum upon President Castro of Venezuela demanding that certain international and commercial claims be paid. If the ultimatum does not elicit favorable response, each country probably will seize a customs house and collect the money by force. Both governments have asked the state department if the United States has any objection to the forcible collection of the debt.

A fleet of German warships set sail for Venezuelan waters last winter, and circumstances were such that the state department conveyed to Germany an intimation that the United States would like to know her intentions.

Herr von Holleben, the German ambassador, then asked President Roosevelt if the United States would make any objection to Germany's forcibly collecting the debt. President Roosevelt replied that it would not. In fact, he had answered the question before it was asked.

In his first annual message to congress, speaking of the Monroe doctrine, he said: "We do not guarantee any state against punishment if it misconducts itself, provided that the punishment does not take the form of acquisition of territory by any non-American power."

The same answer has been made to the diplomatic inquiry from England.

Minister Bowen at Caracas has informed the state department that an official bulletin announces that the revolutionary forces from Colombia invaded Venezuela on November 16 and were defeated on the 19th.

Patterson, Jr., of Pittsburgh, arrived here today to do the final work on the Wabash railroad surveys through Greene county. Offices have been fitted up in the Dr. J. T. Eames building. Under the direction of Mr. Patterson the cross section work and draughting will be done preparatory to letting the contract for the building of the road. It was officially announced today that the main line of the Wabash will run by way of Waynesburg.

Child Cut Off by Will.

SUNBURY, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Judge Clinton R. Savidge refused in court today to set aside the will of Daniel Keller, late of Shamokin township. Keller, who lived in Bear Gap and was the farmer who was buncoed out of $7,500 by gold brick men over 13 years ago, married a girl from Harrisburg. As a result of the union three children were born. The third child was entirely cut off in the will.

Lost Money and Wife.

SHARON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. Joseph Hanesak is missing from home, and her husband says she has taken all their savings, $800, with her. Another Austrian is also missing. The police believe that the couple have eloped. Hanesak is desperate and says e will follow them to Europe for he believes that is where they will go.

THE THEATERS LAST NIGHT

Alvin—"The Girl and the Judge."

R. CLYDE FITCH has written one of his characteristic plays in "The Girl and the Judge," which Miss Annie Russell and a strong company presented at the Alvin theater last evening. It is a story at once grotesque and interesting. Hardly any other playwright in the world would have dared attempt a compound so odd, or sought by a mixture of such queer and fantastic elements to construct a play. His theme is the love of a child, a beautiful young girl, for her parents, one of whom is a drunkard, the other a kleptomaniac. The first act finds the trio in the office of a western judge, whither they have gone to seek advice as to a final separation. The young judge falls in love with the daughter—a case of rarely quick love at first sight. In the final decision the husband and wife separate, the daughter staying with the mother, though she clearly loves the father with equal tenderness.

The next act finds the judge's mother calling upon the mother and daughter, for the reason that she has detected the love of her son for the young girl. She lays a pearl and diamond pin upon the table, and when she leaves forgets it. The old temptation seizes the kleptomaniac mother and she steals the pin. Search is made for it and at the last moment it dawns upon the daughter that her mother is the thief. She follows her to a pawn shop, but is too late to find her fears verified, the shop having closed.

Then comes one of those harrowing scenes for which Fitch is so famous. In the darkness of their bedroom the mother and daughter converse, the girl finally accusing her mother of the theft. This is bitterly denied until a sharp ring at the door bell startles both women. The daughter listens at the door until she hears that it is a man's voice, asking for her mother. Then, in a paroxysm of fright, the unhappy woman confesses her guilt. The incident of the ringing door bell is explained by a telegram which bears a message from a friend in the case who has known of their previous disgrace, but who now commends them to Judge Charris' care and bids them to forget the past. The curtain descends upon the sobbing mother and daughter, who realize that it is now too late.

In the next act the judge and his mother come forward and shield the unhappy mother for the sake of the girl, and in the fourth and last act husband and wife go off together and the judge gets his girl. To any one familiar with Mr. Fitch's methods the real dramatic force of the whole story is crowded into the bedroom scene. This is peculiarly Fitchian. The darkness, the daughter just on the border of a great happiness and yet confronted with this terrible disgrace. The mother guilty, yet evading to the last the terrible heart-searching inquisition, which does not yield even at memory of old lullaby which her daughter half sobbingly croons as she tries to stir the nobler instincts of her shrinking mother. And then the quick, sharp revelation that is forced from the mother at the thought of possible arrest, these are human emotions which Mr. Fitch delights to put into his theatric crucible and turn out in th eform of a play. The result in this instance, as we said in the start, are interesting, sometimes vivid and startling, but, as a whole, nowhere convincing because of their reality or humanness. Mr. Fitch tells his story well, but when it comes to peopling his mimic world he makes absurd counterfeits of human beings.

Miss Russell's art in the character of Winifred Stanton, the girl, is sure, gracious and appealing. There is so much that is delightful in this little lady's comedy, so much that is moving and tender in her pathos, that the character she plays lives a long time in the memory without much reference to the original character creation. It is thus in the role that she is playing at the Alvin this week, but Miss Russell's real and best chance has not been given her in Mr. Fitch's theatric medley. Besides Miss Russell there are three or four people in the cast who give the comedy a strong and interesting hold upon the interest. Mrs. Glibert, the dear old lady who is so much loved for herself as for her art, plays the part of the judge's mother, and give it a mixture of tartness and loving pride in her son that is delightful to see. Mrs. McKee Rankin plays the role of Mrs. Brown, the landlady, with a rare and intelligent art that in all her long record has not had more delightful expression. The role is Fitch's one strong piece of character drawing, and Miss Rankin gives it a splendid portrayal that enhances and makes more enjoyable its excellence. Mme. Cattrelly, as a Jewish woman, also plays a character part with fine discrimination and wonderful realism. Mr. Orrin Johnson as the judge, Mr. Glendenning as Stanton, Mrs. DeBell Clough as Mrs Stanton and Arthur Swartz Randolph Mordecai and Herbert Marion each give the star fine support. The play is adequately staged.

Grand—"In the Palace of the King."

The second week of a beautiful production by the new stock company of the Grand Opera house of Lorimer Stoddard's dramatization of Marion Crawford's book, "In the Palace of the King," started last night auspiciously. Through the excellent arrangement of the cast by the management and a part well suited to each actor, a second week is certain to bring out better work than the first. Last night there were two vigorous curtain calls, one at the close of the fourth act, when Miss Eva Taylor as Dona Dolores, the betrothed of Don Juan, accused of killing the cardinal to protect his brother, Philip II., of Spain, wins for Don Juan the favor of the courtiers. Again the audience was much impressed and gave a curtain call to Mr. Beach as the king. Mr. Ingersol as Don Juan, Mace Greenleaf as the cardinal and Miss Taylor, after the scene of the murder. In the final act, when the net of Philip's accuser, Dona Dolores, is closing about him, Mr. Beach's interpretation of most difficult lines was excellent. The audience was enthusiastic, however, throughout the entire play.

Bijou—"Eight Bells."

A new edition of "Eight Bells" is at the Bijou this week. It is hardly possible that there is any person in Pittsburgh who has not seen this merry pantomime, but the appreciation shown by two large audiences yesterday indicates that the people are anxious to see the latest edition. In its new guise there is little change except in the headlines. There is the same ludicrous carriage smashup, the same portable lamp post, the same phantom ship and the animated statues, that have caused old and young to laugh for two generations. The brothers Byrne, the acrobats, do their oldtime stunts with startling agility. "Eight Bells" is the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of pantomime and will doubtless live quite as long as the characters of Marks, Eliza and Legree.

Empire—"A Gambler's Daughter."

Somewhat of a variation was afforded the patrons of the Empire last night in the four-act melodrama, "A Gambler's Daughter." It comes from the pen of Owen Davis and in its rather unusual setting affords much of interest. Gambling, from the tricky practices of a subsidized gaming house to the crafty manipulation of the stock exchange, is the key note of the drama. A gambler, finding himself in hard straits financially, at length determines to barter off his only daughter to the man in whose power are his small remaining fortune and reputation. His trusty clerk is sacrificed to make the scheme succeed, but the daughter, herself an heiress, finds a way to rescue the accountant and thus prove her love. A lively scene, typical of the stock exchange, and a desperate game of cards, give the heroine, Clara Thorpp, a chance to play her fortune against the ill-gotten hoard of the gamblers and win. The play abounds with the usual number of hairbreadth escapes and thrilling encounters. The audience was disposed to be amused and found considerable to applaud in the boisterous attempts of the comic contingent to produce a creditable article of fun.

Avenue—Continuous Vaudeville.

A bill of somewhat unequal merit is offered this week at the Avenue theater. Charles T. Aldrich is always amusing and his work this week is fully up to the mark. With Aldrich on a vaudeville bill there is always a chance for a laugh. His clever impersonation has a natural drollery about it that gives you the impression of having seen "the real thing," but we doubt whether the "hobo" ever lived who had Aldrich's fund of wit and wisdom. Bertie Fowler, one of the very best monologists on the vaudeville stage, is another good act in the Avenue's bill. Miss Fowler's imitation of an intoxicated man is an intensely amusing piece of mimicry, and strange to say, nowhere drops into coarseness or vulgarity. The Five DeLucas are startlingly clever acrobats. Their act is one rarely seen. In the rapidity and agility with which they perform, they create a whirlwind of appiause. Dolan and Lenhart have, to their hurt, changed sketches. The skit they are now doing is very inferior to "A High Toned Burglar." Dolan is out of his element and the act fails to arouse the enthusiasm that these clever people are in the habit of creating. The McCann family do a pleasing dancing turn of no special novelty and the same may be said of the Bicknells in like work.

The "30 minutes of opera" includes the bedroom scene from "Fra Diavalo." Beyond Miss Lane's singing, the act is not meritorious. Neither in the singing of the others nor in the idea one has of the opera from this glimpse, is there sufficient strength to give the feature interest. If the experiment is to be continued a greater excellence will have to be given the singing of the several roles. The rest of the current bill is fairly good vaudeville. Satsuma, the Japanese juggler, Wood and Ray, Edna C. Burnett, Love-Hughes trio and the cinematograph are among items of this character.

Duquesne—"The Empire Show."

The Empire show at the Duquesne this week is a good entertainment in every respect, and the super-critical patrons of this theater generously applauded every number on the program. James J. Corbett, of fistic fame, is billed as the star attraction, and he pleased with entertaining stories of his experiences as a celebrity. Raymond and Caverly are top-notch fourth makers of the Roger brothers variety, and Kennedy and Rooney do some clever dancing and poor singing. The singing of Nora Boyes is particularly good, and it is doubtful if as finished a rendition of the popular "Nancy Brown" song has been heard in Pittsburgh. Hal Davis and Inez McCauley have a clever sketch entitled, "The Unexpected," and Ed F. Reynard has a thoroughly up-to-date ventriloquistic entertainment. The Permane Brothers, French protesques, have a strong hand balancing act, and their noveity, entitled "The Nightingale' Courtship," is one of the very best vaudeville acts of the season. The Three Meers have a unique, startling and laughable comedy wire act, and the Geller troupe furnish some delightful groupings in marble statuary tableaux.

Academy—Imperial Burlesquers.

In pursuance of the usual custom of engaging the best for holiday attractions, the Academy management presents Harry Williams, Jr.'s Imperial Burlesquers this week. This is known as the heavyweight aggregation of the burlesque circuit and comprises a chorus that is good looking and an array of vaudeville talent which is as good as any. The opening burlesque, called "A Pair of Sports," teems with the usual knockabout fun of the kind that James Leonard and Cliff Gordon know how to make. The musical hit of the piece is made by pretty Patty Carney, who was encored again and again. A second scene, which is also good, is used as the closing act. All the specialties were well received, the best of which were by Randall and Perry, in a comedy sketch; Etta Victoria, the "Flexible Venus;" Cliff Gordon, German comedian; Ford and Dot West, in "The Waiter and the Maid," and Adams and Kelly, in a good dancing and grotesque tumbling act.

"A Chinese Honeymoon."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—"A Chinese Honeymoon" returns to Philadelphia. The brightest and best and most sumptuously produced of musical comedies, "A Chinese Honeymoon," had a glorious welcome on its return to Philadelphia, the scene of its American birth, at the Broad street theater tonight. S. S. Shubert and Nixon and Zimerman's new and magnificent production of this famous London and Casino theater New York musical comedy was seen for the first time and made a most brilliant success, the event being quite the most popular and fashionable first night of the season. The excellent comic story of George Tance and Howard Talbot's fluent and catchy music proved again the very best of musical comedy entertainment. The cast is quite a fine one, including Tony Claude, who was the originally engaged Fi Fi.

Chamber of Commerce Banquet This Year Excites Unusual Interest.

Unusual interest has been displayed this year in the arrangements being made for the chamber of commerce banquet, which takes place tonight at the Hotel Schenley. According to Secretary G. H. Anderson not one-half of those who desire to attend could be accommodated. The original plans were made to accommodate 200 guests, all of whom were invited, but since that time so many requests have been sent in for places at the banquet tables that additional tables were secured and arrangements made to have fully 300 guests present. The plates cost $10 each. This unprecedented demand for plates at the annual affair is an evidence of the wonderful prosperity of this vicinity according to Secretary Anderson.

The speakers will be Capt. B. B. Dovener, congressman from the First district of West Virginia; D. M. Parry of Indianapolis, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; L. F. Loree, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and James Francis Burke.

DR. BRASHEAR HAD NO BIRTHDAY FETE

Was Too Busy Fitting Out the Chilean Astronomical Expedition.

Work in preparing the equipment for the Chilean astronomical expedition prevented Dr. John A. Brashear from celebrating the 62d anniversary of his birth. The photographic instruments which will be used in securing negatives of the southern heavens are almost complete in Dr. Brashear's Allegheny workshop and the expedition in charge of Prof. Campbell will start next week.

The object in securing the photographs of the southern sky is to determine accurately the direction the solar system is moving through space. From photographs already taken the direction has been ascertained with a considerable degree of accuracy and when Prof. Campbell returns about a year hence one of the greatest and most interesting discoveries in the science of astronomy will be recorded. From observations already made the direction has been determined to be very close to that described by Herschel, toward the constellation of Hercules.

Toward this goal astronomers declare the solar system is moving at the rate of 1,080,000 miles a day.

The equipment which goes to Chile is one of the finest ever manufactured. D. O. Mills, the millionaire New Yorkers, fitted out the expedition. Dr. Brashear has worked at night for a month in perfecting the delicate mechanisms and he was glad yesterday to secure rest and observe his birthday as quietly as possible. A few friends remembered him with a large bouquet of flowers and Mrs. Brashear gave him several fine books. Dr. and Mrs. Brashear were married 40 years last September. They had intended to celebrate both events yesterday, but were obliged to postpone the dual function. Dr. Brashear was born in Brownsville and took up the study of the stars when he was 8 years old.

A MISSIONARY'S RETURN.

Miss Jennie Adams of This City Will Come Home from China.

Miss Jennie Adams, a Pittsburgh woman, who has been doing missionary work in China for the past four years, is to return to her home in a few days. Her intention to leave China and enjoy a short vacation with her family and friends was made known yesterday, when A. A. Adams, her brother, received a letter saying that she would sail in a short time. Miss Adams left Pittsburgh prior to the Boxer outbreak and remained at her post during the thrilling months when many others were forced to flee.

Miss Adams' work is chiefly among the old women of China. At Foochoo she has established a home for old women, and the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Episcopal church has promised to enlarge it.

In writing on the conditions existing in China, Miss Adams says: "China is still most unsettled, and one never knows just what will happen. I came over from the city last Sunday and the streets and bridge were lined with soldiers, all well armed with Mauser rifles and swords. They are not always partial to foreigners, so that I am always a little anxious until I get safely home."

Music Cabinets As Gifts

Anyone who doubts the hold which good music has upon the people hereabout should attend some of the concerts given from time to time. Another unfailing proof of the "musical invasion" of the home is found in the increased number of Music Cabinets demanded.

The mention of Music Cabinets brings to mind the fact that Christmas is only a short time away, and that a Music Cabinet makes a most acceptable gift. You will find many styles in this stock, some embellished in the highest form of art. The one illustrated above is made of solid mahogany, 30 inches wide and 39 inches high, carved after the modern ideas of embellishment and possessing a decidedly attractive individuality.

Numerous other artistic things here point the wisdom of visiting this store for furniture for all purposes. With the largest stock in the world to select from, you are sure of pleasing your own particular fancy—and at the same time you are assured that price is always an inducement at

KAUFMANN'S "THE BIG STORE"

Closed All Day Thursday.

Anticipate your Thanksgiving pleasures—

EVEN the turkey will be "dressed up" and you should conform to the dictates of fashion—Exploit a new suit or overcoat.

Now just a word—there are three important things to bear in mind when selecting your suit or overcoat—

Get right at the "vitals" of the garment—convince yourself that the qualities are right. Satisfy yourself that the linings and trimmings will give good wear.

Try on the garments, take a few turns before the mirror and make sure the suit or overcoat possesses "style"—see that the collar hugs the neck well and the skirt of the overcoat or the back of the suit hangs or fits gracefully—don't be misguided as to the set of the trousers—that "smart" cut shouldn't be lacking.

The price should be right—Low enough to escape the exorbitant profits exacted by custom tailors, but not so low as to take the style—the very life out of the garments. To "economize" (according to the honest clothier's dictionary) means to "spend enough" to crowd out the objectionable and dissatisfying features of poorly made and ill-fitting clothing.

Good clothing costs a trifle more, but if you want to know about "the Kaufmann method" of satisfying customers, look critically into the points we have outlined.

We especially pride ourselves on our line at $10.00—this is just that price we define as "spending enough" to get a good suit. Of course, we carry higher priced lines—those we call "fine" and "finest"—but we're especially "strong" in this particular $10.00 line of suits and overcoats—there is such a large assortment of materials—more than you can find in any three stores in town combined—the styles are equally numerous—no matter what your taste may be, it can be satisfied—it doesn't matter how you are built—we can fit any height, form or figure and no extra charge to 200-pounders, either.

10.00 Smartest in town at $10.00.

Coachmen's outfits and livery coats—We carry an unusually large line—the same care-taking is exercised in the making and just as reliable materials are put into these garments as any garment we sell—You'll find the prices exceedingly reasonable—entitling us in every way to your patronage.

To crowd the boys' dept. today

WE make the following and many more equally great offerings. Never before could truly good, stylish and dependable clothing be had for so little money as now. Why not "rig out" your boy in a new suit or overcoat for Thanksgiving?

CZAR OF ALL THE RUSSIAS IS ON THE VERGE OF MENTAL COLLAPSE

In the Power of a Mesmerist and Abdication Seems Imminent.

KRUPP DEATH UNSOLVED

Theory of Suicide Has Not Yet Been Dispelled—Kaiser to Attend the Funeral—Estate Is Valued at $150,000,000.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—It has been learned that the recent summoning of Dr. Merzhievsky, one of the foremost specialists in nervous diseases, to the south of Russia, which gave rise to the report that he was going to attend the czar, or the czarina, or both, their majesties having in turn been alleged to be suffering from melancholia, was to visit Balaklava, where the Grand Duke Nicholas Konstantinovich is detained as insane.

Some observers of the situation do not believe that accession of the Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the czar, to the throne, in the event of the czar's abdication and the death of his brother, the Grand Duke Michael, the heir presumptive, would be unpopular, and they do not credit the reports that the advent to supreme power of the Vladimir family would materially alter the existing state of affairs, as the masses are ignorant in regard to every czar's true character and the educated people attach merely subordinate importance thereto. The possible effect of the Draconian system under a sterner ruler on the prospects of a possible revolutionary movement is regarded as idle speculation.

Under Power of Mesmerist.

The latest reports about Philipp, the mesmerist, who is said to have the czar completely under his influence, are that he is a former French physician, is a naturalized American, and that he has been in Russia for about a year, living in the homes of two Montenegrin princesses who married Russians. It is added that the czar granted Philipp the right to practice medicine in Russia and to wear the epaulettes of a military surgeon of the rank of a councillor of state, which equals that of a general.

Finally, it is asserted that the court physician, Dr. Ott, went to Livadia and succeeded in persuading the czar to forbid Philipp to practice on the czarina, and the departures of the ministers of war, of the interior and of finance from Livadia was interpreted as a sign that Philipp's influence was broken. It is also said that these ministers jointly presented a report to his majesty discrediting Philipp, that the czar defended Philipp and resented what he classed as interference with his personal affairs, but finally yielded.

Mental Condition Questioned.

This is looked upon in some quarters as evidence that the optimistic statements on the subject of the czar's mental condition require limitation. Numerous persons who have returned from Livadia within the past three days assert that the czar has been moody and disgusted because his early hopes of introducing a happier regime in Russia were frustrated by the reactionists, whose intimidation imposed a distasteful role upon him.

His majesty was also said to be in genuine fear that his abdication would be demanded, which was strengthened by the sudden return of the Grand Duke Michael and the latter's demonstrative public appearance.

Persons knowing the czar assert that if he was forced to choose between the throne and domestic happiness he would abdicate.

The acceptance of the lucrative but unimportant administratorship of Apanages by the czar's bosom friend, Prince Obolensky, is interpreted as "going to cover" before possible changes which might destroy the value of his personal influence.

In any case, the ministers' departure from Livadia possibly indicates that the crisis is past.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT ESCAPED CENSURE

Removal of Sugar Bounties Brought Out Sharp Debate.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—After a lengthy debate the house of commons today passed a resolution approving the action of the British government in signing the Brussels sugar convention by 213 votes to 135.

The house itself and the public galleries were crowded in anticipation of the discussion. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, who sails on his mission to South Africa November 25, was the center of attraction and he made the speech of the evening. Party lines were not observed during the debate, several Unionist members supporting Sir William Harcourt's amendment to censure the government for its action.

The possible attitude of the United States government in this question entered largely into the debate. Mr. Thomas Shaw, Liberal, maintained that in order to live up to the terms of the convention, Great Britain would be compelled to enforce the countervailing duties against the United States and Russia, with the result that the West Indies would be robbed of their best customer, as the United States now took four-fifths of the West Indian product.

Mr. Chamberlain was loudly cheered. He declared that Great Britain must carry out its fiscal system in its own way without the slightest reference to the opinion of foreign countries. The abnegation of the government's attitude at the sugar conference, he said, would be a breach of international faith. The abolition of the sugar bounties was merely a matter of common justice to the West Indies, while at the same time such action restored the relations between capital and labor and production and exchange to their natural phase.

THE DIVINE PURPOSE NOT YET REVEALED

Dr. Patton Concludes His Lecture Series With a Strong and Logical Talk.

The Rev. Francis L. Patton, president of the Princeton Theological seminary, delivered the concluding lecture of his series in the Third Presbyterian church, Fifth and South Negley avenues, last night. Dr. Patton's six lectures, delivered last week, while each was complete in itself, each were a step toward the lecture last night on "The Divine Purpose."

In his lectures Dr. Patton told what Christianity is and what the Bible is, how and when it was written, and how it came to be the reference book of Christianity in the present day. He discoursed on the theory of evolution and how the world was formed. Last night he talked about why all these things had been done. After briefly reviewing his former lectures, Dr. Patton said, in part:

We know that man is mentally superior to the dog, and that the dog is mentally superior to the lizard. We also know that man is mentally the highest type of being on earth. Isn't it safe to assume that there is another being, superior to man, who directs the movements of the universe? We do assume that, and we call that being God.

It has been said that God knows that certain things are going to happen. We believe that. We cannot believe that He knows that certain things are going to occur unless we believe that He knows that all things are going to occur. Therefore we believe that.

After we have admitted that God knows all the things that are going to happen, a great question confronts us. Do we believe that every movement I make, or you make, or the world makes has been conceived by God, or do we not? After we have admitted that God is mentally superior to man, isn't it a grander conception of Him to believe that He plans everything? Doesn't it make him mentally and intellectually stronger? My belief is that God foreordains everything.

Now, the question is, after we have admitted this, what purpose had God in view when He created the world and put people on it? What is His purpose now? Whatever God's purpose was and is, it must be an eternal one.

We cannot be definitely sure what God's purpose was when He created the world. We must take this view: God created the world; He planned an event; He planned another, and so on. It must be that the last thing that happens will disclose God's purpose, for that will be His purpose.

Take, for instance, if I make a watch and two people are told to describe how it was done. One will go on to tell my thoughts in regard to making the watch as each step is taken; another will tell each thing I do as I make the watch. The former will describe it correctly. When I start to build a watch, I have but one thought in view, to construct an apparatus that will send two hands around its top at a certain ratio of speed. Any piece of machinery that will do this will be a timepiece. Now, the last thing I will do in making my watch will be to place the hands on it. That was what I first thought of, and each step in the watch building was but a means to an end. So, you see, the first thing I thought of was the last thing I did.

So it is with God's purpose. As far as we can judge, His purpose is fixed in His mind. It was there when He created the world. It will only be shown us when the last act of the great earth's drama is enacted. God's purpose will be His last movement toward this earth.

At the conclusion of the lecture the Rev. Dunlop Moore, a venerable retired Presbyterian clergyman, arose in the midst of the audience and thanked Dr. Patton on behalf of the congregation and friends of the Third Presbyterian church for the lecture course. The Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan, the pastor of the church, was also thanked for having arranged to have Dr. Patton here. Dr. Patton made a fitting response.

FRANCE IS SHORT OF FUNDS FOR NAVY

Marine Minister Is Criticised for Necessary Economy.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Marine Minister Pelletan's administration of the navy was again subjected to an attack in the chamber today, when an interpellation was introduced criticizing the action of the minister in recently reducing the effective strength of the Mediterranean squadron of 1,750 men. This reduction, it was asserted by the introducers of the interpellation, would render it impossible for the fleet to put to sea instantly if this became necessary.

M. Pelletan, replying to the criticism, said he was compelled to economize in some direction because the construction of warships during the coming financial year would necessitate an expenditure of $1,000,000 in excess of 1902. Owing to the exceptional position occupied by France in the Mediterranean, it was a more urgent matter to expedite the works on the naval port of Bizerta than to put 1,700 men on the ships employed in promenading between Villefranche and Toulon.

Whatever might be his personal opinion, added the minister, regarding the colonial conquests of France, he would neglect nothing in order to defend her colonial empire, but money was needed to do this and he was forced to economize on some points in order to spend elsewhere. After a brief debate the chamber by 28 votes to 204 adopted an order of the day approving the declaration of the government.

PENSION AFTER 20 YEARS.

Length of Service in Fire Department Reduced—Health Benefits Extended.

A fireman may be retired on half pay after 20 years' service hereafter, instead of 25 years, as formerly, under a change in the regulations of the firemen's disability board, proposed by Select Councilman James H. Piatt, which were adopted yesterday by the finance committee of select council.

The changes suggested by Councilman Piatt include also an extension of sick benefits from 25 to 52 weeks, where a fireman is injured while on duty, and also provide that the death benefit of $1,000 shall be paid whether the fireman dies from injury received on duty or from natural cause, so long as the beneficiary is in the employ of the city at the time of death. The proposed changes affect the bureau of electricity, as well as the bureau of fire.

WAGON DRIVERS DISMISSED.

Express Company Teamsters Trying to Make an Organization Issue.

Six teamsters of the Adams Express Company were discharged yesterday, and immediately they set up the claim that they were let out because of their recent affiliation with the Draymen's union. General Agent Hiner of the company said that each man discharged was told the reason for his dismissal.

Several of the drivers have for some time made it a practice to report late for duty, in spite of repeated warnings. One was told that it was because he had failed to settle his collection accounts promptly. This particular man objected to the statement, and has been actively engaged since in the attempt to secure the sympathy and support of the Pittsburgh branch of the Federation of Labor in the effort to gain reinstatement.

STATE DEPARTMENT ORDERS INVESTIGATION

United States Wants to Know All About Death of Mrs. Gore.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Gore tragedy was presented in a dramatic aspect today when the French officials took De Rydezewski to the scene of the occurrence and compelled him to re-enact every detail of the affair. The chamber was arranged as on the night of the fatality and the same weapon was placed in De Rydezewski's hand to act out his version. The prisoner went through the ordeal with fortitude, without wavering from his first story of the accidental fall of the revolver.

At the same time the case has assumed an international aspect by the action of Consul General Gowdy in following out the instructions of the state department at Washington and appointing a commission composed of four American doctors residing in Paris to conduct an independent post-mortem examination.

As a result of today's examination the examining magistrate has decided to set De Rydezewski at liberty provisionally.

M. Raquet, in behalf of Mr. Gowdy, applied to the magistrate for possession of the body and the official offered every facility. He ordered that the remains be turned over to the United States officials, the only reservation being that they be not removed from the morgue until after the second autopsy.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. J. D. Slatter of this city, an aunt of Mrs. Gore, received a letter today from her niece. The epistle bore the date of Nov. 7 and was full of the young woman's plans for the future, when success crowned her efforts in the musical world.

"I have been to no place of amusement in a month," she wrote, "but have applied myself to work. I attended the theater that time with an American gentleman."

The girl discussed family matters at length and the tone indicates that her ties were very strong and dear to her, and Mrs. Slatter said: "We will spare no expense in the investigation and in the fixing of the blame."

Kings Say Farewell.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The king of Portugal bid farewell to King Edward at Windsor this morning and proceeded to Blenheim, where he lunched with the duke and duchess of Marlborough. The Portuguese monarch will remain in England for some time on a private visit. During his stay at Blenheim he inspected the historic treasures of the palace and subsequently proceeded to Norfolk.

ALL ARE AGREED ABOUT CANTEEN

Consensus of Army Officers' Reports Is That Its Abolition Was a Mistake.

INCREASE OF SALOONS

Evil of Change Especially Marked in the Philippines, Where the Soldiers Have Taken to Native Liquors.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—The war department is in constant receipt of data concerning the canteen question and the effect of its abolition upon the army.

It is said at the department that the recommendations of the adjutant general in his annual report were based upon information contained in army officers' reports. It is pointed out that the existence of something like 1,400 saloons in the vicinity of the army posts is shown by the reports received at the department, 250 to 300 of which are said to have been opened since the closing of the canteen.

This further statement is made at the department:

"The majority of posts have reported that drunkenness and court-martials for drunkenness have increased; that desertion and absence without leave have increased; that the effect of the closing of the canteen upon the morality, discipline and health of the troops has been bad, and, while many post commanders are, in consequence of frequent changes of garrison and from the absence of correct data upon which to base comparisons, unable to report as to the degree of detriment created by the closing of the canteen, it can be stated as an absolute fact that in no single case has a post commander expressed an opinion that the effect of the abolition of the sale of beer in the army has resulted in improved conditions."

A statement has been made public at the war department epitomizing the annual report of Brig.-Gen. Sanger, inspector general of the division of the Philippines. After narrating the evil effects upon the human system of the native liquors, the statement continues:

"To remedy these conditions, the post exchange, at which light beer was sold, was exercising a wholesome influence, and Gen. Sanger believes that the exchange should be again made a possibility by removing all restrictions on the sale of beer and light wines.

"To the fear, so often expressed by the opponents of the canteen system, that the sale of beer would initiate or induce habits of intemperance, Gen. Sanger shows that from a careful consensus of the 342 companies of troops in the Philippine islands, in 60 companies every enlisted man used vinuous, malt, or spirituous liquors at date of enlistment; in 130 companies between 90 and 100 per cent; in 58 companies, between 80 and 90 per cent; in 26 companies, between 70 and 80 per cent; in 20 companies, between 60 and 70 per cent.

"Unfortunately, quite a number of men habitually drink to excess, and as this number probably will increase if the men are obliged, as now, to resort to native liquors to satisfy what to many of them is a perfectly natural craving, the result will be most deplorable.

"Gen. Sanger concludes with the remark that 'It is hardly probable, in view of this information, that congress will continue the prohibition against the canteen when it is evident that the sale of beer would be a precaution against the pernicious habits above stated and their fatal and disastrous results.'"

SPANISH WAR CLAIMS.

Commission Declares Just How Far Uncle Sam Will Be Held Liable Under Peace Treaty.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—The Spanish claims commission has declared the principles by which it will be governed in passing upon demurrers in connection with claims.

The general basis is laid down that in assuming the responsibility which would otherwise have been Spain's, the United States is bound to pay all claims for which Spain could have been held.

It is further held that the insurrection in Cuba had gone beyond the control of the Spanish government and that it was not responsible for damages done to foreigners by the insurgents. If, however, it be shown that the Spanish authorities might have prevented the damage done in any particular case by the exercise of due diligence, the commission announces that it will hold that Spain was liable.

It is held that Spain was entitled to adopt such war measures for the recovery of her authority as are sanctioned by the rules and usages of international warfare. If, however, it be alleged and proved in any particular case that the acts of the Spanish authorities or soldiers were contrary to such rules and usages, Spain (now the United States) will be held liable in that case. This decision does not go the extent of saying that the reconcentration orders were legitimate acts of war. There is to be a further argument on that subject.

Ex-Senator Chandler, chairman of the commission, and Commissioner Maury dissent from the rules adopted.

MITCHELL IS CALLED TO NATIONAL CAPITAL

Confers With Attorneys for Leading Operators While Independents Visit New York.

SCRANTON, Nov. 24.—The scenes of the strike settlement negotiations have been suddenly shifted from this city to Washington and New York. Tomorrow the committee of nine of the independent operators expect to hold a conference in New York with the presidents of the coal carrying roads regarding the position of the individual companies, and at the same time a meeting between Wayne MacVeagh and possibly other attorneys representing the coal roads with President Mitchell and his attorneys will be held in the national capital.

Wayne MacVeagh was in telegraphic communication at noon with Clarence S. Darrow, Mr. Mitchell's leading attorney, and later Mr. MacVeagh called him up on the long distance telephone from Philadelphia. Mr. MacVeagh said he wished to have a conference with Mr. Mitchell and himself, but as he was not feeling well he desired that they all meet in Washington tomorrow, instead of he making the journey to Scranton. Mr. Darrow said Mr. MacVeagh did not tell him what he wanted the conference for, but he felt that Mr. MacVeagh would not summon them to the national capital if he were not clothed with authority to carry on negotiations. Mr. Mitchell's party left here at 4:35 p. m. and are due in Washington at 12:30 a. m. From Washington it is expected the party will go to New York, returning here Friday.

The "conciliation," or sub-committee, of the commission—Messrs. Parker, Watkins and Clark—was at headquarters all day, but was not called upon by either side to offer assistance.

There is some talk here of having congress enact a law making a permanent board of arbitration of the coal strike commission, but nothing definite in this line has yet been done.

FOR FUTURE PEACE.

Anthracite Commission Will Complete Its Work, Though There Be a Settlement Out of Court.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Col. Carroll D. Wright, recorder of the anthracite coal strike commission, had a conference with the president today. He outlined to Mr. Roosevelt the work of the commission, indicating to him that, whatever might be the result of the conferences between the representatives of the operators and the miners, the commission probably would proceed, at least for a time, with its work and try to reach a definite conclusion which might be used in the future as a basis for the adjustment of similar controversies.

Members of the commission are of opinion that the operators and miners will reach an agreement upon all points of difference raised. It will be the purpose of the commission to arrange, if possible, that the agreement shall have some permanent form.

FIRST VICTORY FOR MRS. LANGER

Court Refuses to Dismiss Pittsburgh Woman's Suit Against Warren Smith.

SHE TELLS HER STORY

Explains Her Relation With the New Yorker and How She Came by the Name by Which She Is Now Known.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 24.

When the suit of Julia Langer of Pittsburgh against Warren B. Smith was called in the city court today, Judge Seabury declined to dismiss the case.

Mrs. Langer alleges that she met Smith in July, 1901, and that such relations existed between them that causes of action accrued in favor of the plaintiff, and that about January 18, 1902, they agreed that she should not bring any action on the grounds that she claimed existed, and he should pay her $500 a month for life. It is alleged that the payments on August 1 and September 1 have not been met, and the suit is brought for them.

The defendant says that no such causes of action accrued, no agreement was made, and that the plaintiff has not lived up to her end of such agreement; also that she brought the suit under a name not her own.

Mr. Hummel, for the plaintiff, said that on the night that Mrs. Langer met Mr. Smith she accompanied him to the Rutland and he invited her to go to Europe with him. She consulted her parents in Pittsburgh and agreed to go with him.

Went to Europe Together.

On September 23 she returned from Pittsburgh, met Mr. Smith at the Holland house, went shopping with him and afterward went to Europe with him, stopping at the Savoy in London, where they were registered as Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and in various other places. Mr. Smith's valet, in the meantime, went to Paris a week ahead of them to prepare apartments hired there by the year for their reception, Mr. Hummel said.

In London, Mr. Hummel also says, Mr. Smith proposed marriage and the plaintiff agreed. The two returned as Mr. and Mrs. Smith on the Fuerst Bismarck, and Mr. Smith went to the Rutland. Mrs. Langer went to the Savoy, under the name of Mrs. Langer, where she remained until January, 1902.

She said that on the night of January 18, 1902, after going to the theater and to Sherry's to supper, she had a talk with the defendant at the Rutland, during which she asked him about their marriage, and he told her he would not marry her. In consideration of her agreement not to sue him for breach of contract he agreed to pay her $300 a month for life, said Mr. Hummel.

The Woman's Story.

Mrs. Langer, a dark, handsome woman, took the stand. She identified a letter from Mr. Smith to her while she was in Pittsburgh, in which he promised not to smoke too many cigarettes, said he wanted her, and made an appointment at the Holland house. She said they returned to New York on December 8, 1901, and that she stayed a week at the Rutland before going to the Savoy.

She said that when he told her he would not marry her, he said: "I have simply made up my mind not to get married," and gave no reason for the change in the decision; and that when she threatened to take the matter to a lawyer he said:

"You know I couldn't stand this exposure."

A letter she said she received from him the following day was also put in evidence. It is as follows:

New York, Sunday afternoon.

My Dear Little Julie—It is very seldom that I break a promise, but I am going to break the promise that I made to dine with you this evening. In the first place, I think it better that we should not be together this evening, and in the second place, I want to go to the country. I think it would be wise for you to at once find some more economical place to live in than the Savoy. I shall send you a check for $300 on the 1st of February and for $300 on the first of each month afterward.

While I wish that I could afford to be more generous, it will, at least, keep you from want. Knowing that you will be angry at this note, I think it would be better that we should not meet until time may soften down any unkind feeling you may harbor toward me.

When you are settled I would esteem it a favor if you would let me know your address, as I should be very unhappy if I thought that you did not care to see me again.

With greatest respect and very best wishes, believe me, yours with much love,

WARREN.

Payments of Money.

Still another letter of March 12, 1902, was introduced, inclosing two checks for $500 each, dated March 12 and April 12, and witness said he had given her another check for $500 on his return from a trip abroad, of which the letter of March 12 apprised her, and that $300 had been paid to her before, making $1,800 she had received in all since the making of the agreement.

Cross-examined, she said she had been known as "Langer," Seymour and Reel," and that she had gone through a marriage ceremony with Louis M. Langer, whom she had met at the Hoffman house in May, 1900, but that she had left him on finding out that he was previously married.

She admitted that she had brought a suit against Langer, but forgot the date of it and could not recollect the name of the lawyer who had acted for her.

The complaint in the case, which she had signed with the maiden name Reel, was objected to as evidence and was ruled out. The complaint was dated June 29, 1891.

Mr. Norwood introduced a long letter from the plaintiff to the real Mrs. Langer, written six weeks after the separation between Langer and herself, in which she said she wished to set herself right "before Mrs. Langer and God," and that Langer had told her he could not live without her, and she had "taken up" with him.

A question as to whether she recollected being arrested on a charge of having stolen Langer's watch was objected to and was not answered.

PRISON GARB FOR JACKIES.

Hereafter Convicts Will Not Disgrace Regular Naval Uniform.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—The navy department has decided upon a distinctive prison garb for marines and enlisted men in the navy. It will be a plain, dark gray uniform, blouse and trousers, with a round-brimmed soft hat of the same hue.

Heretofore, enlisted men serving terms in naval prisons have worn their old uniforms. This was regarded as hard upon the other men in the service.

HOCKEY PLAYERS PREPARE FOR A VERY LIVELY SEASON

MAKEUP OF THE HOCKEY TEAMS

Bankers Are Strong--New Victoria Club Secures Fast Canadian Cracks.

THE FIRST PRACTICE

The preliminary face-off for what promises to be the greatest season of hockey that Pittsburgh has ever known took place last night at Duquesne garden, when the members of the various teams who happen to be in town were on hand for the opening practice of the season. The chief interest in local hockey at present centers in the makeup of the New Victoria seven managed by Sixsmith.

The Gazette is prepared not only to give the makeup of the new team but the line-up for the opening game Friday night of both teams and the composition of each team in the Western Pennsylvania league.

A Glance at New Players.

On account of the loss of both Sixsmith and Morrison, her two star offensive men, equal to any that ever played on local ice, the champion Keystone club is less prepared than any of the team. She has a host in Hern at goal superior to any other that ever played in a Pittsburgh game, and is as well scouring the Canadian woods and has not retracted one whit her claim to the championship. The line-up for the game Friday night will be as follows:

Victoria.		Bankers.
A. Sixsmith	Center	Marshall
G. Sixsmith	Forward	Campbell
Henry	Left wing	Howard
H. Stuart	Right wing	Gardner
H. Stuart	Cover point	Phymister
Starr	Point	Morphy
Stothers	Forward	Richardson

G. Sixsmith is a brother of the captain and manager of the team. H. Stuart, Henry and G. Sixsmith are all from the fast championship Ottawa team of two years ago. H. Stuart is from Quebec. All are fast players of the first water. Sixsmith was captain of the Sault Ste. Marie team last season. Stothers at goal is from Petrolia, while Joe Steen at point is an old favorite. That the Victorias will be in the hunt is vouched for by Manager Sixsmith's knowledge of all the Canadian players and the fact that he would naturally know how to pick a winner.

The Bankers have made the greatest improvement of any of the old teams. On paper the line-up is the strongest yet announced. Both Marshall and Gardner are from Montreal, the champions of all Canada last season. Campbell and Howard both played for the team last season and are cracks. Howards is unsurpassed as a heady team player. Phymister was with the Bankers last season. Morphy was with Keystone, who traded him for Taylor, a forward player. The deal worked to the advantage of both teams. Richardson at goal was second to Hern last season.

New Management for Bankers.

The Bankers are to be managed by Sammons and Stoebner, of last season's Keystone team. The champions have thus given three managers to the league. The money handlers have not given up all hope of Boon. If he comes the team would surely look invincible.

The Keystones, as now constituted, are lined up as follows at this date, though the latter is still after players:

Keystone		P. A. C.
Henry	Center	Robinson
McGuire	Forward	Connor
Taylor	Right wing	Shields
Gordon	Cover point	Curtin
Hinks	Point	Hamilton
Hern	Goal	Lamb

All of the P. A. C. men are well known here except McKerron, a cracker-jack secured from Quebec. Curtin, Hamilton, Sweitzer is a fast forward from Stratford, Ontario. Gordon was tried for last season by Keystone. Henry is from Waterloo and played in the big 1 to 1 tie game with Berlin last season, which was a feature of the Canadian season. McGuire is a fast forward from Belleville. Smith, the star P. A. C. wing last season, will not be back, neither will Westcott or Mike Young of the Keystones.

WILL MEET TONIGHT.

Eddie Kennedy and Matty Mathews Are Ready for Their Ten Round Bout.

Local lovers of pugilism will get a chance to see two well-trained and evenly matched men face each other when Eddie Kennedy and Matty Mathews meet in Turner hall, Allegheny, in a 10-round bout this evening.

Much difference of opinion exists around town as to the probable outcome, as not withstanding the fact that Mathews ranks as a top-notcher in his class Kennedy has shown such improvement that his friends assert he is sure to be declared the winner. One thing stands out prominent and that is the loser will be threatened with pugilistic oblivion. Mathews' manager has arranged a series of good matches for him and he will try hard not to be declared the loser. Mathews' trainer, Tommy West, maintains that Matty was never more fit for a scientific boxing contest.

Both boxers will weigh in at 145 pounds at 3 o'clock and an effort will be made to have James J. Corbett officiate as referee. The curtain raiser of six rounds between Brogan and Brown will go on at 9 o'clock.

GIVEN A SURPRISE.

The Young Americans Defeated the Laboratory Five.

In the Homestead Library league last night the Young Americans defeated the strong Laboratory team by the score of 60 to 7.

The result was a big surprise to Laboratory, who held the Red Stockings down to a 22-16 score. The team work of the Young Americans was fine. The standing of the teams is:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Young Americans	3	0	1000
Crescents	2	0	1000
Red Stockings	1	1	.500
Casinos	1	1	.500
All-Whites	0	2	.000
Laboratory	0	2	.000

The Young Americans play the Steelmen of Allegheny in the Sterlings' hall Wednesday night.

HARD WORK DONE.

Cornell's Eleven Is Ready for Final Game.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Cornell finished the hard work for the Pennsylvania game today under somewhat unpropitious circumstances. Shepard, the full back, has a sore shoulder which has grown so acute that he cannot even take part in the signal work, and therefore Williams will not count upon him for the game with the Quakers. This news was like a wet blanket to Cornell's prospects, for there is not another available man for the position.

With the exception of Brewster and Shepard all of the varsity players took part in the work today at some time or another. James was in his place. The only salvation which the coaches are able to see for Cornell is the fact that the line is very strong.

Ready for High School's Team.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The high school eleven is hard at work for the Thanksgiving Day game at Athletic park with the Pittsburgh high school. "Tod" Sloan, Shadyside's quarter, will be in the backfield for the locals, and will add greatly to the offense. The team is being given several hours' attention each day by Coach Richardson and other members of the Stars. The crowds of Greensburgers will see the Thanksgiving Day game at the Colosseum. Manager Berry has reserved a section of the south stand for them.

After a Clean Record.

INDIANA, P., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Owing to bruises and slight injuries sustained in the Pittsburgh college game on Saturday Capt. Williams excused 10 men from practice today. Signal drill will be held tomorrow and Wednesday. The Primrose A. C. of Allegheny meets the local school team on the home grounds on Thanksgiving Day. Indiana Normal wants that game. By winning on Thursday a clear record of victories will be sustained for 1902.

Palmer Beat Connolly Again.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—At the National Sporting club tonight after a stubborn 15-round contest, "Jack" Palmer beat Eddie Connolly on points for the middleweight championship and a purse of $1,250. This is Connolly's third defeat at the hands of Palmer.

AN EX-CHAMPION PUGILIST.

Matty Mathews, Who Meets Eddie Kennedy Tonight.

MAY ALLOW FIGHTING IN THE METROPOLIS

Ex-Champion Corbett Waiting in Hope to Meet Jeffries in That City.

Ex-Champion James J. Corbett, looking bigger and better than ever in his life, is in the city and will be here for the rest of the week. Corbett is still doing his monologue act on the vaudeville stage and is making a great success of it.

The ex-champion is not doing quite so much talking about the prize ring as in former years, but his interest in boxing is not one bit abated. He said last night: "Yes, I am practically matched to meet Jeffries again, and think the fight will take place next May, but am not so sure about that. I am holding off a little in the hope that boxing will open up in New York.

"There is the greatest city in the country to bring off a fight and naturally I want to wait and see how things turn out. You know the legislature meets this winter and a strong effort will be made to get through it a bill that will permit boxing bouts. The men behind this move are all good ones, and I feel sure they will be successful. I am taking excellent care of myself and never felt better in my life."

Corbett's first act on arriving here was to look up a gymnasium in which to work during the present week. The ex-champion is keeping himself in condition by such gymnasium work as punching bag and working on the rings, parallel bars and in the handball court when he can find one. A glance at his hands shows that he is not indulging in childs play as they are as hard as those of a puddler. His hands are larger and stronger than they ever were, and this is accounted for by a hand exercise he has adopted.

M'CLELLAND MATCH.

The Pittsburgher Will Meet a Fighter from Frisco in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Jack McClelland will fight here again Thursday. The match was made in Chicago today over the long distance telephone by Manager Haughton of the West End club and Jimmy Mason, McClelland's manager. It will be with Eddy Curry of the coast, who has just arrived in Chicago. The lowest weight he will do is 128 at 3 p. m., or 130 at the ringside, which is much heavier than McClelland fights at, but the latter is anxious to get into action, so he accepted.

Davy Sullivan met Manager Haughton and said he would not agree to meet the Pittsburgher inside of four weeks, as he considered him as hard as either McGovern or Young Corbett. Manager Mason today turned down the match with Ole Oleson at Jackson, Mich., so McClelland can stay here and get into shape for Curry.

Tommy Sullivan, whom Jack knocked out last week, is here after a fight with him at 124 pounds at 3 p. m., and says he will bet $500 he wins at that weight. Mason says he will wait and see how the match with Curry comes out before making a match at that weight.

ONLY LIGHT PRACTICE.

Pennsy's Players Are Having a Rest in the Country.

MT. POCONO, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The members of the U. of P. football team spent today in recreation and light signal practice. Baird and Metzgar arrived from the Harvard-Yale game late last night, and interested the squad with the detail of the game from a Pennsylvania standpoint. Coach Bull came at noon today and assisted in the afternoon work. McCabe, who had dropped off at Stroudsburg to visit old friends, came in this evening.

The coaches took charge of the afternoon's recreation and the teams were given a fast and snappy signal practice for about an hour. The air was cool and invigorating, and the players went through the signals in an agile and accurate manner. After the signal practice the two teams were lined up for the explanation of Cornell's offense, and instructions in meeting it. The varsity lined up the same as it did for the Harvard game, with the exception of Baird at tackle, in place of Jones, and Fortiner and Weschler, alternating at left half back.

WON BOTH GAMES.

Champion Grant Eby Shows His Skill at Pool Playing.

Grant Eby, the champion pool player of the world, defeated Mr. Esterly and Charles McCall yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Henry for the handsome prize offered by the management to the one scoring the highest number of points. Mr. Esterly got the high score, with 28 points, while McCall only succeeded in making 25.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening two more amateurs will try for the prize. Games called promptly at 2:30 and 7:30. Score by innings:

Afternoon—										Total.
Eby	13	15	15	9	8	9	11	9	11	—100
Esterly	2	0	0	6	7	6	3	0	4	—28

Basket Ball for Charleroi.

CHARLEROI, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Basketball will be well represented at Charleroi this winter. A meeting was held and officers elected. Coach Lehrman will have his men out for practice. He has abundance of good material and should put a winning team in the field. The first game will be with the South Side Y. M. C. A. December 6.

Preston Won Cup.

The Knowland cup of the Westmoreland Country club was yesterday won by M. A. Preston, who defeated F. S. Viele 5 up and 4 to play.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The raw and threatening weather, and subsequent rain which fell throughout the races, materially reduced the attendance at Bennings today. FAILED TO THROW BARTH.

Referee Called Bout Because Strangle Hold Was Used.

FORD CITY, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Kittanning was the scene tonight of a spirited wrestling contest, when Mart Anderson, the 205-pound Buffalo boy, attempted to throw Fred Barth of this place three times in one hour. After chosing Peter Rice as referee and George Hosiac as timekeeper the match came together at 9:45.

The work was fierce, Anderson securing hammerlock, half Nelson and other holds on Barth, but Barth was too strong and agile and broke them all. After the thirtieth minute was called off, Anderson, who could do nothing with Barth, tried to strangle-hold him, but the referee saw it twice and called the bout Barth's, after 30 minutes' wrestling without a fall. Anderson was 50 pounds heavier than Barth, but could not have thrown him in an hour, much less three times in an hour.

WATTERSON GOOD AGAIN.

Having Enjoyed His Dig at the "Smart Set," He Lets Up on Society.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Though Henry Watterson has passed horse show week in New York he has not found a fresh impetus for an attack upon the "smart set." In his apartments at the Waldorf-Astoria today Mr. Watterson said that in no way did he regard the "society end" of the horse show as offering any ground for strong criticism.

"Oh, dear, no!" said he. "I have nothing to say more than I have said already about the 'smart set.' What happened two months ago came in the regular line of my newspaper work, and having played the string out the game was over. To me it is already ancient history."

RECORD BREAKING CROWD TO SEE GAME

Great Turnout Thanksgiving Day—Stars Refuse Tempting Offer to Desert.

That the turnout to witness the Thanksgiving Day game between the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia Athletic elevens at the Colosseum will be a record breaker is shown by the advance sale of tickets. The demand is so large that the management in order to accommodate the people will likely be forced to build additional seats around the bicycle track.

A dispatch last night from Greensburg says: The Pittsburgh football team had no practice this afternoon, but a long day of hard work is mapped out for tomorrow for final preparation for the Thanksgiving day game with the Philadelphia Athletic Club on Coliseum park.

The men are all stiff and sore as a result of the hard game last Saturday. McNulty's eye has been stitched and he looks as if he had been in a prize fight. Ellis has a black eye and a very sore "charley horse." The cut in Capt. Richardson's eye still continues to bleed a little every now and then, while the flesh about the eye cavity is blue and discolored.

Every man feels the defeat keenly and there is not much joy at training quarters. The men have talked over the game time and again and it is hard to see the great change that would materially strengthen the team. They all agree that the loss of Lang and the Schuylkill river water played an important part in the defeat. Every consolation has been offered the men, but they seem to be sore at heart, but confident of winning the Thanksgiving day game.

There was some consternation in the camp of the Stars this afternoon when it was noised about that Manager Prinz of the Franklin team was in Greensburg after Pittsburgh players for the Venango county team. Prinz was here in a neffort to persuade some of the men to desert the Pittsburgh ranks and finish the season with Franklin. Prinz carried a big roll of money. He approached several of the men and made flattering offers, but neither his money nor his oily tongue availed him anything, and the prize money for Capt. Richardson to a man. They laughed at Prinz and he returned to Franklin this evening, condemned by the coach and men alike for his method of dealing. Unable to get good men for his team he attempted to take advantage of the Pittsburghers hard luck. The loyal way in which the players acted shows what stuff the team is composed of, and the public ought to be proud of the team, even though they lost to Philadelphia on Saturday.

IT RAINED TOO HARD.

Wash.-Jeff. Players Had Blackboard Instructions Instead of Practice.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The Washington and Jefferson football team had no practice this afternoon, as a pouring rain made the football field too muddy for work. Instead, however, Coaches Seaman and Montgomery, in the college gymnasium, gave the men a talk on football for a half hour. The coaches illustrated their instruction with a blackboard and explained how the new plays formations which have been sprung should be worked in a game. The men all seemed to take hold of the plays, and it is believed they will execute them in the game with the Pittsburg team on Thanksgiving. There will be the usual practice tomorrow, however, if the weather conditions are favorable.

There are but two days now in which to prepare for the game, and the coaches are anxious to get the men into playing form. The cripples are all rounding to and all will be in the game Thursday afternoon. Gibson, who it was thought would be out of the playing for the rest of the season, is all right again, and while his knee is still somewhat weak, he will be able to enter the game against East End. The rest of the men, with the exception of McDonough, who is still confined to the house with the little quarterback, it is thought, will be in first-class shape by Wednesday or Thursday.

Football fans in Washington are enthusiastic over the chances of the team for winning the game against the Pittsburgh eleven, and confidently predicted here that W. and J. will win, and every effort will be made in the practice to get the players into the best possible shape. There was some talk here last week of playing some of the coaches on the game against East End and thereby strengthening the team. It is believed now, however, that this project will be dropped, but it will be completely decided tomorrow. There will be a special train run from here Thursday morning, and many hundreds of rooters from all parts of Washington county will be on hand to root for the local team.

THE BIG HORSE SALE.

Admirers of Trotters Gather in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—An auction sale of trotting horses, which promises to be the largest ever held in the United States, was begun today at Madison Square garden under the management of the Fasig-Tipton Company. Ten hundred and sixty-eight light harness horses have been entered and the sale will continue every day and evening until December 5.

Breeders turned out in force from all parts of the country were there to see the opening of the big vendue, and many more are expected to arrive tomorrow and next day. European buyers are also about the big coaching ready to bid for every likely young trotting stallion and mare that appeared.

Won by Benny Yanger.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Benny Yanger won a decision over Kid Herman in a six round contest tonight, at the American Athletic club. It was Yanger's fight all the way. Yanger knocked his younger opponent down six times during the last three rounds that the performance became monotonous. The bell saved Herman from a knockout in both the fourth and fifth rounds.

MANCHESTER SCORED ITS FOURTH VICTORY

Defeated South Side Turners in a Game That Was Full of Rough Work

The Manchester basketball team won its fourth consecutive victory last night by defeating the South Side Turner team. The game was exceedingly rough from first to last and time had to be taken out several times in order that injured players might nurse their bruises. In the second half, one of the South Side guards received a bump on the nose that brought the blood in a stream and it was several minutes before the flow could be checked. The crowd was large and noisy, and applauded every good play, no matter which side was responsible for it.

South Side started the scoring with a nice one from field, Pfaadt being the lucky man. Manchester soon tied the score with a field goal and took the lead on a goal from foul. This lead was steadily increased until, at the end of the half, the score stood 12 to 4. In this half Pfaadt did all the scoring for the Turners. Walliser relieved Metzkes at center in the second half, and Skillinger replaced Koch shortly after the half was on. In no part of the game did Manchester exhibit the team work which won for them at South Side last Saturday. All the players seemed somewhat sore and stiff and the game was not so lively and full of ginger as the games at Manchester generally are.

Pfaadt got there with two more field goals in the second half, making four for the whole game, quite a record against Manchester. Weitzel played a nice game at center, and Macher at guard did good work. South Side won the half by the score of 9 to 7, making the final score 19 to 13.

The preliminary was also a close event, Manchester winning out by the score of 13 to 8. The first half was the most exciting, both sides getting four points. The Manchester Juniors took a brace in the second half and scored nine points to South Side's four. Thompson lead in the scoring line and got three from field; O'Neil came in second, making three. The home team put up pretty team work in the second half and were roundly cheered as they pocketed the ball on two or three occasions after several nice passes.

Following is the line-up for the two games:

Manchester—10.	S. S. Turners—13.
Hay, Shillinger	R.F. Pfaadt
Koch, Hay	L.F. Walliser
Metzkes, Walliser	Center Weitzel

Goals from field—Pfaadt 4, Weitzel 1, Macher 1, Graham 3, Koch 2, Hay 1, Walliser 1. Goals from foul—Graham 8, Pfaadt 1. Referee—Little. Scorer—H. Roth. Timer—J. Gray.

M. Juniors—13.	S. S. Juniors—8.
Tannehill	R.F. Sproat
O'Neil, Aiton	L.F. Yocket
Thompson	Center Stephen
King, Burry	R.G. Myers
Hassler	L.G. Kliest

Goals from field—O'Neil 2, Thompson 3, Tannehill, Sproat 2, Kliest 2. Goals from foul—Tannehill 1. Referee—Little. Scorer—J. Gray. Timer—Gray.

BASKET BALL NOTES.

There were 352 paid admissions at the game on last Saturday night between South Side and Manchester at Odd Fellows hall, probably the largest crowd that ever witnessed a basketball game in this city.

South Side will show their true condition in a short time, after they have gone through a few battles, for their line-up shows that they have even a stronger team than last year, when they made such a grand record.

The South Side basketball team, which was defeated Saturday night by the Manchester team, will try conclusions with the strong Keystone team at Odd Fellows hall, South Side, next Saturday night, and it will try to redeem itself for the poor showing it put up against the lower Allegheny team. The South Side boys are not offering any excuse for their defeat, but they are taking their defeat gracefully, while they softly hum, "There'll Come a Time Some Day."

The Homestead third basketball team will play the Enterprise A. C. on Tuesday, November 25, in the H. L. A. C. library. They would like to hear from the following teams: Sewickley second, S. S. T. Y., third. Boquet third, South Side High school, Company F, Beaver College Preps, Standards, Imperials, Jolly Five, St. Aloysius, Lincoln, Camden A. C., Nationals, Sewickley High school, Enterprise, Mt. Oliver, Warren, Pa., Wheeling, South Side third and Manchester Juniors, or any other 15-year-old teams.

The Army A. C. and the Aspinwall Juniors will go into each other on Thanksgiving for the 90-pound championship of Lawrenceville and Aspinwall. The result of the game is of much interest to the rooters of the Army A. C., as they have already bet quite a sum of money.

Bellevue Outing club and the Highland A. C. of the East End meet Thanksgiving afternoon at Bellevue for the 90-pound championship of Western Pennsylvania. All B. O. C. players are requested to report at High school park for practice Wednesday evening, in full uniform, at 7:45 sharp.

Orient A. C. would like to arrange a game with some 70-pound team for Thanksgiving afternoon at 1 o'clock and one for Saturday, November 29, on Orient grounds. Half expenses, good treatment and fine enclosed grounds. Address C. A. Bigley, No. 1 Randolph street, Allegheny.

The Maplewood A. C. of Wilkinsburg is still without a game for Thanksgiving Day afternoon. Any good 65-70 pound team desiring a game for that date please write to F. Kinley, 1319 Water street, Wilkinsburg, Pa. Would like to hear from the Meadow Tigers, Fillmores and Hillside Tigers especially.

The Pittsburgh Newspaper Union team is anxious to get a game for Thanksgiving Day, as the boys are in good shape and would like to meet any printing shop team on the home grounds. The Franklins will practice this evening at 7 o'clock, and the following players are requested to report without fail: Miller, Heckles, Davis, J. and B. Ryan, H. and B. Martin, Resnick, A. Van Tassen, Rosen and J. Van Tassen. They will journey to Pitcairn on Thanksgiving day, where they will play in the afternoon.

The Library A. C. will play the strong Crescent A. C. on Thanksgiving morning on the Schenley park oval. A good game is expected, as neither team has been scored upon this season. The Library players will report at the clubhouse on Tuesday evening in full uniform for practice. There will also be a business meeting.

On Thanksgiving morning what will probably be the most interesting game played in Allegheny between two local teams will be played between the Tigers of Allegheny and the Pequots on the Pequots grounds. These teams met on October 25 and the game ended in a dispute. The Tigers are trying to develop men into the position made vacant by several of their injured players, and will present a strong front to the Pequots.

The manager of the Flavels wishes to state the following to all teams who are disputing over the 90-pound championship: The Flavels have the honor of holding the 90-pound championship of Western Pennsylvania. Manager Tierney of the Flavels talked to the manager of the Spencers and the latter could not arrange a game, and thus Flavel has all the rights to the 90-pound honors. As far as Pequots are concerned, they refused outright to play Flavel on their Pequot grounds terms.

RECORD PIGEON SHOW OPENS UP

Largest Exhibit of Homing Birds Ever Made in the Country.

THE LOCAL EXHIBIT

The largest pigeon show ever held in Pittsburgh, as well as the greatest exhibit of homing birds ever known to the United States, is being celebrated in Kenyon hall, Federal street, Allegheny, by a flock of cackling, crowing and crooning representatives of the feathered tribe to the total number of 1,500. A fortunate feature of the addition of an exhibit to be made today of Belgian hares and lop-eared rabbits is that they will at least be the noiseless variety of poultry show attractions. In addition to the homing the exhibit of Turbit pigeons is the largest ever made in the United States.

Pittsburghers who are unaware that the Smoky City stands supreme in this country as a pigeon center and holds the greatest records of the world for long-distance homing flies can by making a visit to the second annual exhibit of the Allegheny Fanciers club see the greatest flyers in pigeondom, as well as more breeds of beautiful birds than the average mind could dream of in a day's time. The show last year was but a club affair, but this season the entries exceeded all expectations and double the space was opened. This is the first open show ever given by the club. The 200 chickens on exhibit are not entered for competition.

In addition to first and second prizes for each of the 53 classes of pigeons on exhibition the association offers a silver cup for the pigeon counting the greatest number of points.

The judging will start today and the honors will be awarded by a committee consisting of G. P. Erbe of Philadelphia and John Skiles and Edward Seldon of Verona.

The star attraction of the show in the homing pigeon class is the greatest long distance flyer in the county, and so far as is known in the world. The record fly is held by Traveler Al, the great bird owned by A. Greb of the South Side. From Denver to Pittsburgh in 2 days 20 hours and 59 minutes is the world's record, for which the National Fanciers' association issued a special diploma to the Pittsburgh bird. None but Pittsburgh birds ever flown this far.

A. Salzman also exhibits the record holder for 900 miles, Kitty S. and Lady Margaret, the record holder among white birds. Bender-Cowen is the owner of 3 racers, the record holder for 700 miles, having come from Cafferson City, Mo., in two days. This bird also holds the record for a day's fly, with 821 miles in 10 hours.

Black Cloud and Major Beck are two 500 mile day birds exhibited by W. H. Gordon. Hypatia, exhibited by A. Greb, holds the two-day record, with 835 miles. There are only three other birds on record which have made the two-day mark, and all are owned in Pittsburgh. Traveler Al in making his record clipped two days from the time, however.

CITY IN BAD SHAPE.

Enjoined from Paying Any Salaries or Bills Until Water Score is Settled in Full.

BOSTON Nov. 24.—(Special.)—C. S. Tuckerman, president of the Boston company, which owns the Helena water works, received word today of the order of the supreme court of Montana enjoining the city of Helena from paying the salaries of the fire department, police department, mayor or any city expenses or warrants or interest accounts, except only to pubic library expenses and the bills for city water.

When the water company tried to collect a bill of several years' standing, now amounting to nearly $100,000, the city claimed to have already exceeded its legal debt limit. The city, nevertheless, had the water company enjoined from shutting off the water, and since the company has been obliged by the courts to deliver water, the supreme court has given this sweeping injunction to secure payment of the bill.

The company will order the water turned off within a few days unless unexpected developments occur, and fire insurance companies will cancel risks.

SUICIDE IN WIFE'S ARMS.

While Giving Her a Farewell Affectionate Hug He Shoots Himself and Falls Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Clasped in his wife's arms in an embrace of reconciliation, William Webster fired two shots from a revolver into his own head and is now dying.

The couple were visiting the wife's parents, and the woman liked it so well that she decided not to return to Martinsville. The husband went away, but returned soon and was denied admission by the father-in-law. Calling his wife to the door, he again asked her to return with him and she refused.

Webster uttered no word of complaint, but started to embrace his wife as though to bid her farewell. He placed his arms around her, and before anyone noticed what the man was doing a shot rang through the house. Mrs. Webster drew away from her husband, thinking he had attempted to take her life. He made no move to harm her, but instead placed the revolver to his right ear and fired a second shot and fell at his wife's feet.

This love affair, which has broken up a prominent home, started several weeks ago, when Mrs. Lamison left her husband in New Castle, and in company with her father, Oscar O. Warner, came to Mt. Clemens to take baths.

COUNTY PAYS DAMAGES FOR MOB'S RIOTOUS ACT

Casper Limbach Gets $647 for Destruction of Property Following President McKinley's Assassination---Proved Himself Patriotic.

Caspar Limbach, a painter and decorator, residing at No. 60 Washington avenue, Thirty-first ward, and who also has a branch store at No. 1929 Carson street, was yesterday given a verdict against Allegheny county for $647 50. The case grew out of the damaging of Limbach's dwelling and the tearing down of his advertising signs by a mob of men.

The action was brought under the riot act of 1845. The affair happened shortly after the death of President McKinley, a rumor, without any foundation, having been set afloat that Limbach sympathized with the assassin and made deprecatory remarks. This was stoutly denied by Limbach, and in the presentation of his case to the jury it was shown that not only was his property destroyed, but that he was burned in effigy and the lives of himself, wife and children threatened.

There was no testimony to sustain the rumor. It was also shown that after the occurrence Limbach issued a circular, offering a reward of $100 to the person who would make an affidavit, setting forth the time, occasion and text of any unpatriotic remarks attributed to him. It was also shown he had made a motion at meetings to pass resolutions of sorrow on the death of the president.

IN UNITED STATES COURTS.

Westmoreland County Sheriff Released By Order to Turn Over Bankrupt's Assets to Receiver.

In the United States circuit court the case of Smith & Benham against Curran & Hussey will be given to the jury this morning. The case of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, trustee, vs. John W. Schmidt et al, was called, but as it was not ready for trial it was continued until Tuesday. The jurymen were excused until that date. This is the last case to be disposed of at this term of the court, as a number, including 34 cases against the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railroad Company et al, for alleged discrimination in freight rates, have been continued until the next term.

In the United States district court the court made an order in the Null Bros. & Co. bankruptcy case, directing the sheriff of Westmoreland county to turn over to the temporary receiver in the case the amount realized from the sale of property of the bankrupts, less his fees and expenses. The sale was for $1,873, and was made after a restraining order had been made by the court, resulting in attachments being issued for the sheriff and others for alleged contempt of court. The order made yesterday disposes of the contempt proceedings.

In the bankruptcy case against Levy & Shavitz, creditors presented a petition setting forth that the firm had assigned their stock of goods at South Sharon to William Goldberg, who removed the same during the night, it is alleged, to defraud other creditors. The court appointed James E. Davis of Sharon, receiver, with power to collect the property of the alleged bankrupts and enter suit to recover the stock assigned.

John Schaffner, a general contractor of Butler, filed his petition in bankruptcy, giving his liabilities as $25,141 and his assets $23,600. Of his debts, $1,100 is due for wages, $7,257 is secured and $14,080 unsecured. His assets consist of $4,000 real estate, $2,000 tools and machinery, $3,000 due on account, $2,000 in insurance policies and $10,200 on unliquidated claims.

MAKES FULL DENIAL.

McCutcheon Says He Is Not Converting Estate Into Cash to Conceal It from Execution.

An answer was filed yesterday by John L. McCutcheon to the equity suit of Lathrop R. Bacon & Co. against him and James H. McCutcheon and others, an action to compel the specific performance of an agreement. It was claimed James H. McCutcheon was indebted to the plaintiff on stock deals, and under an agreement, John L. McCutcheon went on his notes.

The respondent denies he asked the plaintiff for time to pay the indebtedness. It is denied the notes were discounted at the instance of the defendants, nor is it true, it is stated, that notes for $10,000 were renewed at the instance of the defendants. It is denied James H. McCutcheon has been converting his estate into money, so that he can more easily conceal it from execution. The respondent denies he advised James H. McCutcheon not to further perform his agreement, or that he conspired with him to defeat the performance of the agreement.

Judge Rodgers held a hearing in the case of Morris & Brown against Bacon & Co. and the McCutcheons growing out of the same transaction. It is claimed that James H. McCutcheon owed the plaintiff $113,670 78 when Northern Pacific stock took its famous jump on May 9, 1901.

COURT CHANGED CHARGE

Sent Boys to Reform School for Incorrigibility Instead of Trying Them for a Crime.

Judge Stowe presiding over the juvenile court yesterday made orders sending Earl Flinn, Joseph Malla and John Dwyer, the three boys who were taken into court dirty and barefooted on Saturday morning, to the Morganza reform school. The order committing the boys was made after the probation officer, Miss Jennie Hindman, had reported, and on the information of W. F. Betts the special railroad officer.

After Miss Hindman had the boys committed to jail on Saturday, she visited their homes in Woods Run and reported to the court that her investigation developed conditions that were deplorable and well adapted to making the boys incorrigible. Judge Stowe disposed of the matter under the general act relating to the house of refuge.

Appeals were filed by the city of Pittsburgh as to special benefits in the name of George Reineman for $27,500 63; Jacob Kaufmann and others, $118,033 70; Harriet L. Watson and others, $14,014 17; Pittsburgh Opera House Company, $260,000. Appeals have been heretofore filed in the cases of Kaufmann, Watson, Marshall Bros. and Reineman by them as individual property owners.

The next move by the court will be the approval of the court of the awards, aside from these from which appeals have been taken. As to the appeals they will be tried by jury, unless the project is dropped or settlements reached.

ORE DUST CASE ENDS.

Attorneys for Oakland Residents and Jones & Laughlin Make Strong Appeals in Equity Suit.

After the arguments of counsel in the hearing of the ore dust cases against the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company the court took the papers and will render a decision at an early date. For the plaintiffs Attorney Thomas Patterson made a brief address, contending that if the court would grant the injunction, the company would find some successful way to operate its plant.

On the other hand Attorney George C. Wilson for the company, argued that the shutting down of the plant would affect 40,000 persons, and that the ore dust is simply one of the discomforts of a manufacturing city. Attorney Clarence Burleigh for the defendant and Attorney James R. Sterrett for the plaintiffs also made arguments.

DIVORCED AT LAST.

Mrs. Edgar Finally Gets a Decree in Her Suit Against Husband.

Judge Frazer yesterday granted a decree in divorce from bed and board in the case of Charlotte E. Edgar against George S. Edgar. The respondent is ordered to pay his wife $1,300 annually, in weekly payments, the costs of the proceedings, including the master's fee of $700, stenographer's fee of $307 20 and the libellant's attorney, $500. The case has been pending for two years.

In the order the court states that the libel is sustained by the evidence, that Edgar's annual income is $4,000. Attorneys R. B. Scandrett, T. M. Benner and C. F. McKenna represented Mrs. Edgar.

The following executions were issued yesterday: Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company vs. Ira W. Logan and Logan & Worlds, $8,596 88; same vs. Carver vs. V. O. Cherry and W. J. Torrance, $233 20.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

The city of Allegheny sued the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company for $5,875, license fees for poles erected since 1884.

Cora B. Thompson took out letters of administration on the estate of Wilford D. Thompson. Attorney Alex. Gilfillan represents the administratrix.

Judge Robert S. Fraser dismissed the plaintiff's bill in the case of Eliza Merritt against the Pennsylvania Trust Company, administrator of the estate of William Partridge.

The will of Ralph Heiser of McKees Rocks was filed. The estate is worth $24,000, aside from a few charitable bequests to Catholic societies, goes to the decedent's wife. Attorneys Thompson & Thompson represent the estate.

Mrs. Anna McDonald entered suits against the Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railroad Company for $40,000 damages for the death of her son, John McDonald, while in the employ of the defendant company.

An answer was filed by the borough of Oakdale to the equity suit of Hugh H. Morgan, who claimed that by a change of a water course his property on Union avenue is being damaged. It is denied the plaintiff has suffered any loss.

Decrees in distribution were: Estates of Ira S. Wood, $2,188 83; Benjamin J. Campbell, $1,043 25; Mina O'Brien, $1,552 30; Henry W. Wessler, $315 29; Joseph Papciak, $199 20; Thomas Prince, $1,765 46; Christina Vorhiller, $1,074 90; Otto Herbold, $712 76.

The Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western Railroad Company yesterday filed separate answers to the equity suit of the Aryville-Youghiogheny Gas and Coal Company to restrain the railroad from grading over the plaintiff's coal entry, near Bridgeville. The defendant avers that the work is legal.

Under the new act of 1901, providing for the appointment of guardians for weak-minded persons by the orphans' court, Judge W. O. Hawkins appointed the South Side Trust Company guardian of John C. Klein, Sr., a wealthy resident of Baldwin township. The petition was made by his wife, Rebecca Klein. This course obviates the necessity of going into the old lunacy proceedings in common pleas court. Klein is 81 years old and his estate is reputed to be worth $185,000.

BOY THIEVES FREED.

No Prosecution of Charges Against Wilson and Orr.

James J. Wilson and Harold Orr, the Hazelwood youths who were arrested in Milwaukee on the charge of robbing the safe of the Denny estate of $2,000, will not be prosecuted. They were arraigned for a hearing yesterday before Alderman McGovern in the West End. Maj. William F. Aull, manager of the Denny estate, who made the information against them, did not appear and the boys were discharged after a sharp reprimand.

Maj. Aull was reimbursed for the money taken and the fathers of the boys gave a promise for their future good behavior.

A TUG OF WAR.

Coffee Puts Up a Grand Fight.

Among the best of judges of good things in the food line, is the groceryman or his wife. They know why many of their customers purchase certain foods.

The wife of a groceryman in Carthage, N. Y., says: "I have always been a lover of coffee, and therefore drank a great deal of it. About a year and a half ago, I became convinced that it was the cause of my headaches and torpid liver, and resolved to give it up, although the resolution caused me no small struggle, but Postum came to the rescue. From that time on coffee has never found a place on our table, except for company, and then we always feel a dull headache throughout the day for having indulged.

"When I gave up coffee and commenced the use of Postum I was an habitual sufferer from headache. I now find myself entirely free from it, and what is more, have regained my clear complexion, which I had supposed was gone forever.

"I never lose an opportunity to speak in favor of Postum, and have induced many families to give it a trial, and they are invariably pleased with it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

AN ERRATIC MARKET FOR SPECIALTIES

Manhattan, New York Central and Pennsylvania the Active Features---Local Stock Market Ruled Dull but Steady.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The Eastern stock market yesterday was one made up of specialties, the movements in which were not indicative of any change in general conditions. At the opening there was some heaviness, due to lower London quotations and rather large selling for foreign account. A little later in the session, however, the buying of the Rock Island securities, and the resumption of the upward movement in Manhattan gave a stronger tone to the market. Manhattan, after selling at 149¾, advanced rapidly to 158, the highest reached on this movement. About the same time there was increased activity in Pennsylvania, which rose 2½ points to 159¾, and also in New York Central, which advanced from 154 to 158⅝. At one time these two stocks were quoted at the same price, and later the three leaders of the market were separated by only a fraction. Reading was also a very strong feature, advancing to 64⅛, accompanied by rumors that the stock was practically cornered. St. Paul advanced 2 per cent, and the rest of the list was fractionally higher in sympathy. In the closing hour there was a decided change in speculative sentiment, and on free selling the whole market sold off, Manhattan leading with a break below 153. Industrial shares were less active than usual, and fluctuations were narrow, except in Colorado Fuel and Iron, which rose to 87.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Considering the fact that the news of the day was of a rather negative character, the market displayed unusual nervousness, and the heaviness at the close produced an unsettled feeling. The rise in Colorado Fuel and Iron was based upon new developments in the fight for control of this much sought after property. In Monday's Gazette the fact was noted that Mr. Gould had appeared at his office on Sunday and seemed busy. An explanation of this unusual incident was forthcoming yesterday when Mr. Gould issued a circular to stockholders of Colorado Fuel and Iron, in which he stated that during his absence and without his knowledge, consent or authority, a circular, having his name attached was sent to stockholders of Colorado Fuel and Iron asking for proxies to be used at the forthcoming election. Messrs. Hawley and Harriman also issued a circular in which, after referring to the misunderstanding as to Mr. Gould's desire to join them, they asked for a new set of proxies. Mr. Gould also asked for proxies, and as is well known, President Osgood has issued a similar circular. There is an impression that Messrs. Gould, Hawley and Harriman all desire control of Colorado Fuel and Iron for the purpose of having a voice in directing what road shall get the freight originated by the plant. The contest is interesting in the possibilities that may grow out of the election. Wall street believes that something may happen to the much talked of "community of interest" among the railroads of that section.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

The street found some difficulty in reconciling the reports of an affiliation between Manhattan, a Gould property, and New York Central and Pennsylvania, with some other facts affecting the relations between the managers of these corporations. The Pennsylvania and Western Union, another Gould property, are at present fighting each other, and the Wabash, still another Gould property, is encountering opposition from Vanderbilt interests in its efforts to obtain entrance into Pittsburgh. The Standard Oil interests have been credited with supporting the Goulds, particularly with their Wabash and Missouri Pacific plans. The clashing of these various interests, together with this new cause of friction over the control of the Colorado Fuel and Iron, suggest that there may be developments of an interesting character in the stock market—the only medium through which the financial giants of these times first test their strength before settling differences.

Another subject which received some attention during the day was the forthcoming message of President Roosevelt to congress. A Washington dispatch denied the report that two of the members of the cabinet had suggested to the president a modification of his alleged views on the "trust" question. It is generally admitted that Wall street feels a little nervous about the reported attitude of the president, and there are rumors to the effect that influence will be brought to bear upon him to tone down recommendations which he is reported to be considering. It might be just as well to recall, however, that a similar degree of nervousness was said to exist a year ago, which events proved to be unfounded.

There was very little change in the money market. Call loans ranged between 4 and 5 per cent, and time loans were more freely offered at 6 per cent. Sterling exchange was firmer.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

The local stock market yesterday was a very dull and uninteresting affair. The total transactions reached only 2,422 shares stock and $9,000 bonds, and in the general list the changes in prices were with a few exceptions confined to small fractions. Westinghouse Electric opened lower at 102 and closed barely steady at the decline. Airbrake, on the other hand, was firm, selling at 175. Less than 500 shares Crucible Steel common and preferred changed hands all day, and prices closed unchanged at 20 for the common and 85 for the preferred. Only 10 shares United States Steel changed hands at 37, and the preferred was nominally quoted at 83¾ to 84¼. The dullness in the coal stocks was nearly as pronounced, and fluctuations did not exceed ⅛ to ¼. Window Glass was firm, selling at 55½, and that price was bid at the close. Pure Proefing common declined to 29½ and closed at 29¼ bid, while the preferred remained unchanged at 57. Philadelphia Company was firmer, advancing to 47½.

Bank and Trust company shares were firm and higher. Colonial Trust led to 12 advance, selling at 602, a net gain of 12 points. Monongahela National bank scored a new high mark by selling at 290. Commonwealth Trust advanced to 237 and Real Estate Trust rallied to 280. American Trust declined to 147, Bank of Pittsburgh to 133½, and Safe Deposit to 110¾.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Doty & Sutton sold a 50-share lot of Federal National bank at 144 to Lytle & Davis.

The gross earnings of Canadian Pacific for the third week in November increased $124,000.

Sharon Steel stock was quoted on the local board at 159 bid, and American Sewer Pipe at 21 bid.

Content was credited with selling 20,000 shares Rock Island during the first two hours yesterday.

It was Wall street opinion that Philadelphia interests were sellers of all the Metropolitan the market would take.

Carothers & Co. were sellers of Colonial Trust at the advance. Preston, Watt & Schoyer and Burns & Reilly bought.

The comptroller of the currency has approved of the selection of the Mellon National bank of Pittsburgh as a reserve agent for the First National bank of Youngwood, Pa.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized the First National Bank of Osceola, Pa., to begin business on $50,000 capital; John McLarren, president, and E. C. Blandy, cashier.

The comptroller of the currency has authorized J. S. Russell of Salem, Pa., Elias Hatfield, Samuel E. Johnson, J. W. McCombs, Edwin B. Brown and others, to organize the First National bank of New Salem on $25,000 capital.

The announcement of a disagreement between Hamlin Gould in the matter of the Colorado Fuel conflict, was one of the chief items of news. If carried to extremes it might cause trouble which would not be a helpful condition in the market.

The statement of the Panhandle railroad for October shows an increase of $109,822 in gross earnings, an increase of $108,822 in operating expenses and a decrease of $28,631 in net earnings. For the ten months ending October 31, 1902, gross earnings increased $1,745,257 and net earnings increased $155,274.

In Wall street yesterday Colorado Fuel & Iron common sold at 87 simultaneously with sales of United States Steel preferred at 84. This latter stock will be paid on and after that date, J. P. Morgan & Co. announce they are prepared to receive bonds outstanding for exchange into new 5% per cent 100-year first mortgage bonds, 1951, which become a first mortgage on the entire property.

The Boston News Bureau computes the total shrinkage in market value of the copper stocks from their highest record prices to recent quotations at $258,802,500, to which Amalgamated contributes $119,550,000, Calumet & Hecla $44,500,000, Tamarack $12,020,000, Arcadian $11,262,500, Utah $9,712,500, Isle Royale $9,487,500, Quincy $9,000,000, and Osceola $7,250,000. If other copper shares were included—Anaconda, Parrot, Trinity and the smaller properties—the total doubtless would run close to $300,000,000.

The Sanitary district trustees have awarded an issue of $1,500,000 4 per cent one-to-20-year currency bonds to the Illinois Trust & Savings bank, the bid being 101.02. The last previous issue of sanitary canal bonds was taken by the Illinois Trust & Savings bank at 102.38, being on a 3.72 per cent interest basis. The present issue is on a 3.88 per cent interest basis.

Traders who base operations on the "average system" will be interested in the following Wall Street Journal table, which gives the fluctuations of 20 active stocks from May 1 last when the market was at the highest point reached up to that time, this being about 3 points above the high of 1901:

August price 20 stocks, May 1, 1902	121.86
Declined to May 19, 1902	117.49
Rallied to June 18, 1902	121.45
Reacted to June 25	119.72
Rallied to July 26	127.16
Declined to August 18	125.31
Rallied to September 9	129.36
Declined to September 29	120.41
Rallied on September 30	124.78
Declined to October 15	118.35
Rallied to October 17	123.93
Declined to November 14	113.70
Rallied to November 21	118.39

The market has had a variety from the recent decline equal to about one-half the loss. Under ordinary conditions this rally would be sufficient and the indication would be for a fresh setback. It is needless to say that it is a poor rule that will not work every way, as far as the stock market is concerned, and there is no need to construe any rule too strictly.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Several important claims adjoining the property of the Calumet and Pittsburgh Development Company in the Warren mining district of Cochise county, Ariz., have been secured by the Superior Copper Company. The Lake Superior and Bisbee Development Company, with a capital of $400,000, has been organized to develop the properties. Work on the claims will be begun in a few weeks.

Developments on the Calumet and Pittsburgh indicate that the new property is a promising one. The shaft on the Calumet and Pittsburgh, controlled by practically the same people who own the Calumet and Arizona, has passed through formations almost identical with those opened while sinking the Calumet and Arizona shaft from surface. Occasional stringers of high-grade ore have been encountered and the permanent ore body will no doubt be opened at the 1,000 or 1,100-foot level.

Returns from the Calumet and Arizona smelter, which was blown in last week, indicate that the property is every whit as rich as expected. Telegraphic advices confirm the belief that the ore will prove a high-grade one.

The stockholders of the Comstock of Park City have voted to increase the capitalization by adding 100,000 shares, making the total 300,000 shares. It is reported that one operator has taken 20,000 shares of the increase at $1.25 a share. The other 50,000 will be placed in the treasury. With the income from the sale of the 50,000, the new mill will be paid for and other debts of the company paid off.

At a meeting of the May Day directors last Monday, it was decided to negotiate with the Anderson-Thompson syndicate of Leadville and a contract for the handling of the ores in the property.

A 22-inch pay streak has been discovered in the Silversmith mine near Basin. The average value of the ore in the streak is $190 a ton.

Another retort of gold has been brought to the United States assay office at Salt Lake from the sunday property in Granite county. It was valued at about $1,000. The Sunday is operated by the Butte and Boston Gold Mining Company. Ten retorts, with a value ranging from $1,000 to $2,000, have been shipped from the property to the assay office since the mill was started several months ago.

A strike of high-grade ore is reported from the Leslie mine in Missoula county. The ledge is 12 feet wide and the ore is said to be very rich.

A remarkably rich gold strike is reported at the Eagle and Branagan mine in the West Fisher district. At the face of the tunnel an ore chute 18 feet wide between the walls has been found and from this large ore body some wonderfully free gold specimens have been taken. An average assay has not yet been made, but the bullion is the richest yet run through the mill.

The Lake Portage and Calumet Mining Company, a Hancock, Mich., corporation, has taken up the bond of the Bachelor group of gold claims in the West Fisher district. The terms are not given out, but it is understood a large sum is involved, the claims having shown up some very rich ore, and the average of sufficient value to insure good returns. The deed was given by John D. Ryan, president of the Daly-West Company of Butte, who purchased the claims last spring.

The Piegan Consolidated Mining Company has been incorporated by Salt Lake capitalists to operate several mines in the Marysville district. The ores show an average of $10 a ton in gold, and it is estimated that there are 200,000 tons in sight. A mill will be erected in the spring to treat the ores. The claims are located on Belmont mountain in the vicinity of the Butte, Pearmont, Belmont and Empire, noted producers in the early days. The main body of ore so far as developed is in the Piegan claim.

PITTSBURGH ARCHITECTS PLANNING EXHIBITION

Hamilton Stewart Buys Fine Home at Osborn Station---Big Oakland Deal Closed---New Hotel for Colonia.

The Pittsburgh Architectural club is preparing to give another public exhibition of drawings similar to that given three years ago. At its monthly meeting last Wednesday the following were appointed a committee to secure a building for the exhibition and set the date: John J. Comus, Charles F. Ingham and H. M. Kropff. At the last exhibition, which was a notable success, over 3,000 drawings were on exhibition, many of them coming from London and Paris. In the coming exhibition drawings will be welcomed from all places which have a chapter in the American Architectural league, as well as from abroad. An effort has been made to secure quarters in Carnegie Institute for the show, but this failed, as the rooms were secured in advance for other purposes. The club now has in mind part of the Pittsburgh exhibition and if an arrangement can be effected, will probably hold the exhibition there. The probable date will be the first week in April.

The Architectural club has over 40 members and three flourishing classes each week. There are a class in perspective drawing, one in orders and one in elementary design, all well patronized by younger architects. The officers of the club are: President, George W. Schwan; vice president, B. Morgan Nisbet; secretary, Daniel Crone; treasurer, Walter H. Stulen; chairman of entertainment committee, F. Van Maldren.

Good Sale at Osborne.

Through the agency of Joseph P. Rankin & Co., the old Russell H. Boggs residence at Osborne station has been sold for $17,400, to Hamilton Stewart, secretary and treasurer of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, who secured title from George McClendey of the firm of George S. Haines & Co., trunk manufacturers. The property faces 116 feet on Osborne road and is 250 feet deep. The residence is a modern brick and stone dwelling, containing 12 rooms. Almost directly opposite this property are the Bishop and Sands properties lately sold to J. J. Lawrence and Christopher Magee, Jr. The Boggs property will be improved and occupied as a home.

The deeds were registered yesterday conveying to the Pittsburgh Real Estate Company two parcels of real estate in Oakland for $104,500. One property, at the northwest corner of Forbes and Atwood streets, consists of two lots one 38.5x127 feet and the other 33x127 feet. It was secured from Charles H. Chance for $72,000. The other parcel is two lots of the same size adjoining the first plot in Atwood street for which $32,500 was paid. This property belongs to Alexander Carter. The company is erecting a four-story brick store and office building on the corner lots and a four-story apartment house in the rear.

J. G. Brown proves to have been the buyer of the J. Grant Anderson property on the north side of Irwin avenue, near Wighiman street, Twenty-second ward. The lot measures 100x227 feet and the consideration was $16,000.

New Town Gets New Hotel.

A four-story fireproof brick hotel, to cost at least $25,000, is to be built in the new town of Colonia from plans being prepared by Architects Hodgens & Burns. The owner will be A. E. Girard of Monaco and building will start this winter. The same architects are preparing plans for a three-story brick apartment house for Norman McFerron in Irwin avenue, Allegheny. The building will contain 12 flats of five rooms each and cost about $18,000. The same architects have plans for a brick veneered residence in Braddock avenue, to cost $8,000, and a two-story store and flat building for Samuel Goldstein in Penn avenue, to cost $3,000. They also awarded the contract for the Evangelical Lutheran church in the Brownsville road to Ensell & Dryden for $6,000.

A. & S. Wilson are building a three-story brick and stone residence in Grove street for F. B. Smith, to cost $40,000.

Contractors Rose & Fisher have the foundations in for the four-story bank and office building of the Merchants' Savings and Trust Company at No. 1410 Fifth avenue. The building will cost about $40,000.

Architect George K. Evans has awarded to J. G. Riegler the contract for seven two-story brick veneered houses in Marsden avenue, near Chadsworth street. They will belong to Thomas Whalen and will cost about $11,000.

Architects Thomas Boyd & Co. let to Wesley & Cochran the contract for a two-story brick veneered residence for Edward E. Abram. It will cost $10,000 and will be erected in Mains street.

Architect H. J. Linderman is taking bids on a brick store and flat building for William Mathale, to cost $10,000.

CREAMERY BUTTER IS STILL ADVANCING

Fresh Produce Prices Stronger. Turkey Supply Limited With Indications Higher.

Receipts of hay and grain were over 100 cars yesterday, representing arrivals on Sunday and Monday. The market was steady. Hst of quotations ruling last week continuing in force. While, of course, the bulk of the receipts was made up of hay and oats, there was an increased proportion of corn, though not more than could readily be sold. Straw was in light supply, and quotations remain exceedingly firm. There were no special features in any line.

The wheat market was firm, and flour remained unchanged, selling being strong at last week's prices. The northwestern mills have been running to their full capacity for several weeks past, trying to keep up with the large demand both foreign and domestic, and the market is in a strong condition. Recent flour advances were warranted by conditions surrounding both wheat and flour, and were perfectly legitimate.

The coffee market was firmer on account of a shrinkage in receipts at Brazilian ports, indicating smaller results from present crops than expected. Already prices in South America are higher, and importers are hopeful that increased values may prevail in this country.

The three advances in refined sugar last week made demand no less, and the situation is firm. It is by no means certain that refiners will not make another advance before long, as it has been asserted in some quarters that there will be 5-cent sugar before the top is reached. This would mean another increase of 10 points. The world's visible supply of raw sugar showed a marked increase during the past week, but the market held strong notwithstanding, and is still very active.

Markets Very Firm.

Reports from the east are to the effect that the canned goods situation is coming round into better shape, and that holders of tomatoes are stiffening up, refusing to make concessions asked for where desirable lines are in question. Several unsettling features occurred in the market in the early part of this month on account of a few packers showing an anxious desire to sell, which hurt the market. This condition has been overcome and the situation is much firmer. Corn is very firm, and string beans are in excellent demand, while all lines show increased request.

The potato market is steady to strong, with stock in yards clearing up well and holders of fancies refusing to make any concessions. The same condition holds in regard to sweet potatoes, which are showing no less strength than characterized the market last week.

There is a better feeling in apples; as stocks in yards are pretty well cleaned up, and the railroads will likely lift the embargo from this week on. There are still large stocks in yards and in stores, but, with the cleaning out of the produce yard there is less hurry to sell, and the situation is more firm. The approach of a holiday is making the tone firmer, as a good trade is expected this week.

Poultry Prices Higher.

In fact the coming Thanksgiving Day is making itself felt in all produce lines, prices shifting up, about 1c all around. Turkeys are already higher in price, and other lines will probably follow. Grapes are about out of the market and are no longer quoted. Lemons are arriving in better quantities from Sicily in freer quantities, and prices will probably be lower this week.

Poultry is firm. Dealers are looking for a price of about 18 cents a pound to be paid for dressed turkeys, the demand for them being very strong, with less attention paid to live, which buyers refuse. Farmers were afraid to dress many turkeys during the warm weather we have been having, and there is prospect of a short supply this week.

Geese and ducks are scarce, and in good demand also, prices for plucked sold on this entire receipts yesterday, 22 coops, at prices a cent per pound above ruling quotations. Chickens are not coming forward in any large quantities, and the market is steady.

A letter has been received in the quotations for rabbits, which are popular at this season, and are wanted for many Thanksgiving Day tables. Sucking pigs are also a shade higher. Top of the market being now $3.50. There is a steady and growing demand for game, but quotations are unchanged from those ruling last week.

The regular Monday advance in the price of creamery butter, which has been the rule for several weeks, was not omitted yesterday, although the increase was not so great as that of a week ago, the advance yesterday amounting to a half cent. The market is firm, especially for extra table grades, which are scarce. Eggs remained unchanged, but steady at last week's quotations, while cheese is firm

A heavy run of cattle marked business at the East Liberty stock yards today, 140 carloads arriving, 50 loads more than came in last Monday. Trade was easy in consequence, and prices 10 to 20 cents lower than at the close of the week. All grades were affected, but the principal change was noticeable in choice cattle.

Choice, 1,400 to 1,600 lbs, $6 00@6 20; prime, 1,200 to 1,400 lbs, $5 75@5 90; good, 1,000 to 1,200 lbs, $5 25@5 50; tidy, 1,000 to 1,150 lbs, $4 25@5 00; fair, 900 to 1,000 lbs, $3 50@4 10; common, 600 to 800 lbs, $2 00@3 25; cows, bulls and stags, $3 00@4 00; common to good fat cows, $1 75@2 00; heifers, 700 to 1,100 lbs, $3 00@4 00; fresh cows, $40 00@55 00; common to rair, $20 00@35 00.

Hogs.

Hog receipts at the Central stock yards were the same as those of last Monday, 70 double decks, and the market was slow at a decline of 10 to 15 cents for all grades except heavy, which sold 5 cents lower. The conditions surrounding the market were easy, liberal receipts for several weeks having had a pronounced influence on the situation.

Prime heavies, $6 20@6 35; best mediums, $6 10@6 15; heavy Yorkers, $6 05@6 10; light Yorkers, $6 00@6 05; pigs, $5 90@6 00; roughs, $5 00@5 90.

Sheep and Lambs.

But 20 cars of sheep and lambs arrived today, 5 loads less than receipts a week ago. The market was active, at an advance of 10 to 15 cents. Veal calves were in fair supply and lower than on last Monday, though selling at about the same figures as closed the week.

Best wethers, 80 to 100 lbs, $3 75@4 00; good, $3 to 90 lbs $3 50@3 65; mixed, 75 to 80 lbs, $2 75@3 10; culls and common, $1 50@2 00; choice lambs, $5 40@5 60; common to good, $3 00@4 00; veal calves, $7 50@8 25; heavy and thin, $3 50@5 25.

Wabash President Here With Many Interests to Care For

President Joseph Ramsey, Jr., of the Wabash spent a busy day in Pittsburgh yesterday and will remain here until this evening. He came to Pittsburgh from New York and will go to St. Louis.

The purpose of the trip at this time combines his regular review of the progress of the work on the Wabash extension with the annual banquet of the chamber of commerce this evening, at which he will be a guest. Much interest attaches to anything he may say publicly at that time in regard to railroad conditions in and about this city.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Ramsey had a conference with J. T. Blair, president, and E. D. Fulton, secretary of the Little Kanawha railroad. The contracts for the extensions of this line, which have been under consideration for several weeks, are expected to be announced today. They will total several millions of dollars.

In regard to the increase of railroad freight rates, Mr. Ramsey speaks plainly in favor of that move. He was already on record as saying that this is necessary, and this position he reaffirms. He was present at the meeting of the railroad executives in New York on Wednesday and concurred in the movement made at that time for higher rates.

Mr. Ramsey also reaffirmed his statement, published in The Gazette on his last visit, that he would not call for bids for the construction of the handsome Pittsburgh passenger station until the ordinances granting the Wabash the needful franchises in Pittsburgh are in effect. His reliance for the passage of the ordinances still remains based upon the need of the city for greater transportation facilities, and the favorable methods of entering the city which the Wabash proposes.

PENNSY GETS PERMISSION.

May Construct Tunnel Railroad to Connect Pennsylvania and Long Island Systems.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The application of the Pennsylvania, New York & Long Island Railroad Company for permission to construct a tunnel railroad in this city to connect the Pennsylvania and Long Island roads, was granted today by the state railroad commissioners at a meeting at the Fifth Avenue hotel.

Vice President Rhea of the Pennsylvania railroad said the location chosen for the terminal station, within 700 feet of Broadway, between Seventh and Ninth avenues, Thirty-first and Thirty-third streets, was regarded as the one that would be most suitable for all time.

B., R. & P.'S BUSY YEAR.

Results of $3,000,000 Capital Increase Appear in Many Places.

It has been just a year since the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh authorized the increase of the capital of the railroad by $3,000,000. The results of the expenditure of the money have become very apparent in the short time.

Of the 45 miles in the extension from Indiana Branch Junction, three miles north of Punxsutawney, on the main line, south to Blacklick, 30 miles is now graded and ready for track. The remainder will be ready for track next spring. There is much heavy work on this contract. One of the tunnels is 700 feet long. In addition several bridges are being built.

Between Lane's Mills and Falls Creek the company installed six miles of second track, which went into use on November 1. Between Johnsonburg and Ridgway nine miles of second track is building. On five miles the grading is completed. The latter part will be in operation by December 15.

Between Bradford and Howard four miles of double track is laying, and six miles between Carrolton and Great Valley will soon be in use. Three bridges are being rebuilt, with changed grades. This alters the maximum grade between these points from 50 feet to 21 feet to the mile.

Many Low Western Rates in 1903.

That there will be a number of the low rate excursions to the leading western resorts, as well as to the Pacific coast, next season is shown by the results of the meeting of the Transcontinental Passenger association at St. Louis last week. One fare for the round trip was made the rate for the following events: Presbyterian assembly, May 12 to 18, Los Angeles; Old Guard of New York, Los Angeles; National Association of Plumbers, San Francisco; Baptist Young People's union, San Francisco. For the G. A. R. encampment the rate was fixed at $50 for the round trip from Chicago. The National Live Stock association at Kansas City in June and the Christian Endeavor society at Denver in July, both are allowed rates of one fare for the round trip. Other low rates were announced for many smaller events.

Want Higher Pay.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the westbound lines out of Chicago, have determined to present a new scale asking for an increase of 15 per cent upon the present scale. The Brotherhood conference for this purpose will be held at St. Louis December 1, with Grand Chief P. M. Arthur as chairman. The recent 10 per cent increase which has been announced for the enginemen among the other employes on several of the Chicago westbound roads will undoubtedly be urged as a reason for refusing more.

Rushing the Work.

The work of shortening the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh and of double-tracking all parts of it will be pushed most vigorously. Between Yellow Creek and Irondale, O., it is proposed to lay out a new route. It is said that this route both shortens the distance and provides far more favorable grades than the present line.

RAILROAD NOTES.

The American Locomotive Company is building four engines for the Lake Erie, Alliance & Wheeling.

Baggageman Frank Baer, who recently had his hand crushed while delivering papers through the door of his car, and who has since undergone a painful operation, will soon be on duty again. His run is on the Southwest branch of the Pennsylvania.

I. A. Smith, division engineer of the St. Louis, Memphis & Southwestern, has resigned to accept the position of superintendent of construction with James Stewart & Co., the contracting firm of this city.

G. B. Owen, formerly division engineer of the Baltimore & Ohio, has been appointed engineer of maintenance of way of the West Virginia Central at Elkins, W. Va., to succeed J. W. Stearns, resigned.

The Pennsylvania yesterday put into use the new second track from Paint Creek to Windber, on the South Fork branch, and the new second track from Crawford to Harbor bridge on the Erie & Ashtabula division.

It is stated on official authority that the Cumberland Valley railroad will not be double-tracked. Many long sidings, are, however, being laid between Martinsburg, W. Va., and Harrisburg to accommodate the business which the Baltimore & Ohio now delivers to the Cumberland Valley for exchange with the Reading.

TO CHINA IN ONE YEAR.

Final Agreement Between the United States and the Pacific Cable Company Concluded.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Arrangements by which the deep sea soundings and surveys made by the Nero under the direction of the navy department are to be turned over to the Commercial Cable Company for use in laying the Pacific cable beyond the Hawaiian islands, were completed today. The representatives of the cable company examined the charts at the department and expressed themselves as highly gratified with the thoroughness of the work.

The only provision of the terms laid down by the government to which the company took exception was that providing for American operatives. This was modified at the request of the company to provide for American operatives when obtainable.

The charts will carry the cable beyond the Hawaiian islands to Midway islands, and from the Midway islands to Guam. From Guam two links will extend, one to Manila and the other to Yokohama.

The line complete to China is to be open within a year. Only stations under American control are to be used between the United States and China.

The United States shall at all times have the right to purchase the cable lines. During war, or when war is imminent, the government is to have entire control and may cut any line at pleasure for military reasons.

Weather—Rain. Tuesday, Nov. 25, 1902.

Today the Center of Attraction Is Among the Wraps.

A manufacturer's line of sample Wraps and Coats for women which includes such styles as Monte Carlo, Mandarin, English box, three-quarter, full length, evening and street Wraps, besides those comfortable garments for murky weather, Newmarkets and Raglans, go on sale at 8 o'clock this morning at substantially reduced prices.

Many of them were bought in New York last week, arrived yesterday, and are ready this morning, marked at about half of the regular prices.

Our buyer was fortunate in having a noted New York manufacturer offer him the garments at about half his regular prices and that is how they come to be offered to you at the same relative reductions. All the materials that women favor, such as Sicilians, Peau de Soie, Zibelines, Broadcloth, Novelty Mixtures, etc. Many of the garments have no duplicates.

Some examples of the reduced prices:

$20 for some elegant samples of Monte Carlo Coats in all the fabrics that are popular this season. The price is in no wise indicative of their real value.

$25 for silk and cloth Coats, both half and Monte Carlo lengths. Both these styles are elegantly lined.

$30 for silk and cloth Wraps, exquisitely finished, many of them trimmed with silk frogs, ornaments, lace and strapped, and all elegantly lined.

$35, $40, $50, $60 and up to $65, some of the handsomest creations of the year. In this group detailed description is out of the question. Dashing effects as well as the more quiet. They are something unusual at the price.

$10 and $15 the manufacturer's samples and broken lots of Monte Carlo Coats, as well as fitted back Jackets—Kersey, Frieze, Montagnacs, Cheviots—this season's most favored styles—not a garment in the lot but what is worth $20 and $25.

$10 for full length Wraps such as Raglans and Newmarkets. We sell them in a regular way for $25 and $35. Novelty Cloth, black, tan, gray, blue and solid colors or mixtures, either full lined with fine satin or only body and sleeves lined. At $20 the same materials in finer weaves that are easily worth $35 to $40.

Handsome Linen Sets for the Thanksgiving Table.

And as Christmas is only some four weeks off, you have the satisfaction of knowing, if you purchase now, that your Christmas table will be "laid" with something elegant in the way of table napery. There is no larger Linen collection in the western part of the State than is exhibited in our Linen Store. There are no prices so low in the whole State. We maintain these low prices by bringing over from the Linen centers of Europe the largest importations that come to the city.

$5 for sets comprised of bleached Damask Tablecloth, 2x2½ yards, or 2x3 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$7.50 for sets comprising bleached Damask Tablecloth, 2½x3 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$12.50 for sets comprising bleached Damask Tablecloth, 2½x4 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$22.50 for sets comprising bleached Damask Tablecloth, 2½x4 yards, or other sizes up to 2½x6 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$32.50 for sets comprising bleached Damask Tablecloth, 2½x6 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$52.50 for sets comprising bleached hemstitched Damask Tablecloth, either 2½x4 yards or 2½x5 yards, and one dozen Napkins to match.

$11.50 each for bleached Damask Tablecloths, either 2½x3 yards or 3x3 yards.

$15.50 each for bleached Damask Tablecloths, either 2½x4 yards or 3x3 yards.

Special large sizes of bleached Damask Tablecloths, 3½x3½ yards, from $27.50 to $45; 4x4 yards, from $52.50 to $75.

Flannel Shirtwaist Patterns Half Price.

They were on special table under the dome yesterday, and caught the fancy of women mightily. Today they are back home in the basement.

$2.00 each for $4.00 patterns.
$2.50 each for $5.00 patterns.
$3.00 each for $6.00 patterns.
$3.50 each for $7.50 patterns.

The above patterns contain enough of plain Flannel embroidered in pretty contrasting colors, with washable embroidery silk, to make a handsome waist. The ground colors are light blue, pink, lavender, brown, green, tan, cardinal, navy and black.

Raincoats.

Ugly weather puts one in the notion of the protective Raincoats. All styles here for men, women, boys and girls.

Women's—$10, $15, $25.

New arrivals, handsome Cravenettes, rain-proof Coverts and Cheviots—tans, greens, grays and Scotch flake mixtures. The most popular style is the one with double breast, strap back and belt, so cut as to form a blouse effect in front.

An entirely new fabric for Raincoats is silk rubber. We are showing coats of this material at $65, and are sole agents for this new idea—pure silk over fine rubber. The coat is made like an evening wrap, triple cape and large sleeves. We do not have this garment in stock, we have them made to order. Sample only on display.

Girls'—$4, $8.50 to $27.

The $4 Raincoat is of blue rain-proof cloth cape; at $8.50 box styles in tan and oxford.

Very soft Raincoats of properly treated cloths, $10 and up to $27.

Men's—$18 to $30.

This includes Raincoats for young men. There is no rubber about these Raincoats, and yet they turn rain as though they were all rubber. They serve the dual purposes of a dressy top coat for all occasions, and a rain protector when the weather calls for it.

Boys'—$2.25 to $5.50.

Boys don't take to Raincoats—Gum Coats and Mackintoshes are more to their liking. Gum Coats, $2.25; Mackintoshes, double-breasted, velvet collar, black, $5; tan, $5.50.

Carriage Robes and "Moting" Robes.

Fine Robes of English Mohair and Plush—direct importation, and a color range that will enable the carriage trimmings to be matched.

On sale in the Men's Store at $35 to $70.

Cheaper Robes in beaver, kersey and whipcords, at $2.50 and up to $16.

Fine line of Automobile Robes—leather and cloth—green, maroon, black—$9.50 to $15.

Our Special $1 Umbrellas

for men, women and children is the best value that can be found. It is a twilled gloria, paragon frame, Natural wood handles. 24, 26 and 28 inches. A round dollar to keep the rain from playing on you isn't much.

Special lines of ladies' pure silk Umbrellas, 7-inch handles, of pearl, silver, gold, ivory, etc., at $7.50, formerly sold for $9 and up to $12.

Genuine Alaska Sealskin Coats $225.

At this price, one that is unusual for genuine Alaska Seal, there is a saving, for every woman that buys, of $50 on each Coat.

It is only fair to say that we have but a limited number of them, and when they are gone we will not be able again this season to offer like quality and workmanship for less than $275, and we rather think the price will go to $300.

Our reputation as well as our guarantee back of every one of these fine Coats. Surely that means something in the buying of fine Furs.

The style of these genuine Alaska Seal Coats is double box front, large storm collar and revers—lined with guaranteed satin and made by the best workmen that money can employ.

NOTE—There may be enough to last the week out, but we advise early inspection as well as selection. It is the greatest opportunity for women who want something handsome—and what is so handsome as Seal?—that has ever been granted women since we have sold Furs.

Many other lines of Fur Coats, in fact the largest variety this store ever carried—among which are

Seal Coats at $100. Only about 6 of these, and they are Lobos Seal Coats that were made to sell for $150. Our demand for this class of Coats being limited, we now price them $100. They are as good, if not better, than many advertised Seal Coats for $150. If you desire a low-priced genuine Seal Coat, any of these are as good as you will find anywhere for $50 more.

Nearseal Box Coats at $30. With either notched or shawl collar. Lined with good quality of fine satin.

Nearseal Blouse Coats at $42.50, bishop sleeve, turn-back cuffs, ribbon belt with handsome steel buckle.

Nearseal Coats at $45 and up to $60—the best assimilation that skill can produce and the best that money can buy. Made by skilled workmen and lined with satin, Box front and fitted back. New full sleeve.

Squirrel Fur, Coats, Stoles, Boas, Etc.

If any doubt existed as to the popularity of these pretty soft Furs for the coming Winter, that doubt has been dispelled the past week by the exceedingly great favor shown this Fur at the season's fashion parade, the New York Horse Show.

Our representatives were there daily, and report a preponderance of petit gris in Jackets, long Wraps, Scarfs, Victorines, Boas, Muffs, either in gray or artistically combined with Royal Ermine.

We anticipated the demand, believing the supply of fine skins would soon be exhausted, and we bought heavy. There is no finer collection exhibited than in our new and enlarged Fur Section of our 2d floor, where this fur is shown in an almost endless variety of styles and combinations. By looking ahead we made it possible to offer the deep, rich colored skins at the price we would now have to pay for far inferior skins, owing to the rapidity at which this Squirrel Fur has leaped into popularity. At random a few prices:

Squirrel Blouses trimmed with Ermine collar and revers, full sleeves, finished with Ermine cuffs, fancy brocade lining, price $225.

Squirrel Box Coats, Ermine collar and revers, full sleeves, gray satin lining, price $225.

Squirrel "Moting" Coats, three-quarter length, full sleeves of which the cuffs are turned back, $225.

Squirrel "Moting" Coats, trimmed with black Fox collar, full sleeves with black Fox cuffs, satin lining, price $200.

Squirrel Coats in the three-quarter length style, Ermine collar and revers, flare cuffs of Ermine, lined with fancy brocade, $275.

Medium to Finest Boas.

At $10 we show genuine Sable Fox Boas with large brush tails, a Neckpiece that is decidedly handsome.

At $18 and up to $250 we are showing many grades of Squirrel Pelerines and Squirrel Boas. Some handsome Boas between $18 and $50.

For the special price of $30 we are showing large Isabella Fox Boas—72 inches long—finished with brush tails and claws.
